The World of Freedom Robert Nichols, 2014-10-15 Martin Heidegger and Michel Foucault are two of the most important and influential thinkers of the twentieth century Each has spawned volumes of secondary literature and sparked fierce polarizing debates particularly about the relationship between philosophy and politics And yet to date there exists almost no work that presents a systematic and comprehensive engagement of the two in relation to one another The World of Freedom addresses this lacuna Neither apology nor polemic the book demonstrates that it is not merely interesting but necessary to read Heidegger and Foucault alongside one another if we are to properly understand the shape of twentieth century Continental thought Through close scholarly engagement with primary texts Robert Nichols develops original and demanding insights into the relationship between fundamental and historical ontology modes of objectification and subjectification and an ethopoetic conception of freedom In the process his book also reveals the role that Heidegger's reception in France played in Foucault's intellectual development the first major work to do so while taking full advantage of the recent publication of Foucault's last Collège de France lectures of the 1980s which mark a return to classical Greek and Roman philosophy and thus to familiar Heideggerian loci of concern

The Rule of Freedom Patrick Joyce, 2003 The liberal governance of the nineteenth century state and city depended on the rule of freedom As a form of rule it relied on the production of certain kinds of citizens and patterns of social life which in turn depended on transforming both the material form of the city its layout architecture infrastructure and the ways it was inhabited and imagined by its leaders citizens and custodians Focusing mainly on London and Manchester but with reference also to Glasgow Dublin Paris Vienna colonial India and even contemporary Los Angeles Patrick Joyce creatively and originally develops Foucauldian approaches to historiography to reflect on the nature of modern liberal society His consideration of such artifacts as maps and censuses sewers and markets public libraries and parks and of civic governments and city planning are intertwined with theoretical interpretations to examine both the impersonal often invisible forms of social direction and control built into the infrastructure of modern life and the ways in which these mechanisms both shape culture and social life and engender popular resistance

Supranational Governance of Europe's Area of Freedom, Security and Justice Christian Kaunert, John Occhipinti, Sarah Leonard, 2016-03-17 This book examines the evolution towards increased supranational governance in the EU's Area of Freedom Security and Justice AFSJ At the end of 2009 a successor programme to the Tampere and Hague Programmes was developed under the Swedish Presidency Called the Stockholm Programme it was adopted at a special EU Council Summit on 10-11 December 2009 The new agenda covers the period 2010-2014 and emphasises six areas of priority In the context of these priorities as well as the innovations introduced by the Lisbon Treaty this edited book analyses policy change in the AFSJ especially as it has been affected by the rise of supranational governance in this domain From police cooperation and crime fighting to border management and counter terrorism much has changed and the EU has taken yet another step forward in the direction of supranational governance However the various contributions also highlight that there are still problems and challenges remaining for the AFSJ Collectively this book considers how consequential the Lisbon Treaty has been for the AFSJ as well as how successful the EU has been in achieving its stated goals as expressed in the Stockholm Programme Thus this book makes a significant contribution to the scholarly investigation of the AFSJ but also to the study of European integration in general This book was published as a special issue of the Cambridge Review of International Affairs

The paradox of freedom in everyday leadership practice Rikke Horup Sørensen, 2025-03-26 This thesis is an autoethnographic inquiry into the identity work of leaders working in the public sector in Denmark The research is about how degrees of freedom can be experienced when it is acknowledged that leaders are paradoxically both enabled and constrained through interdependencies with others The main puzzle is about what is involved in the processes of leaders negotiating identity when thinking about the mutual constitution of individuality and sociality This research argues that identity work within leadership is based on contradictions and ambiguities as well as how leaders simultaneously form and are formed by social rules and norms The inquiry illustrates the temporality of leadership identity It emphasizes how the human capacity to adapt to different power relations comes with either the risk of indeterminacy and a weak sense of self or with the risk of determinacy and a weak sense of the other Losing the paradoxical understanding of these interdependencies might result in either dogmatism or relativism This research provides critical insight into both positions
