Obrist, 2012-12-06 It was my original intention to write a reasonably advanced psycho physiology text that would go beyond cardiovascular activity This I believed would require a collaborative effort since my expertise outside of cardiovascular psychophysiology is too limited After some initial limited efforts to organize such a venture it became apparent that a text of this nature was not feasible Thus the effort was dropped I did however receive encouragement to write the present monograph which is more a personalized document than a text As will become apparent this monograph relies heavily on research from my laboratory and details the manner in which our conceptualizations of the issues have developed At first I believed such an effort premature since such a personalized document was something one composes upon retirement However I was persuaded by some individuals who shall remain anonymous just in case they end up regretting their actions to undertake the present effort There are several people who have rendered assistance in the preparation of this monograph for whose efforts I am extremely grateful Extensive editorial assistance and encouragement were provided by Kathleen C Light and Alberto Grignolo Also assisting editorially were Ellen Z Curtin Allison Cahill and Carolyn Williams I wish also to thank my long time secretary Virginia Hodson and Jenny Adams for their typing assistance There are six people to whom I would like to dedicate this book

R. Prechtl, 1984 Is the human neonate indeed physiological premature as has been frequently stated How does human neural development compare with that of other primate species Is early human development a gradual unfolding of neural mechanisms from prenatal to postnatal life or does it show rapid transformations at particular ages The aim of this book is to answer these and similar questions about the functional repertoire of the human fetus neonate and young infant Two main theoretical concepts are considered first the relationship between neural maturation and the duration of pregnancy and second the existence of ontogenetic adaptations Surveys and findings relevant to these concepts are provided by experts from various disciplines involved in research on fetal and preterm development and on the first three months of postnatal life This book differs from many others summarizing descriptive knowledge of the field by emphasizing new theoretical concepts of early functional development Recent ultrasound studies of the fetus have contributed greatly to this new approach which has clear implications for the assessment and care of young infants This thought provoking book will be of interest to developmental neurologists pediatricians and obstetricians as well as to developmental psychologists and physical anthropologists Motor
