Facing Death Where Culture Religion And Medicine Meet:

Facing Death Howard Marget Spiro, Mary G. McCrea Curnen, Lee Palmer Wandel, 1998-10-01 While technology for keeping death at bay has advanced greatly people are less well informed about how to face death and how to understand or articulate the emotional or spiritual need of the dying This work aims to help medical personnel and patients to view death as a defining part of life

Meaningful Funerals Ewan Kelly, 2008-08-18 The majority of the British population no longer attend church and consequently lack familiarity with the Christian tradition its stories language and metaphors However when bereaved many still turn to church representatives working in parish settings or chaplaincies to perform funerals for their loved ones The key issue addressed in this book is how funerals may be created which are not only relevant for the bereaved but also have theological integrity A paradigm shift in the manner by which funerals are constructed is proposed from imposing alien liturgies to creating a unique ritual which evolves from the meeting of the stories of the bereaved and that of the ritual leader The argument for the co construction of funerals is informed by contemporary models of grief and Kelly s own experience with bereaved parents who worked with hospital chaplains to co construct funerals for their babies Co construction is a process which is centred on listening and empowering and involves offering the bereaved choices from a range of ritual resources sacred and secular in order to help them shape their funeral s content It is a model of ritual construction which requires time availability and risk taking on the part of the ritual leader but which significantly helps the spiritual needs of the bereaved to be met Moreover such a process facilitates sensitive regulation of grief in an age where its privatisation has meant the bereaved are often bereft of a means by which to benchmark their feelings behaviour and decision making

Consoling Ghosts Jean M. Langford, 2013-11-01 In conversation with emigrants from Laos and Cambodia Jean M Langford repeatedly met with spirits the wandering souls of the seriously ill dangerous ghosts of those who died by violence restless ancestors displaced from their homes For these emigrants the dead not only appear in memories safely ensconced in the past but also erupt with a physical force into the daily life and dreams of the present Inspired by these conversations Consoling Ghosts is a sustained contemplation of relationships with the dying and the dead At their heart as Langford s work reveals emigrants stories are parables not of cultural difference but rather of life and death Langford inquires how and why spirits become implicated in remembering and responding to violence whether the bloody violence of war or the more structural violence of social marginalization and poverty What is at stake she asks when spirits break out of their usual confinement as symbolic figures for history heritage or trauma to haunt the corridors of hospitals and funeral homes Emigrants theories and stories of ghosts Langford suggests inherently question the metaphorical status of spirits in the process challenging both contemporary bioethics of dying and dominant styles of mourning Consoling Ghosts explores the possibilities opened up by a more literal existence of ghosts from the confrontation of shades of past violence through bodily ritual to rites of mourning that unfold in acts of material care for the dead instead of memorialization Ultimately the book invites us to consider alternate ways of facing death conducting relationships with the dead and dying and addressing the effects of violence that continue to reverberate in bodies and social worlds      Surviving the Fall Peter A.

Selwyn,2000-04-01 Annotation This poignant and eloquent book is a memoir of the first decade of the AIDS epidemic written by a physician whose encounters with his dying patients allowed him to come to terms with his own losses history and family secrets It is a story with an important message for anyone dealing with the challenges of living dying and being human

Religious Understandings of a Good Death in Hospice Palliative Care Harold Coward,Kelli I. Stajduhar,2012-06-13

Winner of the 2012 AJN American Journal of Nursing Book of the Year Award in the Hospice and Palliative Care category In the 1960s English physician and committed Christian Cicely Saunders introduced a new way of treating the terminally ill that she called hospice care Emphasizing a holistic and compassionate approach her model led to the rapid growth of a worldwide hospice movement Aspects of the early hospice model that stressed attention to the religious dimensions of death and dying while still recognized and practiced have developed outside the purview of academic inquiry and consideration Meanwhile global migration and multicultural diversification in the West have dramatically altered the profile of contemporary hospice care In response to these developments this volume is the first to critically explore how religious understandings of death are manifested and experienced in palliative care settings Contributors discuss how a good death is conceived within the major religious traditions of Christianity Islam Hinduism Judaism Buddhism Chinese religion and Aboriginal spirituality A variety of real world examples are presented in case studies of a Buddhist hospice center in Thailand Ugandan approaches to dying with HIV AIDS Punjabi extended family hospice care and pediatric palliative care The work sheds new light on the significance of religious belief and practice at the end of life at the many forms religious understanding can take and at the spiritual pain that so often accompanies the physical pain of the dying person      Exploring Lifespan Development Laura

