Images of Schools ,2013 Images of Schools Samuel B. Bacharach,Bryan Mundell,1995-03-21 The editors maintain that the current debate over school restructuring is essentially a debate over which strategy of organizing will achieve the best results Organizational theory suggests that there are two primary mechanisms that may be used in organizing behavior within an organization the organization as a whole and the specific roles within the organization Following this logic the book is divided into two parts The authors in part one present various answers to the question What must be organized in schools These answers include the decision making process external political forces around ideologies and policies the promotion of creativity and innovation and the best compromise between mechanistic and organic structures among others In part two the authors examine how roles in schools can function as modes of organizing behavior They present various possibilities for reorganization and improvement specifically for the roles of teachers and administrators The ideas include organizing and evaluating the role of teachers based at least partially on student outcomes reorganizing according to the actual work a teacher does organizing around clear goals and the provision of adequate resources organizing the role of administrator to provide leadership to the rest of the people in the school and using research findings to fit a specific individual to the role of administrator Classrooms as Learning Communities Chris Watkins,2005-05-27 This book presents the practice and vision of classrooms that operate as learning communities The Aesthetic Dimensions of Educational Administration & Leadership Eugenie A. Samier,Richard Bates,2006-11-22 The question of aesthetics as a theoretical framework for thinking about modern leadership issues in educational settings is an emergent area of inquiry that is receiving considerable attention There is a growing sense that the mechanistic approach to leadership which has been widely encouraged over the last ten years is sterile and that a more philosophical approach is now required This approach is covered here taking into account the importance of aesthetics on all aspects of the administrative and leadership world the ways ideas and ideals are created how their expression is conveyed the impact they have on interpersonal relationships and the organisational environment that carries and reinforces them and the moral boundaries or limits that can be established or exceeded While presenting a significant departure from conventional studies in the field the international contributors reflect a continuity of thought on administrative and leadership authority from the writings of Plato through to current theory School Leadership Stuart C.
