Interconnecting Translation Studies and Imagology Luc van Doorslaer, Peter Flynn, Joep Leerssen, 2016-02-25 Isn't translation all about saying exactly the same thing in another language Aren't national images totally outdated in this era of globalization Most people might agree but this book amply illustrates how persistent and multifaceted clichés on translation and nation can be Time and again translating involves making transfer choices and these choices are never neutral Though globalization has seemingly all but erased national ideologies and cultural borders such ideologies and borders continue to play a determining role in conflicts identity politics and cultural profiles The place where transfer choices and forms of national and cultural representation come together is also the place where Translation Studies and Imagology meet This book offers a wealth of chapters showing how decisive selection and transfer processes can be in representing national images both self images and images of the others It shows also how intensely the two disciplines can work together and mutually benefit from shared data and methodologies The New Psychology of Language Michael Engineering Environment-Mediated Multi-Agent Systems Danny Weyns, Sven A. Brueckner, Yves Demazeau, 2008-07-31 Software intensive systems are increasingly expected to deal with changing user needs and dynamic operating conditions at run time. Examples are the need for life reconstructions, management of resource variability and dealing with particular failure modes. Endowing systems with these kinds of capabilities poses severe challenges to software engineers and necessitates the development of new techniques, practices and tools that build upon sound engineering principles. The field of multi-agent systems focuses on the foundations and engineering of systems that consists of a network of autonomous entities, agents, that interact to achieve the system goals. One line of research in multi-agent systems inspired by biological, physical and other naturally occurring systems concerns multi-agent systems in which agents share information and coordinate their behavior through a shared medium called an agent environment. Typical examples are gradient fields and digital pheromones that guide agents in their local context and as such facilitate the coordination of a community of agents. Since environment mediation in multi-agent systems has shown to result in manageable solutions with very adaptable qualities, it is a promising paradigm to deal with the increasing complexity and dynamism of distributed applications. Control in environment-mediated multi-agent systems is decentralized, i.e. none of the components has full access or control over the system. Self-organization is an approach to engineer decentralized, distributed and resource-limited systems that are capable of dynamically adapting to changing conditions and requirements without external intervention. This useful system property is often reflected in functions such as self-configuration, self-optimization, and self-healing Engineering approaches to self-organizing systems often rely on global functionality to emerge from local and autonomous decisions of individual agents that communicate through a shared agent environment
