Office of Technology Assessment,1995 Future visions : education and technology. , Education and Technology Gordon Press Publishers,1997-06 Includes schooling and learning in an information society the 3 great codes and the creation of human culture learning and teaching in 2004 the BIG DIG the future of teaching year 2005 using technology to build communities of understanding and public school teachers using machines in the next decade spread of computers in schools confusion over access use and innovation Also is there a Federal role will promising visions become a reality key issues for future visions of educational technology technology and school reform setting the context and more Future visions : education and technology. ,1995 Future Visions, Education and Technology, September 22, 1995 , Education and Technology Neil Selwyn,2011-03-17 Digital technology lies at the heart of contemporary education provision This book considers the key issues in the field and addresses some fundamental but often unvoiced questions about the ever growing use of technologies in education It focuses on the social as well as the technical aspects of these issues giving careful thought to the people practices processes and structures behind the use of technologies in education The book considers a range of current debates and controversies Will technology replace the school or university Will technology replace the teacher What do we really know about learning and technology Does technology make learning fairer Can technology address the many educational problems and inequalities faced by people around the world What does the future hold for technology and education What can be learnt from the history of technology use Neil Selwyn takes a critical look at some of the major debates concerning digital technologies and education Study questions and annotated further reading are included to support readers along with a companion website linking to online sources and resources The Struggle for Control of Public Education Michael Engel,2000 Those making decisions about education today argue that market strategies promote democratic educational reform when really they promote market reform of education Michael Engel argues against this tendency siding with democratic values and calls for a return to community controlled schools Information and Communication Technology and the Teacher of the Future Carolyn Dowling,Kwok-Wing Lai,2012-12-06 Carolyn Dowling Australian Catholic University Kwok Wing Lai University of Otago This book is one of the outcomes of a Working Conference on the topic of ICT and the Teacher of the Future which took place in Melbourne Australia in January 2003 The conference was held under the auspices of the International Federation for

Information Processing IFIP Technical Committee 3 TC3 of IFIP through the activities of its seven Working Groups focuses on different aspects of the impact of Information and Communication Technologies on Education The conference that was the impetus for this publication was organised jointly by Working Group 3 1 Secondary Education and Working Group 3 3 Research In addition to the text of the papers delivered by the three keynote speakers the book comprises a selection of the papers presented by delegates at the conference along with reports of the discussions of Focus Groups working in each topic area All of the papers presented at the conference were reviewed by members of the International Programme Committee and the National Organising Committee Those selected for publication as chapters in this book have subsequently undergone an additional process of collaborative editing before qualifying for inclusion It is our belief that these papers collectively present a very comprehensive overview of the concerns and developments in the use of Information and Communication Technologies that are currently of relevance to educators and educational policy makers across the globe Education Technology M.h.siddiqui,2009 Methods of Evaluating Educational Technology Walt Heinecke,Laura Blasi,2001-09-01 This volume gathers some of the methods being developed by evaluators from university settings and the private sector While providing models and methods these authors also raise larger questions such as How can schools meet the challenge of educating all children without being limited by the educational legacy of a one size fits all curriculum and normative testing More than documenting an apprenticeship to gadgetry evaluators are seeking to measure meaningful learning and changes in teaching investigating approaches that are not possible or that are less accessible when students are in traditional classrooms without technology In this first volume of the series Research Methods for Educational Technology RMET the contributing authors draw upon examples of their work evaluating the implementation and development of educational technology as well as the impact of policies and programs in this field Within this volume several authors have written about the implementation and evaluation of technology across cultures and national boundaries pointing to an area of research that will rapidly expand in this decade The concern for meeting the needs of policymakers is also apparent in several of these chapters but there is tension between providing them with positive results to support their efforts and reexamining the questions they are asking and how these questions are developed We know that evaluation is not the extended arm of public relations and yet it becomes clear that evaluators are often asked to demonstrate a project is successful on the threat that the funding will be cut While this decision making process fits the timetable of the fiscal year it does not acknowledge that evaluation can be formative and strengthen programs This timetable also ignores the investment of time that is needed when implementing innovations like the Internet into teaching and learning Many of the authors included in this volume write from the context of evaluating federally funded programs and they provide valuable insight for future projects which are created and evaluated at the state level As technology initiatives are developed and funded outside of the federal arena more evaluators will be called upon From approaches developed from federally funded projects we can build upon these methods and models for evaluation within regional projects to answer questions related to budgets and accountability As we answer these immediate questions we can move forward to examine the long term impact of technology and the possibility that exercises in conformity will replace the adventure of human enlightenment for our children Developing Technology-Rich Teacher Education Programs: Key Issues Polly, Drew,2012-01-31 This book offers professional teacher educators a rare opportunity to harvest the thinking of pioneering colleagues spanning dozens of universities and to benefit from the creativity scholarship hard work and reflection that led them to the models they describe Provided by publisher Exploring Desirable Futures for L1 Education and Teachers' Literacies in a Digital Age Carina Ascherl,2022-09-22 Rapidly evolving digital technologies are reciprocally linked to the way people think learn generate knowledge create communicate and collaborate in the digital age These media communicative and related sociocultural changes must be acknowledged in the educational context The aim of the present study is from a transnational perspective to investigate experts anticipated L1 education futures in 2030 and teachers literacies deemed necessary in this context The research aims are addressed through an exploratory sequential mixed methods research design reflected in the application of a three round modified Delphi study The panel is drawn from individuals who are considered experts at the intersection of L1 education and digitalisation and are selected on their theoretical or applied expertise and their interest in the issue under investigation It becomes clear that the experts emphasised the need for transformations regarding traditional structures practices and processes of teaching and learning by 2030 specifically given contemporary practices and forms of learning thinking and working in the digital age
