Going Back to T-Town Carmen Fields, 2023-06-08 Countless young people in the Midwest South and Southwest went to dances and stage shows in the early to mid twentieth century to hear a territory band play Territory bands traveled from town to town performing jazz and swing music and Tulsa based musician Ernie Fields 1904-97 led one of the best In Going Back to T-Town Ernie's daughter Carmen Fields tells a story of success disappointment and perseverance extending from the early jazz era to the 1960s This is an enlightening account of how this talented musician and businessman navigated the hurdles of racial segregation during the Jim Crow era. Because few territory bands made recordings, their contributions to the development of jazz music are often overlooked. Fortunately, Ernie Fields not only recorded music but also loved telling stories. He shared his tales from the road with his daughter, a well-known Boston journalist, and his son, Ernie Fields Jr., who has carried on his legacy as a successful musician and music contractor. As much as possible, Carmen Fields tells her father's story in his own voice, how he weathered the ups and downs of the music industry and maintained his optimism even while he faced entrenched racial prejudice and threats of violence. After traveling with his band all over the United States, Fields eventually caught the attention of renowned music producer John Hammond. In 1939, Hammond arranged for recording sessions and bookings that included performances in the famed Apollo Theater in New York. Ernie finally scored a top ten hit in 1959 with his rock and roll rendition of "In the Mood." At a time when most other territory bands had faded, the Ernie Fields Orchestra continued to perform. A devoted husband and family man, Ernie Fields also respected and appreciated his fellow musicians. The book includes a Roll Call of his organization's members based on notes he kept about them. Going Back to Town is a priceless source of information for historians of American popular music and African American history.

California. Court of Appeal (2nd Appellate District). Records and Briefs California (State)., Together Again Sharon Graham Niederhaus, John L. Graham, 2007. The popular press has taken notice of two current trends in housing arrangements: three-generation households and twenty-somethings staying at home longer. These are not separate trends but part of a larger nationwide cultural shift to extended families reuniting. Together Again: A Creative Guide for Successful Multigenerational Living is intended to make this cultural shift go smoothly. Topics covered include the financial and emotional benefits of living together, proximity and privacy, designing and remodeling your home to accommodate adult children or elderly parents, overcoming cultural stigmas about independent living, financial and legal planning, and making cohabitation agreements.