,2021-10-25 Health illness and disease are topics well suited to interdisciplinary inquiry This book brings together scholars from around the world who share an interest in and a commitment to bridging the traditional boundaries of inquiry We hope that this book begins new conversations that will situate health in broader socio cultural contexts and establish connections between health illness and disease and other socio political issues This book is the outcome of the first global conference on Making Sense of Health Illness and Disease held at St Catherine s College Oxford in June 2002 The selected papers pursue a range of topics from the cultural significance of narratives of health illness and disease to healing practices in contemporary society as well as patients illness experiences Researchers and health care practitioners now live in the age of interdisciplinarity which has transformed both health care delivery and research on health The essays in this collection transcend the traditional boundaries of biomedicine and draw attention to the many ways in which health is embedded in socio cultural norms and how these norms in turn shape health practices and health care This volume is of interest not only to researchers but also to those delivering health care

Dying and the Virtues Matthew Levering, 2018-01-23 In this rich book Matthew Levering explores nine key virtues that we need to die and live well love hope faith penitence gratitude solidarity humility surrender and courage Retrieving and engaging a variety of biblical theological historical and medical resources Levering journeys through the various stages and challenges of the dying process beginning with the fear of annihilation and continuing through repentance and gratitude suffering and hope before arriving finally at the courage needed to say goodbye to one s familiar world Grounded in careful readings of Scripture the theological tradition and contemporary culture Dying and the Virtues comprehensively and beautifully shows how these nine virtues effectively unite us with God the One who alone can conquer death

Patience, Compassion, Hope, and the Christian Art of Dying Well Christopher P. Vogt, 2004 By mining the rich tradition of virtue ethics Christopher Vogt uses the virtues of patience compassion and hope as a framework for specifying the shape of a good death and for naming the practices Christians should develop to live well and die well Bringing together historical biblical and contemporary sources in Christian ethics Vogt provides a long overdue theological analysis of the ars moriendi or art of dying literature of four centuries ago Through a careful analysis of Luke s passion narrative Vogt uses Jesus as the primary model for being patient in the face of death and for dying well

Growing Old in a New China Rose K. Keimig, 2021-02-12 Growing Old in a New China Transitions in Elder Care is an accessible exploration of changing care arrangements in China Combining anthropological theory ethnographic vignettes and cultural and social history it sheds light on the growing movement from home based to institutional elder care in urban China The book examines how tensions between old and new ideas desires and social structures are reshaping the experience of caring and being cared for Weaving together discussions of family ethics care work bioethics aging and quality of life this book puts older adults at the center of the story It explores changing relationships between elders and themselves their family members caregivers society and the state and the attempts made within and across these relational webs to find balance and harmony The book invites readers to ponder the deep implications of how and why we care and the ways end of life care arrangements complicate both living and dying for many elders

Re-membering Masculinity in Early Modern Florence Allison Levy, 2017-03-02 From Pliny to Petrarch to Pope Hennessy and beyond many have understood the obvious connection between portraiture and commemorative practice This book expands and nuances our understanding of Renaissance portraiture the author shows it to be complexly generated within a discourse of male anxiety and pre mortuary mourning She argues that portraiture could defer memory loss or at the very least pictorially console the subject against his own potentially unmourned death This book recognizes a socio cultural anxiety the fear not merely of death but also of being forgotten and identifies a set of pictorial literary and theoretical strategies consequently formulated to ensure memory To explore this phenomenon this interdisciplinary but fundamentally art historical project merges early modern visual culture and critical theories of the body The author examines an extensive selection of fifteenth and sixteenth century male and female portraits primarily associated with the Medici family circle and court in and against both historical writings and contemporary discourses including literary and cultural theory psychoanalysis feminism and gender studies and critical theories of race and disability Re membering Masculinity generates new ideas about both male and female portraiture in early modern Florence raises even more questions about the experiences and representations of widowhood and mourning and re configures our understanding of masculinity from the early modern male body to Renaissance Man to postmodern manhood

The Art of Caregiving in Fiction, Film, and Memoir Jeffrey Berman,2020-10-29 Bringing together the human story of care with its representation in film fiction and memoir this book combines an analysis of care narratives to inform and inspire ideas about this major role in life Alongside analysis of narratives drawn from literature and film the author sensitively interweaves the story of his wife s illness and care to illuminate perspectives on dealing with human decline Examining texts from a diverse range of authors such as Leo Tolstoy Edith Wharton and Alice Munro and filmmakers such as Ingmar Bergman and Michael Haneke it addresses questions such as why caregiving is a dangerous activity the ethical problems of writing about caregiving the challenges of reading about caregiving and why caregiving is so important It serves as a fire starter on the subject of how we can gain insight into the challenges and opportunities of caregiving through the creative arts

