

The background is a dramatic landscape painting. It depicts a town with a prominent church spire situated on a green hill. In the foreground, a river flows through a valley. Two large, dark crucifixes are visible: one on a distant hill to the left and another, much larger one, rising from the town's center towards the top of the frame. The sky is filled with dark, swirling clouds, suggesting a storm or a divine presence. The overall mood is somber and spiritual.

After Crucifixion Craig Keen, 2013-11-19 This is an extraordinary text It addresses no small number of traditional theological concerns However it addresses them mindful of the earthiness of life Thus this is also a book that is concerned to address questions of migration brain physiology emotional trauma time love and death It is written not to satisfy a bloodless lust for the resolution of puzzles It is written with confidence that tangible bodies think Thus there is an earthy quality to its writing both in what it addresses and how it is addressed The manner of After Crucifixion may be imagined as a moment in which in some unpretentious underground venue the deep resonant percussions of subwoofers roll as a carnal wave across the chest and throat before they become the bass line in a conscious musical thought After Crucifixion has been written for the ears the chest the throat no less than for focused deliberate disciplined thought But it is written in particular for bodies befriended by the Mystery of life and death in the carnal event of the crucifixion resurrection of the Galilean peasant Jesus who unhands the fruit of the knowledge of good and evil and thus invites us to join him in prayer

The Crucifixion, a Poem, in Twelve Books John Ritchie,1852 Mission as Penance Charles J. Fensham,2023-05-03 Mission as Penance explores the posture of Christian mission in Canada while also uncovering the theological roots that gave birth to the sense of cultural and religious superiority that led to profound harm to others and to God's creation. The story begins by an examination of Johan Bavinck's famous 1954 claim that mission is thus the penance of the church which is ashamed before God and man. By drawing on his work through forty years in theological education and pastoral ministry, Fensham prescribes a pathway that liberates the church from power games, numerical growth, and preoccupation with programs and technology to focus instead on genuine listening, solidarity, and love in action. True penance is never satisfied with passivity nor should it result in a state of paralysis. For a posture of humble penance to be fruitful, it must lead toward concerted action toward change, advocacy for justice, compassion for the marginalized, and care for creation. If mission in Canada is engaged in this way, the Christian faith might cease to do harm and build a new life-giving community of healing.

Proceedings of the ... Annual Convention of the Southern Supply and Dealers' Association Southern Supply and Machinery Dealers' Association, 1914 The Crucifixion of the Warrior God Gregory A. Boyd, 2017-04-17 A dramatic tension confronts every Christian believer and interpreter of Scripture: on the one hand we encounter images of God commanding and engaging in horrendous violence; on the other hand we encounter the non-violent teachings and example of Jesus whose loving self-sacrificial death and resurrection is held up as the supreme revelation of God's character in the New Testament. How do we reconcile the tension between these seemingly disparate depictions? Are they even capable of reconciliation? Throughout Christian history many different answers have been proposed, ranging from the long-rejected explanation that these contrasting depictions are of two entirely different gods to recent social and cultural theories of metaphor and narrative representation. The Crucifixion of the Warrior God takes up this dramatic tension and the range of proposed answers in an epic constructive investigation. Over two volumes, renowned theologian and biblical scholar Gregory A. Boyd argues that we must take seriously the full range of Scripture as inspired, including its violent depictions of God. At the same time, we must take just as seriously the absolute centrality of the crucified and risen Christ as the supreme revelation of God. Developing a theological interpretation of Scripture that he labels a cruciform hermeneutic, Boyd demonstrates how Scripture's violent images of God are completely reframed and their violence subverted when they are interpreted through the lens of the cross and resurrection. Indeed, when read through this lens, Boyd argues that these violent depictions can be shown to bear witness to the same self-sacrificial character of God that was supremely revealed on the cross. The Crucifixion of Ministry Andrew Purves, 2010-03 As a pastor, do you ever get the feeling that no matter what you try, nothing much seems to change? That is because the ministries themselves are not redemptive; they are not up to you. Only Jesus' ministry is redemptive. Jesus has to show up. Theologian Andrew Purves explores at the deepest level the true and essential nature of Christian ministry. An Introduction to the Study & Collection of Ancient Prints William Hughes Willshire, 1874 The Crucifixion of Phillip Strong Charles M.
