Democracies Jale Tosun, 2013-12-11 This book examines environmental policy change in twenty eight Central and Eastern European and Latin American countries against a background of significant political and economic transformation over the past two decades Through cross regional comparison and a multi methods approach Jale Tosun investigates changes in the regulation of air soil and water pollution genetically modified corn and the sustainable management of forests Tosun also looks at the relationship between system transformation and the creation of environmental procuracies in both parts of the world Environmental Policy Change in Emerging Market Democracies demonstrates that although political and economic transformations have positively affected environmental policy in both regions the extent of policy change varies considerably across Central and Eastern Europe and Latin America At the same time as Tosun argues economic integration has acted as a major driver of a stronger governmental enforcement commitment as expressed by the creation of environmental procuracies engagement with and integration into the global field of comparative politics This volume is the first sustained attempt to describe analyze and assess the comparative turn in Canadian political science Canada's engagement with comparative politics is examined with a focus on three central questions In what ways and how successfully have Canadian scholars contributed to the study of comparative politics How does study of the Canadian case advance the comparative discipline Finally can Canadian practice and policy be reproduced in other countries How Schools Worked R.D. Gidney, W.P.J. Millar, 2012-02-21 Between the 1880s and the 1940s children in English Canada encountered schools and school systems profoundly different from today s In How Schools Worked R D Gidney and W P J Millar map the contours of that world retrieving it from the obscurity created not only by the passage of time but by fundamental shifts in organization pedagogical values and beliefs about the role of public education Moving beyond the rhetoric on school reform that marked the period How Schools Worked focuses squarely on schooling itself How many children went to elementary or secondary school how often and for how long What was the range of their educational attainments How were their patterns of attendance influenced by social class gender and where they lived What and how were they taught How were they assessed and promoted from grade to grade What were their teachers gualifications and experience What were their school buildings like Who paid the bills and how much did they pay How well or badly were children and young people served by their schools And how did answers to these questions change over time A sympathetic yet critical analysis How Schools Worked is a portrait of a complex enterprise at work Gidney and Millar offer a rich understanding of the period a reappraisal of some major debates and insights into educational issues that perplex us still Public Policy Values J. Stewart, 2009-06-30 More and more policy issues involve issues that are explicitly values based yet public policy analysis tends to skirt around the question of values Public Policy Values overcomes this reluctance by showing how public policies enable values choices to be made often without seeming to do so Constructing Policy Change Linda A. White, 2017-01-01 In Constructing Policy Change Linda A White examines the expansion of early childhood education and care ECEC policies and programs in liberal welfare states including Australia Canada New Zealand the UK and the USA In the first part of the book the author investigates the sources of policy ideas that triggered ECEC changes in various national contexts This is followed by a close analysis of cross national variation in the implementation of ECEC policy in Canada and the USA White argues that the primary mechanisms for policy change are grounded in policy investment logics as well as cultural logics that is shifts in public sentiments and government beliefs about the value of ECEC policies and programs are rooted in both evidence based arguments and in principled beliefs about the policy A rich nuanced examination of the reasons motivating ECEC policy expansion and adoption in different countries Constructing Policy Change is a corrective to the comparative welfare state literature that focuses on political interest alone Minorities and Reconstructive Coalitions Willie Gin, 2017-07-06 Through comparative and historical analysis the book shows that reconstructive coalitions such as labor and pan Christian moral movements affect minority incorporation and bring Catholics and Protestants together under new identities and significantly improving Catholic standing It provides overviews of the history of Catholics in Australia Canada and the United States while at the same time advancing unique arguments about the impact of coalitions on minority politics

