

Philalethean Literary Society.

MOTTO: "Per angustia ad angustia."

COLORS: Cardinal and Light Blue.

THIRTEEN years ago the spirit of energy, ever predominant in the young ladies of Purdue, manifested itself in the formation of a literary society for their advancement in social and intellectual culture.

Entered into with the spirit of determination on the part of its few members, it stood and prospered, regardless of the adversity with which it met. But now, grown strong with the successive years, its annals are fixed and its prosperity seems lasting.

Every year since 1880, has the Philalethean proudly ascended the rostrum of the college chapel, to claim from her brother societies her share of the laurels won for the literary department of Purdue, and each year has she descended that rostrum as proudly.

The first annual reunion and banquet was held in the spring of 1888. It was largely attended and heartily enjoyed, the following and last being equally successful.

The society has now a beautifully furnished room and is free from debt. Its present membership numbers forty-seven.
