Goldstein, Shawnrece D.

Campbell, 2022-02-24 The late Toni Morrison was the first African American to win the Nobel Prize for Literature A powerful writer she wove stories depicting the largely overlooked Black experience in America and exploring the intersection of gender and race through the lives of Black women Morrison's writing continues to move people and push readers to reassess their beliefs about what it means to be Black in America Synthesizing some 250 scholarly works about Morrison's writing this book examines eight novels as well as the short story Recitatif They are analyzed for techniques used to deepen meaning and emotional weight and reveal Morrison's mastery over prose Mating Season Kate Gale, 2004 This is Kate Gale's fifth book of poetry Known for her gutsy sensual dark and glittery poems this is work about the world as it is hard cold asking you for your money and then shooting you anyway One of a new breed of very successful edgy poets Gale is unwilling to soft soap the way the world works These poems are tingling raw and clouded with sadness Kate Gale has a doctorate in English literature from Claremont and is managing editor of Red Hen Press In addition to poetry she has published one children's book a novel and is the editor of four anthologies She lives and writes in Los Angeles California Rain Taxi Review of Books, 2003

Two Americas, Two Educations Paul F. Cummins, 2006 Nearly everyone in America no matter what political persuasion would agree that as a nation we need to have adequate public schools In fact nearly everyone would also agree that our schools should be more than merely adequate They should be superior In Two Americas Two Educations Cummins will describe what superb or even simply adequate schools would look like and second how those schools might be funded Cummins is not intending to lay down a final blueprint but to present the case for superb schools and explain how they can become a reality The Great American Poetry Show Volume 1 Larry Ziman, 2004 Mischief, Caprice and Other

Poetic Strategies Terry Wolverton, 2004 What happens when one hundred poets from across the country all follow the same recipe for creating a poem If you think the result is one hundred identical poems then you haven't seen Mischief Caprice and Other Poetic Strategies an anthology edited by Terry Wolverton from Red Hen Press The collection includes nationally recognized poets such as Michael Waters and Richard Garcia Los Angeles notables such as Alicia Vogl Saenz and Jim Natal poets from Canada Mexico and India and a twelve year old and eight year old all writing in response to the same set of instructions The recipe called the Twenty Little Poetry Projects was devised by poet Jim Simmerman and first made its nationwide debut in The Practice of Poetry a 1992 collection edited by Robin Behn and Chase Twitchell Simmerman devised the exercise he says to encourage his poetry students to explore free for all wackiness inventive play and the sheer oddities of language itself Too many poems asserts Terry Wolverton suffer for their earnestness an overabundance of sincerity which sometimes means you tell the reader what they already know A good poem shows the reader something new and to do that sometimes the poet needs to think differently Wolverton an instructor of creative writing herself and founder of Writers At Work a writing center in Los Angeles has long used the Twenty Little Poetry Projects herself to disrupt whatever habits one may be in with regard to writing poems The result is a poem in which the journey to arrive at the content is unexpected entertaining and provocative She predicts that students will have a great time with the book which will demonstrate that poems can be playful and serious at the same time

Fake-city Syndrome, 2002 Index to Jewish Periodicals, 2003 An author and subject index to selected and American Anglo Jewish journals of general and scholarly interests Books in Print Supplement, 2002 Fake-city Syndrome Kate Gale, Charles Rammelkamp, 2002 This collection of essays addresses both popular culture and academic discourse Contributors sound a cautionary note about the dumbing down of our civilization and the lack of spiritual depth in mass culture but as these essays show there is a spark of imaginative critical thought still brewing These essays address race assimilation American civilization and broken dreams contrasted with elusive spaces for imagination in art literature and community We find ourselves divining madness in American values and sanity in progressive ideals as we find that things that sound too fair are fantastical indeed and some that smile have in their hearts millions of mischiefs

David E. Robinson, 2017-05-07 An outlook that is more in keeping with the times Really Fake Alexandra Juhasz Juhasz, Ganaele Langlois, Nishant Shah, 2021-02-16 More important than flagging things really fake is to understand why they are dismissed as fake The new truth is the one that circulates digital truth emerges from lists databases archives and conditions of storage Multiple truths may be activated through search link and retrieve queries Alexandra Juhasz Ganaele Langlois and Nishant Shah respond by taking up story poetry and other human logics of care intelligence and dignity to explore sociotechnological and politico aesthetic emergences in a world where information overload has become a new ontology of not knowing Their feminist digital methods allow considerations of internet things through alternative networked internet time slowing down to see honor and engage with our past invoking indeterminacy as a human capacity that lets multiple truths commingle on a page or in a body and saving the truths of ourselves and our others differently from the corporate internet s perpetual viral movement Writing across their own shared truisms actors and touchstones the authors propose creative tactics theoretical overtures and experimental escape routes built to a human scale as ways to regain our capacities to know and tell truths about ourselves
