Education and Development James Lynch, Celia Modgil, Sohan Modgil, 1997 In Education and Development James Lynch works on the basis that universal primary education is a human right which should be accorded to all children forthwith Radio for Education and Development Peter L. Spain, Dean T. Jamison, Emile G. McAnany, 1977 Education and Development Wadi D. Haddad, 1990 Routledge Handbook of International Education and Development Simon McGrath, Qing Gu, 2015-07-24 This timely Handbook takes stock of the range of debates that characterise the field of international education and development and suggests key aspects of a research agenda for the next period It is deliberately divergent in its approach recognising the major ideological and epistemological divides that characterise a field that draws on many traditions Leading and emergent voices from different paradigms and contexts are afforded a space to be heard and each section puts current debates in larger historical contexts The Handbook is divided in four parts and book ended by an introduction and a conclusion the latter oriented towards the implications that the volume has for future research agendas The first part explores major strands of debates about education s place in development theory The second acknowledges the disciplining of the field by the education for all movement and examines the place that learning and teaching and schools play in development Part three looks beyond schools to consider early years adult and vocational education but focuses particularly on the return to thinking about higher education s role in development The final part considers the changing but still important role that international cooperation plays in shaping education in developing countries Featuring over thirty chapters written by leading international and interdisciplinary scholars the Routledge Handbook of International Education and Development offers the first comprehensive and forward looking resource for students and scholars Education and Development, from the Age of Innocence to the Age of Skepticism Hans N. Weiler, 1979 Early Childhood Education and Development in Poor Villages of Indonesia Amer Hasan, Marilou Hyson, Mae Chu Chang, 2013-07-18 Indonesia has begun to emerge into middle income status yet persistent poverty and stark inequalities continue to affect young children s development This book tells the story of Indonesia s efforts to change the trajectory of development for poor children Many countries have similar aims but several aspects of what is reported here are especially valuable and perhaps unique The study offers data on all aspects of health and development in a sample of rural young children collected with internationally validated measures as well as household information information about parenting practices including feeding patterns parent questionnaires and data on the prevalence and distribution of ECED services The data reported in this book is based on a sample of more than 6 000 Indonesian children living in 310 poor villages including two age cohorts aged 1 and 4 years old when data were first collected on their development in 2009 From the start the project aimed not only to support service provision but also to support the development of national standards build national and district capacity and encourage the establishment of a system of ECED quality assurance efforts that are still in process Few such analyses have been done with such a large sample and with multiple measures These design features allow a high level of confidence in the results that are reported The lessons from this book will help to inform not only this project s further implementation but ECED initiatives in Indonesia and around the world Thus the results presented in this book are of significance for researchers policy makers and practitioners within and beyond Indonesia The experiences and research results discussed here are especially relevant for Researchers in early childhood development and program evaluation Policymakers within and beyond Indonesia Providers of early childhood services Professional development providers and Advocates for quality early childhood services Gender, Education and Development Christine Heward, Sheila Bunwaree, 1999 This book grounds the education of women and girls in the realities of their lives and experience in diverse areas of the developing world Moving beyond the previous emphasis on access to education to problematise its content and the way it is experienced the case studies range from the Arakambut of Peru to the changing experience of racialised education in South Africa The contributors take issue with the World Bank s view that the education of girls and women is important primarily as a cost effective mechanism for making women more economically productive Including an overview chapter on the impact of structural adjustment on education throughout Latin America and Africa the book provides detailed information on Sri Lanka Nepal Pakistan Malaysia Papua New Guinea Peru Ethiopia Tanzania South Africa Niger and Mauritius It meets the urgent need to understand the education of women and girls in their economic political and cultural contexts
