Child Care Policy at the Crossroads Sonya Michel, Rianne Mahon, 2013-12-16 Whether childcare is seen as part of society's educational policy, welfare policy, or employment policy affects not only its form and content but also its public image. The contributors in this volume use current policies for the care of infants and preschool children to analyze debates and track the emergence of new state welfare practices across a variety of social and political configurations and offer some conclusions about which methods work the best.

Children, Gender and Families in Mediterranean Welfare States Mimi Ajzenstadt, John Gal, 2010-07-01 countries in this region have been particularly limited for an exception to this see Petmesidou Papatheodorou 2006. The underlying assumption in this volume is that despite the diversity of welfare states bordering the Mediterranean Sea, some interesting commonalities are shared by these nations. Indeed, in his contribution to this volume, Gal has described these nations as belonging to an extended family of welfare states that share some common characteristics and outcomes, one of which is the role of the family. By bringing together case analyses of the welfare states in the Mediterranean which focus on children, gender, and families, we maintain that it is possible to shed light on aspects of social policy that do not necessarily emerge in most discussions of these issues in the literature. The rationale inherent in a volume that focuses on a group of welfare states is of course embedded in the welfare regime typology notion that has dominated much of the comparative social policy literature over the last two decades. The publication of Esping Andersen's seminal work The Three Worlds of Welfare Capitalism in 1990 and his related 1999 book which distinguished between three welfare regimes became a landmark for comparative work of social policies in various countries. Esping Andersen regarded his typology as a useful tool for comparison between welfare states because it allowed for greater analytical parsimony and helps us to see the forest rather than myriad trees. 1999 p. 73 Abolishing Mandatory Retirement, 1981 Needs of Elementary and Secondary
