Lie Down With Dogs:

Doing the Best We Can Fred Feldman, 2012-12-06 Several years ago I came across a marvelous little paper in which Hector Neri Castaneda shows that standard versions of act utilitarianism are formally incoherent I was intrigued by his argument It had long seemed to me that I had a firm grasp on act utilitarianism Indeed it had often seemed to me that it was the clearest and most attractive of normative theories Yet here was a simple and relatively uncontroversial argument that showed with only some trivial assumptions that the doctrine is virtually unintelligible The gist of Castaneda's argument is this suppose we understand act utilitarianism to be the view that an act is obligatory if and only if its utility exceeds that of each alternative Suppose it is obligatory for a certain person to perform an act with two parts we can call it A B Then obviously enough it is also obligatory for this person to perform the parts A and B If act utilitarianism were true we apparently could infer that the utility of A B is higher than that of A and higher than that of B because A B is obligatory and the other acts are alternatives to A B