Democratic Illusion Genevieve Fuji-Johnson, 2015-05-07 The theory of deliberative democracy promotes the creation of systems of governance in which citizens actively exchange ideas engage in debate and create laws that are responsive to their interests and aspirations While deliberative processes are being adopted in an increasing number of cases decision making power remains mostly in the hands of traditional elites In Democratic Illusion Genevieve Fuji Johnson examines four representative examples participatory budgeting in the Toronto Community Housing Corporation Deliberative Polling by Nova Scotia Power Incorporated a national consultation process by the Canadian Nuclear Waste Management Organization and public consultations embedded in the development of official languages policies in Nunavut In each case measures that appeared to empower the public failed to challenge the status quo approach to either formulating or implementing policy Illuminating a critical gap between deliberative democratic theory and its applications this timely and important study shows what needs to be done to ensure deliberative processes offer more than the illusion of democracy Immigration and the Politics of Welfare Exclusion Edward A. Koning, 2019-01-01 Why do some governments try to limit immigrants access to social benefits and entitlements while others do not Through an in depth study of Sweden Canada and the Netherlands Immigration and the Politics of Welfare Exclusion maps the politics of immigrants social rights in Western democracies To achieve this goal Edward A Koning analyzes policy documents public opinion surveys data on welfare use parliamentary debates and interviews with politicians and key players in the three countries Koning's findings are three fold First the politics of immigrant welfare exclusion have little to do with economic factors and are more about general opposition to immigration and multiculturalism Second proposals for exclusion are particularly likely to arise in a political climate that incentivizes politicians to appear tough on immigration Finally the success of anti immigrant politicians in bringing about exclusionary reforms depends on the response of the political mainstream and the extent to which immigrants rights are protected in national and international legal frameworks A timely investigation into an increasingly pressing subject Immigration and the Politics of Welfare Exclusion will be essential reading for scholars and students of political science comparative politics and immigration studies Liberal Education, Civic Education, and the Canadian Regime David W. Livingstone, 2015-10-01 Shortly after Canadian confederation Thomas D Arcy McGee proclaimed that education was an essential condition of our political independence and that its role was to form citizens for the new regime Comparing this idea of education for citizenship or civic education to the modern goals of education Liberal Education Civic Education and the Canadian Regime explores the founders principles their sources and the challenges that threaten their vision for Canada The collection s first essays analyze the political thought of early Canadians such as Brown McGee Ryerson and Bourinot while later chapters examine enduring principles of liberal democracy derived from Aristotle de Tocqueville and Hobbes The final chapters bring the discussion forward to such topics as the decline of Canadian Catholic liberal arts colleges and the emerging role of our Supreme Court as a self appointed moral tutor Moreover as it deals with the changing roles of universities in contemporary Canada Liberal Education Civic Education and the Canadian Regime engages current debates about the value and place of a traditional liberal education and the consequences of turning our back on the concepts that inspired our founding leaders Considering whether Canada's early documents and traditions can revive past debates and shed light on contemporary issues this highly original collection presents education as an essential condition of our independence and asks whether current educational principles are threatening Canadians capacity for self government

Educated for Change? Patricia Buck, Rachel Silver, 2012-12-01 Educated for Change Muslim Women in the West inserts Muslim women's voice and action into the bifurcated and otherwise male dominated relations between the West and the Islamic East A multilayered multisite educational ethnography Buck and Silver's study takes a novel approach to its feminist charge Drawing upon thick description of refugee women's school experiences in two seemingly distinct locations Educated for Change engages the dual nature of schooling as at once a disciplinary apparatus of local national and international governance and paradoxically a space and process through which school community members wield the power to observe deliberate and act as agents in the creative and willful endeavor of living In doing so the text locates formal schooling as a key location at which one can witness the politics of cultural change that emerge when Western and Islamic communities converge Following an initial introduction to the ethno historical formation and dissolution of the Somali postcolonial state resulting in a prolonged exodus of Somali citizens the text is divided into two parts Part One features an examination of young women's approaches to schooling in the Dadaab refugee camps of northeastern Kenya Part Two looks at schooling among Somali women resettled in a northern region of the United States Each part includes a description of the unique if interconnected local factors and policies that give rise to particular forms and ends of schooling as designed for refugee women Several chapters depict women s strategic use of schooling to respond to structural forces build intercultural social networks and negotiate new ways of being Somali women Educated for Change concludes with an analysis of the implications of Somali refugee women s schooling experiences for working definitions of global social justice that undergird feminist political scholarship and gender sensitive humanitarian aid policy and practice
