Education and Society in Post-Mao China

Edward Vickers, Zeng Xiaodong, 2017-06-26 The post Mao period has witnessed rapid social and economic transformation in all walks of Chinese life much of it fuelled by or reflected in changes to the country's education system This book analyses the development of that system since the abandonment of radical Maoism and the inauguration of Reform and Opening in the late 1970s The principal focus is on formal education in schools and conventional institutions of tertiary education but there is also some discussion of preschools vocational training and learning in non formal contexts The book begins with a discussion of the historical and comparative context for evaluating China's educational achievements followed by an extensive discussion of the key transitions in education policymaking during the Reform and Opening period. This informs the subsequent examination of changes affecting the different phases of education from preschool to tertiary level. There are also chapters dealing specifically with the financing and administration of schooling, curriculum development, the public examinations system, the teaching profession, the phenomenon of marketisation and the international dimension of Chinese education. The book concludes with an assessment of the social consequences of educational change in the post-Mao era and a critical discussion of the recent fashion in certain Western countries for hailing China as an educational model. The analysis is supported by a wealth of sources, primary and secondary, textual and statistical, and is informed by both authors' wide-ranging experience of Chinese education. As the first monograph on China's educational development during the forty years of the post-Mao era, this book will be essential reading for all those seeking to understand the world's largest education system. It will also be crucial reference for educational comparativists and for scholars from various disciplinary backgrounds researching contemporary Chinese society.

Social Changes and Yuwen Education in Post-Mao China Min Tao, 2019-05-07

Inspired by the author's observations of the language curriculum as a practising teacher for the past 20 years, this book addresses how the high school Chinese language and literacy (Yuwen) curriculum in China was controlled and directed in the post-Mao era. Examining the social and political domination from 1980 to 2010, the book offers insights into how teachers and schools responded to the top-down curriculum change in their teaching practice. This book discusses some of the most important questions concerning China and its education system: What changes have occurred in the Chinese language and literacy curricula, how and why the changes have occurred, who has been in control of the process and outcome, and what impacts the curriculum changes may bring not only to China but to the international sectors that export education and degrees to China and Chinese students. The author provides answers to these questions crucial to both the contemporary Chinese society and the students who come out of that system. This critical inquiry of the Yuwen curriculum and its implementation provides a valuable and timely showcase for understanding the ideology of China's future generation and the social and political transformation in the past three decades. In addition to researchers, this book is expected to have impact on policymakers in China and beyond where Chinese migrants and international students constitute a substantial learning population.

Mao's China And Post-mao China: Revolution, Recovery And Rejuvenation Robert Weatherley, 2022-09-06 If the history of modern China was written as a book its author would be accused of losing touch with reality During the twentieth century China underwent two revolutions a number of wars endured a radical and destabilising form of communism and then hurried quickly towards a system of open market economics whilst remaining under the control of a nominally communist party Currently the fastest growing economy in the world with an increasingly sophisticated and expanding military China is widely expected to emerge as the world's next superpower eclipsing the United States in the not too distant future However not everything is going smoothly for Beijing Unemployment rates are spiralling inequality is rife and official corruption at all levels remains an Achilles heel for the Chinese Communist Party despite Xi Jinping's best endeavours to wipe it out Worst of all environmental degradation is at such a serious level that it threatens the success of the Chinese economy and the stability of Chinese society Against this scarcely believable backdrop and based on a series of lectures seminars and research conducted by the author Mao's China and Post Mao China captures the dynamics dynamism and disasters of Chinese politics since the establishment of the People's Republic of China in 1949 This advanced textbook
