Life After Death 1943:

The Film Book Ronald Bergan, 2011-10-03 Film is the world's most popular artistic medium. What began as a novelty at country fairs rapidly became the consummate art form of the twentieth century, spanning both popular culture and high art. The Film Book enables you to identify different cinematic genres, appreciate the style of celebrated directors, see how a film is made, and understand why the greatest movies deserve their reputation. The book is unique in encompassing each of these key aspects and, as such, outspans the many other guides and film companions on the market. The guide is split into seven distinct sections, each of which deals with a particular aspect of film. The first of these chapters is a detailed history of the art form over the last 120 years, charting its evolution from a musical event accompanied by pictures through its numerous developments and innovations: talking pictures, color film, video, and DVD, online films, computer-generated special effects, and the modern 3D experience. The second shows how these techniques are applied in practice, taking the reader behind the camera to explore the film-making process and find out who's who on set, offering a useful insight into how movies are brought to life. Sections 3 to 6 look at the films themselves, providing an overview of cinematic styles and genres: the third section covers everything from westerns, musicals, and sci-fi to arthouse cinema, the avant-garde, and the cult movie; whilst the fourth compares and contrasts the major styles of international cinema with key schools, movements, directors, and films. The fifth section profiles 100 of the film industry's greatest and most influential directors, listing their key works and assessing their cinematic legacy; whilst the sixth section discusses 100 key cinematic works which invented, extended, or reinvented the art form. The closing section of the book is an interesting and often provocative range of lists compiled by a variety of film associations, publications, and institutions. Comprehensive, authoritative, and written with passion and verve, The Film Book is a unique treasure trove of a guide that will appeal to anyone who loves movies.

One World, Big Screen M. Todd Bennett, 2012-11-01 World War II coincided with cinema's golden age Movies now considered classics were created at a time when all sides in the war were coming to realize the great power of popular films to motivate the masses Through multinational research One World Big Screen reveals how the Grand Alliance Britain China the Soviet Union and the United States tapped Hollywood's impressive power to shrink the distance and bridge the differences that separated them The Allies M Todd Bennett shows strategically manipulated cinema in an effort to promote the idea that the United Nations was a family of nations joined by blood and affection Bennett revisits Casablanca Mrs Miniver Flying Tigers and other familiar movies that he argues helped win the war and the peace by improving Allied solidarity and transforming the American worldview Closely analyzing film diplomatic correspondence propagandists' logs and movie studio records found in the United States the United Kingdom and the former Soviet Union Bennett rethinks traditional scholarship on World War II diplomacy by examining the ways that Hollywood and the Allies worked together to prepare for and enact the war effort

General Register Office,1956 Projecting Britain at War Jeremy Havardi,2014-03-04 This detailed chronological analysis of British World War II movies from 1939 until the present explores how films projected recognizable stereotypes of British national character and how the times in which a film was made shaped its perspectives Several chapters look at films made during and immediately after the war In depictions of the Home Front characters display resolve as well as emotional restraint and present an image of an undivided society cooperating to fight evil By contrast duty and service are the paramount virtues of combat films while spy melodramas exemplify the British love of improvisation Fifties war films are examined against the backdrop of alarm and uncertainty caused by the Cold War Such films reflect traditional national character stereotypes though the stiff upper lip begins to be questioned by the end of the decade The book then traces the radical effect of the 1960s revolution revealing how the fondness for skeptical antiwar movies went hand in hand with the questioning of Britain s place in the world The book ends by looking at recent war films and asks whether these reflect the cult of narcissism so prevalent in modern Britain

Air Force Journal of Logistics ,2000 Constructing Nationalities in East Central Europe Pieter M. Judson,Marsha L. Rozenblit,2005 The hundred years between the revolutions of 1848 and the population transfers of the mid twentieth century saw the nationalization of culturally complex societies in East Central Europe This fact has variously been explained in terms of modernization state building and nation building theories each of which treats the process of nationalization as something inexorable a necessary component of modernity Although more recently social scientists gesture to the contingencies that may shape these larger developments this structural approach makes scholars far less attentive to the hard work ideological political social undertaken by individuals and groups at every level of society who tried themselves to build national societies The essays in this volume make us aware of how complex multi dimensional and often contradictory this nationalization process in East Central Europe actually was The authors document attempts and failures by nationalist politicians organizations activists and regimes from 1848 through 1948 to give East Central Europeans a strong sense of national self identification They remind us that only the use of dictatorial powers in the 20th century could actually transform the fantasy of nationalization into a reality albeit a brutal one BOOK JACKET British War Films, 1939-1945 S. Greenhouse,2016-02-22 This is the story of a no military risk campaign that slowly turned into a nightmare The book provides new answers to a number of difficult questions beginning with a discussion of why Canadian troops were sent to Hong Kong at the request of the British War Office Were the British duplicitous in making this request Was Canadian Chief of the General Staff Lieutenant General Harry Crerar guilty of putting his own interests above those of his men in telling the minister of National Defence that there was no military risk in sending the C Force The book recounts the formation of the C Force and its departure to Hong Kong where it arrived just three weeks before the Japanese attack It outlines the course of the battle from December 8 1941 until the inevitable surrender of the garrison on Christmas Day It places appropriate emphasis on the Canadian contribution refuting 1947 allegations by the British General Officer Commanding allegations which were only made public in 1993 that the Canadians did not fight well Greenhouse attacks these charges with solid evidence from participants and eye witnesses Finally the book tells the story of life and death in the prison camps of Hong Kong and Japan
