Education from the Multi-level Perspective J. K. Oosthoek, Pieter van den Eeden, 1984 The effects of the learning environment and its effects on students

The Multilevel Design Harry Jm Huttner, Pieter van den Eeden, 1995-01-30 In the social sciences phenomena tend to be hierarchically structured so that individuals belong to groups and groups belong to larger organizations and societies Multilevel research stresses this hierarchical structure of social life and necessarily assumes the existence of a particular organization of the procedures of investigation This organization which is fundamental to the research is called a research design Because the research is hierarchical it uses a multilevel design This book provides a detailed overview of the theoretical and methodological aspects of multilevel research based on the multilevel definition of social structure Six chapters discuss the foundations of multilevel research and the applications of its research in the social sciences An annotated bibliography follows which is divided into eight sections on theoretical and methodological issues and on applications of multilevel research Included are books and articles published from 1980 through 1993

Learning Environments Jules M. Pieters, Klaus Breuer, P. Robert-Jan Simons, 2012-12-06 In view of the present attempts to broaden the scope of educational research as far as learning is concerned there has been increased interest in the functional environment of the learner Since this environment includes psychological pedagogical sociological and even cultural anthropological variables the term learning environment is more often used Traditionally this environment has consisted of the teacher and students in a situation similar to the real context for instance in an apprenticeship Although the apprenticeship form of learning has almost disappeared in Western educational systems its characteristics can now be designed within intelligent learning environments that have the computation and storage capacity of modern technological innovations The different perspectives regarding learning environments have been bundled into this book in an overview of Dutch and German research These perspectives pertain to various system levels learning activities class room and school and to various disciplinary views pedagogical psychological sociological