The Routledge Companion to the Study of Religion John R. Hinnells,2005 The Routledge Companion to the Study of Religion contains everything a student needs for a full understanding of theory and methods in religious studies It begins by explaining the most important methodological approaches to religion including psychology philosophy anthropology and comparative study before moving on to explore a wide variety of critical issues Written entirely by renowned international specialists and using clear and accessible language throughout it is the perfect guide to the problems and questions found in courses and exams

American Pandemic Nancy Bristow,2012-05-01 Between the years 1918 and1920 influenza raged around the globe in the worst pandemic in recorded history killing at least fifty million people more than half a million of them Americans Yet despite the devastation this catastrophic event seems but a forgotten moment in our nation's past American Pandemic offers a much needed corrective to the silence surrounding the influenza outbreak It sheds light on the social and cultural history of Americans during the pandemic uncovering both the causes of the nation's public amnesia and the depth of the quiet remembering that endured Focused on the primary players in this drama patients and their families friends and community public health experts and health care professionals historian Nancy K Bristow draws on multiple perspectives to highlight the complex interplay between social identity cultural norms memory and the epidemic Bristow has combed a wealth of primary sources including letters diaries oral histories memoirs novels newspapers magazines photographs government documents and health care literature She shows that though the pandemic caused massive disruption in the most basic patterns of American life influenza did not create long term social or cultural change serving instead to reinforce the status quo and the differences and disparities that defined American life As the crisis waned the pandemic slipped from the nation's public memory The helplessness and despair Americans had suffered during the pandemic Bristow notes was a story poorly suited to a nation focused on optimism and progress For countless survivors though the trauma never ended shadowing the remainder of their lives with memories of loss This book lets us hear these long silent voices reclaiming an important chapter in the American past

Grief in Schools Matthias Böhmer, Georges Steffgen, 2022-01-28 The book covers how to deal with grief in schools Grief reactions of children and adolescents are described and reasons for grief are presented Death due to chronic illness sudden deaths such as suicide accident and severe targeted violence Appropriate intervention measures are presented Finally the limitations of these intervention measures in schools are discussed This book is a translation of the original German 1st edition Trauer an Schulen by Matthias Böhmer and Georges Steffgen published by Springer Verlag GmbH Germany part of Springer Nature in 2021 The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence machine translation by the service DeepL.com A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content so that the book will read stylistically differently from a conventional translation Springer Nature works continuously to further the development of tools for the production of books and on the related technologies to support the authors

The Art of Dying and Living Kerry Walters, 2011 Earlier generations of Christians studied classic ars moriendi manuals on the art of dying to help them face and embrace morality They learned from these books something our own generation is in danger of forgetting that the manner in which one dies very much depends on the manner in which one has lived The author explores the connection between living and dying well by recounting the stories of seven exemplary people of our time and the particular virtues they embodied

Making Health Care Whole Christina Puchalski, Betty Ferrell, 2011-06-01 In the last fifteen years the field of palliative care has experienced a surge in interest in spirituality as an important aspect of caring for seriously ill and dying patients While spirituality has been generally recognized as an essential dimension of palliative care uniformity of spiritual care practice has been lacking across health care settings due to factors like varying understandings and definitions of spirituality lack of resources and practical tools and limited professional education and training in spiritual care In order to address these shortcomings more than forty spiritual and palliative care experts gathered for a national conference to discuss guidelines for incorporating spirituality into palliative care Their consensus findings form the basis of Making Health Care Whole This important new resource provides much needed definitions and charts a common language for addressing spiritual care across the disciplines of medicine nursing social work chaplaincy psychology and other groups It presents models of spiritual care that are broad and inclusive and provides tools for screening assessment care planning and interventions This book also advocates a team approach to spiritual care and specifies the roles of each professional on the team Serving as both a scholarly review of the field as well as a practical resource with specific recommendations to improve spiritual care in clinical practice Making Health Care Whole will benefit hospices and palliative care programs in hospitals home care services and long term care services It will also be a valuable addition to the curriculum at seminaries schools of theology and medical and nursing schools
