Growing Up in Coal Country Susan Campbell Bartoletti, 1996 Describes what life was like especially for children in coal mines and mining towns in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Growing Up in Coal Country Susan Campbell

Bartoletti, 1996 Describes what life was like especially for children in coal mines and mining towns in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Undermined in Coal Country William Conlogue, 2017-09-29 Unearthing new ways of thinking about place pedagogy and the environment On the Measures argues that place is unstable To study dimensions of place the book explores two working landscapes 1 Scranton Pennsylvania an undermined former coal mining city and 2 Marywood

University a Scranton institution that confronts the aftermath of mining Scranton and Marywood have endured the narrative of extraction that the Anthracite Region once celebrated Recounting removal of parts of this place to feed other places the story defines loss here as gain there the city and college have suffered but the United States has grown stronger The tale ends badly however because the narrative arcs toward exhaustion the storyline offers little about renewal Growing up with this narrative Scrantonians have been fleeing the city for decades the dominant trend among young people has long been to learn here to move elsewhere Too few environmental humanists have sufficiently examined the primary place where many work the university When they do they often do not link the university to its local regional and national environmental contexts In exploring where Conlogue teaches he shows how bound up places of learning are with unsettling sites of resource extraction Defending the study of literature and history On the Measures shows university students that the disciplines they study are parts of an interdisciplinary web of meaning that includes the contexts of the places where they learn In Coal

Country Judith Hendershot, 1987 Describes life in a small mining town in the 1930s Growing Up in Coal Country Susan Campbell Bartoletti, 1999-09-01 Describes what life was like especially for children in coal mines and mining towns in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries In Coal Country Judith Hendershot, Thomas B Allen, 1992-08-01 A child growing up in a coal mining community finds both excitement and hard work in a life deeply affected by the local industry

Lost Coal Country of Northeastern Pennsylvania Lorena Beniquez, 2017 Lost Coal Country of Northeastern Pennsylvania documents the region's disappearing anthracite history which shaped the legacy of the United States of America and the industrial revolution The coal mines breakers coal miners homes and railroads have all steadily disappeared With only one coal breaker left in the entire state it was time to record what would soon be lost Unfortunately one piece of history that persists is underground fires that ravage communities like Centralia Blazing for over 50 years the flames of Centralia will not be doused anytime soon Images featured in the book include the St Nicholas coal breaker Huber coal breaker Steamtown National Historic Site Lackawanna Coal Mine Tour Eckley Miners Village Centralia and the Knox Mine disaster A hybrid history book and travel guide Lost Coal Country of Northeastern Pennsylvania is one final recounting of what is gone and what still remains Reckoning in Coal Country Mason Adams, Dustin Bleizeffer, 2020-10-27 From the hills of West Virginia to the wind swept prairies of Campbell County Wyoming journalists Mason Adams and Dustin Bleizeffer explore the cultural political and economic obstacles faced by rural communities hoping to survive and thrive in a world without coal Appalachia and Wyoming are dramatically different places but they also offer each other cautionary tales success stories and reasons for resilience and hope While the story continues to unfold Reckoning in Coal Country provides a snapshot of these communities at a critical inflection point in American history Coal Country Jerry Bruce Thomas,1972

Rainbows in Coal Country Carole Harris Barton,2005-03 Hope runs like a river through Rainbows in Coal Country a tale of Carole s childhood adventures aboveground at the 1940s coal mine in Kentucky where Daddy works and her parents 12 year struggle to save enough money to move into town Their purpose Educational opportunities for Carole and John her older brother Adversity abounds Daddy is injured when the mine caves in Mother almost dies in childbirth Carole and John escape a dynamite blast and Carole nearly drowns in a strip mine pit Never give up hope Mother and Daddy say showing Carole a rainbow But why does Daddy never say goodbye And what is so important about the things Mother locks in her cedar chest The answers lie in this life affirming story of a spunky little girl and a God fearing family a sometimes sad often amusing finally triumphant real life testimony that hope is the fuel of a purposeful life Growing Up in Coal Country Susan

Campbell Bartoletti,1996 Describes what life was like especially for children in coal mines and mining towns in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Trouble in Coal Country Douglas Kiker,1977 Cooking in Coal Country Harold Bowers,Dorothy Bowers,Lackawanna Coal Mine (Museum),2006* Sewn in Coal Country Robert P.

