Education for Adults Malcolm Tight, 2014-06-17 The nature of adult education at individual group and community levels is the concern of this book Definitions and patterns of adult learning are critically assessed in both this country and abroad and the processes involved considered in detail Both case studies and thematic articles have been included and are selected to illustrate the breadth of the field along a number of areas formal non formal and informal education face to face and distance education from basic levels of education to higher education from highly deterministic to more open or self directed forms of education It is felt that the study and practice of the education of adults can be best advanced by the adoption of such a broad view Resources in Education ,1998

Petrie-Wyman, Abdesalam Soudi, 2019-12-01 Diversity research and scholarship has evolved over the past several decades and is now reaching a critical juncture While the scholarship on diversity and inclusion has advanced within various disciplines and subdisciplines there have been limited conversations and collaborations across distinct areas of research Theories paradigms research models and methodologies have evolved but continue to remain locked within specific area disciplines or theoretical canons This collaborative edited volume examines diversity across disciplines in higher education Our book brings together contributions from the arts sciences and professional fields In order to advance diversity and inclusion across campuses multiple disciplinary perspectives need to be acknowledged and considered broadly The current higher education climate necessitates multicultural and interdisciplinary collaboration Global partnerships and technological advances require faculty administrators and graduate students to reach beyond their disciplinary focus to achieve successful programs and research projects We need to become more familiar discussing diversity across disciplines Our book investigates diversity across disciplines with attention to people process policies and paradigms The four thematic categories of people process policies and paradigms describe the multidisciplinary nature of diversity and topics relevant to faculty administrators and students in higher education The framework provides a structure to understand the ways in which people are impacted by diversity and the complicated process of engaging with diversity in a variety of contexts Policies draw attention to the dynamic nature of diversity across disciplines and paradigms presents models of diversity in research and education School Life ,1949

The 'desegregation' of English schools Olivier Esteves, 2018-12-21 Dispersal or bussing was introduced in England in the early 1960s after white parents expressed concerns that the sudden influx of non Anglophone South Asian children was holding back their own children s education It consisted in sending busloads of mostly Asian children to predominantly white suburban schools in an effort to spread the burden and to promote linguistic and cultural integration Although seemingly well intentioned dispersal proved a failure it was based on racial identity rather than linguistic deficiency and ultimately led to an increase in segregation as bussed pupils were daily confronted with racial bullying in dispersal schools This is the first ever book on English bussing based on an in depth study of local and national archives alongside interviews with formerly bussed pupils decades later      Hearings United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Public Welfare,1971

Troyna,Jenny Williams,2012 Multicultural education is a major concern throughout the world In the UK many local education authorities have implemented curricula which stress the multicultural nature of the world and which pay some attention to the cultural tradition of minority groups This book argues that this approach is inadequate It reviews education policies from the 1960s to the mid 1980s and argues that the playing down of racism in education and avoidance of any clear policy was in fact misguided and has not resulted in equality of opportunity for all students as was hoped The authors argue instead that clear policies to counter racism should be formulated and should be linked to more broadly conceived equal opportunity programmes in short that these policies cannot be effective if they fail to consider also inequalities of gender and class
