Liminal Fiction at the Edge of the Millennium Jessica A. Folkart,2014-10-08 Liminal Fiction at the Edge of the Millennium The Ends of Spanish Identity investigates the predominant perception of liminality identity situated at a threshold neither one thing nor another but simultaneously both and neither caused by encounters with otherness while negotiating identity in contemporary Spain Examining how identity and alterity are parleyed through the cultural concerns of historical memory gender roles sex religion nationalism and immigration this study demonstrates how fictional representations of reality converge in a common structure wherein the end is not the end but rather an edge a liminal ground On the border between two identities the end materializes as an ephemeral limit that delineates and differentiates yet also adjoins and approximates In exploring the ends of Spanish fiction both their structure and their intentionality Liminal Fiction maps the edge as a constitutive component of narrative and identity in texts by Najat El Hachmi Cristina Fern ndez Cubas Javier Mar as Rosa Montero and Manuel Rivas In their representation of identity on the edge these fictions enact and embody the liminal not as simply a transitional and transient mode but as the structuring principle of identification in contemporary Spain

The Woman's Film of the 1940s Alison L. McKee,2014-04-03 This book explores the relationship among gender desire and narrative in 1940s woman s films which negotiate the terrain between public history and private experience The woman s film and other form of cinematic melodrama have often been understood as positioning themselves outside history and this book challenges and modifies that understanding contextualizing the films it considers against the backdrop of World War II In addition in paying tribute to and departing from earlier feminist formulations about gendered spectatorship in cinema McKee argues that such models emphasized a masculine centered gaze at the inadvertent expense of understanding other possible modes of identification and gender expression in classical narrative cinema She proposes ways of understanding gender and narrative based in part on literary narrative theory and ultimately works toward a notion of an androgynous spectatorship and mode of interpretation in the 1940s woman s film

Rising from the Ruins Garth Jackson Gillan, 2012-02-01 Rising from the Ruins is an assessment of reason being and the good in a world fractured by the passage of the Shoah or Holocaust The historical character of evil that appeared in the Shoah damaged the relationship of human existence to being creating a time when the confidence of reason to possess the truth no longer exists Rising from the Ruins relocates the relationships among being reason and the good in terms of a metaphysics ethics and politics that derive from faith and heteronomy Rather than another attempt to document the horror of the Shoah this book chronicles what the world is like for those who have read and listened to previous accounts Rising from the Ruins doesn't celebrate surviving the Holocaust instead it speaks of a rationality that sees truth and the good through the eyes of suffering and the silence of death Such a rationality Gillan suggests looks more like faith and it takes its place among the sweat and tears of common men and women who are dedicated to building a human city populated with children the poor the sick and the aged