Wolensky,2020-01-14 By the mid 1930s Pennsylvania s anthracite coal industry was facing a steady decline Mining areas such as the Wyoming Valley around the cities of Wilkes Barre and Pittston were full of willing workers including women who proved irresistibly attractive to New York City s runaway shops ladies apparel factories seeking lower labor and other costs The International Ladies Garment Workers Union ILGWU soon followed and the Valley became a thriving hub of clothing production and union activity This volume tells the story of the area s apparel industry through the voices of men and women who lived it Drawing from an archive of over sixty audio recorded interviews within the Northeastern Pennsylvania Oral and Life History Collection Sewn in Coal Country showcases sixteen stories told by workers shop owners union leaders and others The interview subjects recount the ILGWU led movement to organize the shops the conflicts between the district union and the national office in New York the solidarity unionism approach of leader Min Matheson the role of organized crime within the business and the failed efforts to save the industry in the 1980s and 1990s Robert P Wolensky places the narratives in the larger context of American clothing manufacturing during the period and highlights their broader implications for the study of labor gender the working class and oral history Highly readable and thoroughly enlightening this significant contribution to the study of labor history and women s history will appeal to anyone interested in the relationships among workers unions management and community the effects of economic change on an area and its residents the role of organized crime within the industry and Pennsylvania history especially the social history of industrialization and deindustrialization during the twentieth century

Undermined in Coal Country Bill Conlogue, 2017-10-15 A study of lives and landscapes in Pennsylvania's Lackawanna Valley and what the region's history of mining reveals about human folly and endeavor The Chronicle of Higher Education Deep mining ended decades ago in Pennsylvania's Lackawanna Valley The barons who made their fortunes have moved on Low wages and high unemployment haunt the area and the people left behind wonder whether to stay or seek their fortunes elsewhere Bill Conlogue explores how two overlapping coal country landscapes Scranton Pennsylvania and Marywood University have coped with the devastating aftermath of mining Examining the far reaching environmental effects of mining this beautifully written book asks bigger questions about what it means to influence a landscape to this extent and then to live in it In prose rivaling that of Annie Dillard and John McPhee Conlogue argues that if we are serious about solving environmental problems if we are serious about knowing where we are and what happens there we need to attend closely to all places that is to attend to the world in a cold dark and disorienting universe Unearthing new ways of thinking about place pedagogy and the environment this meditative text reveals that place is inherently unstable

The Appalachian Way in Coal Country Lois Walker West, 2022-11-03 Living in a home with no electricity no indoor plumbing and an outhouse for a bathroom is a few of the true inconveniences experienced by the author as a child Her parents had lived in Kentucky long before she was born Her ancestors found their way into the Kentucky mountains from Scotland and Ireland by way of England in search of a better life The search ended when they reached the southeastern Kentucky mountains Land in that area was most likely available through land grants In the early 1930s the father inherited a parcel of the land that was once owned by the great grandfather These twenty acres or more provided the family a way to survive in this remote area The natural wooded area changed drastically when coal was found in that area of Kentucky A large part of the grandfather's land was leased to a coal mining company The development of coal mining communities covered many acres of the land This was when Allais Kentucky was added to the map After many years of working underground in a coal mine the father was diagnosed with a form of leukemia in the late 1940s He was blessed with relatives and friends in Allais when they donated the blood he needed to live He prayed to God to keep him alive until all his children were on their own God chose to take him in a car accident the day his last child was getting her marriage license

The author's memories of her happy childhood are true experiences and her love of Kentucky will remain and be passed on to all her present and future generations Coal Country Christmas Elizabeth Ferguson Brown, 2003 A child's trip to her grandmother's house located in a coal mining region result in a memorable Christmas In Coal Country John William Espey, 2007-01-01 Tracks in the Coal Dust West Preston Middle School (Masontown, W.
