Education and Development in Central Asia William K. Medlin,William M. Cave,Finley Carpenter,1971 Education and development in Central Asia William K.. Medlin,Finley Carpenter,William M.. Cave,1971 Education Reform in Societies in Transition ,2006-01-01 Framed against the background of educational change this book proposes to examine the relationship between curriculum change teacher professional development policy reform and the processes of educational change The main aims of the book are to 1 focus on educational changes and reconstruction in transitional societies that have undergone political economic and social change in the past two decades 2 provide a forum for the dissemination of research on education reconstruction and reform in transitional societies 3 disseminate ideas that enhance both the practical and theoretical aspects of educational changes in these societies 4 further knowledge and understanding of emerging trends and issues in education in these societies 5 reflect the realities of educational scenarios in each transitional society The book presents an in depth exploration of educational reconstruction in 15 transitional societies In each chapter the authors have provided an overview of educational processes in the country a distillation of education change or reform and or reconstruction in each transitional society Collectively the chapters in the book have attempted to contribute to a better understanding of the educational system in respective countries by identifying the challenges and obstacles the policy implications the teacher professional development needs and curriculum reform efforts Islam in Post-Soviet Uzbekistan Johan Rasanayagam,2010-11-08 The Uzbekistan government has been criticized for its brutal suppression of its Muslim population This book which is based on the author s intimate acquaintance with the region and several years of ethnographic research is about how Muslims in this part of the world negotiate their religious practices despite the restraints of a stifling authoritarian regime Fascinatingly the book also shows how the restrictive atmosphere has actually helped shape the moral context of people s lives and how understandings of what it means to be a Muslim emerge creatively out of lived experience Central Asia Tom Everett-Heath,2003-12-08 Examines the transition Central Asia underwent in the twentieth century following the collapse of the Soviet Union the Soviet colonial legacy and the attempts of new states to build secular states within the radical Islamic world The Formation of the Uzbek Nation-state Anita Sengupta,2003-01-01 The Formation of the Uzbek Nation State is a detailed and insightful examination of the process of nation state formation in the Central Asian region in the post October revolution period based on a case study of Uzbekistan

 Stephen P. Heyneman, Alan J. provide a wide and fascinating range of insights and problems many of which apply to other communities as well there is much to be shared and celebrated between east and west but only with greater understanding It is hoped this book will contribute something towards that understanding History of civilizations of Central Asia Adle,

Chahryar, UNESCO, 2005-10-03 This major six volume project co published with Macmillan covers the historical experience of the peoples and societies of the Caribbean region from the earliest times to the present day The sixth volume brings this series to an end as it takes in the whole of the modern period from colonial conquest and domination to decolonization the Cold War from start to finish the disintegration of the Soviet Union and the renewed instability in certain areas Not only did the colonial regimes lay a new patina over the region but nationalism remoulded all old identities into a series of new ones That process of the twentieth century was perhaps the most transformative of all after the colonial subjugation of the nineteenth While it has been the basis of remarkable stability in vast stretches of the region it has been a fertile source of tension and even wars in other parts The impact and the results of such changes have been astonishingly variable despite the proximity of these states to each other and their being subject to or driven by virtually the same compulsions Youth in the Former Soviet South Stefan Kirmse, 2014-06-11 This book offers the first comprehensive analysis of youth in all its diversity in Muslim Central Asia and the Caucasus It brings together a range of academic perspectives including media studies Islamic studies the sociology of youth and social anthropology While most discussions of youth in the former Soviet South frame the younger generation as victims of crisis as targets of state policy or as holy warriors this book maps out the complexity and variance of everyday lives under post Soviet conditions Youth is not a clear cut predictable life stage Yet across the region young people s lives show forms of experimentation and regulation Male and female youth explore new opportunities not only in the buzzing space of the city but also in the more closely monitored neighbourhood of their family homes At the same time they are constrained by communal expectations ethnic affiliation urban or rural background and by gender and sexuality While young people are more dependent and monitored than many others they are also more eager to explore and challenge In many ways they stand at the cutting edge of globalization and post Soviet change and thus they offer innovative perspectives on these processes This book was published as a special issue of Central Asian Survey

Veiled Empire Douglas T. Northrop, 2016-06-08 Drawing on extensive research in the archives of Russia and Uzbekistan Douglas Northrop here reconstructs the turbulent history of a Soviet campaign that sought to end the seclusion of Muslim women In Uzbekistan it focused above all on a massive effort to eliminate the heavy horsehair and cotton veils worn by many women and girls This campaign against the veil was in Northrop s view emblematic of the larger Soviet attempt to bring the proletarian revolution to Muslim Central Asia a region Bolsheviks saw as primitive and backward The Soviets focused on women and the family in an effort to forge a new liberated social order This unveiling campaign however took place in the context of a half century of Russian colonization and the long standing suspicion of rural Muslim peasants toward an urban colonial state Widespread resistance to the idea of unveiling quickly appeared and developed into a broader anti Soviet animosity among Uzbeks of both sexes Over the next quarter century a bitter and often violent confrontation ensued with battles being waged over indigenous practices of veiling and seclusion New local and national identities coalesced around these very practices that had been placed under attack Veils became powerful anticolonial symbols for the Uzbek nation as well as important markers of Muslim propriety Bolshevik leaders who had seen this campaign as an excellent way to enlist allies while proving their own European credentials as enlightened reformers thus inadvertently strengthened the seclusion of Uzbek women precisely the reverse of what they set out to do Northrop s fascinating and evocative book shows both the fluidity of Central Asian cultural practices and the real limits that existed on Stalinist authority even during the ostensibly totalitarian 1930s

A History of Islamic Societies Ira M. Lapidus, 2002-08-22 Ira Lapidus classic history of the origins and evolution of Muslim societies revised and updated for this second edition first published in 2002
