Institutional Research, 2001 University Rankings Jung Cheol Shin, Robert K. Toutkoushian, Ulrich Teichler, 2011-06-06 This ground breaking and exhaustive analysis of university ranking surveys scrutinizes their theoretical bases methodological issues societal impact and policy implications providing readers with a deep understanding of these controversial comparators The authors propose that university rankings are misused by policymakers and institutional leaders alike They assert that these interested parties overlook the highly problematic internal logic of ranking methodologies even as they obsess over the surveys assessment of their status The result is that institutions suffer from short termism realigning their resources to maximize their relative rankings While rankings are widely used in policy and academic discussions this is the first book to explore the theoretical and methodological issues of ranking itself It is a welcome contribution to an often highly charged debate Far from showing how to manipulate the system this collection of work by key researchers aims to enlighten interested parties Tenure in the Sacred Grove Joanne E. Smart,2012-12-06 Routledge Handbook of the Sociology of Higher Education James E. Côté,2016-06-03 This is the first handbook to cover the sociological approaches to higher education It is timely because of global expansions of mass higher educational systems especially as these systems come under scrutiny by a variety of stakeholders Questions are being raised about the value of traditional pedagogies along with calls for efficiency accountability and cost reduction but above all job training Within this neoliberal context each chapter examines different sociological aspects of and debates about educational institutions as status conferring organizations with myriad positional characteristics experiences and outcomes Many current debates concern the legitimacy of the statuses conferred including the continuing debate regarding the role of universities in legitimating social class reproduction as well as more recent concerns about standards in mass systems This handbook puts these issues and debates in focus in ways that will be of interest to a variety of stakeholders within academia as well as in policy circles Economics of Higher Education Robert K. Toutkoushian,Michael B. Paulsen,2016-03-18 This book examines the many ways in which economic concepts theories and models can be used to examine issues in higher education The topics explored in the book include how students make college going decisions the payoffs to students and society from going to college markets for higher education services demand and supply in markets for higher education why and how state and federal governments intervene in higher education markets college and university revenues and expenditures how institutions use net pricing strategies and non price product differentiation strategies to pursue their goals and to compete in higher education markets as well as issues related to faculty labor markets The book is written for both economists and non economists who study higher education issues and provides readers with background information and thorough explanations and illustrations of key economic concepts In addition to reviewing the contributions economists have made to the study of higher education it also examines recent research in each of the major topical areas The book is policy focused and each chapter analyses how contemporary higher education policies affect the behaviour of students faculty and or institutions of higher education Toutkoushian and Paulsen attempted a daunting task to write a book on the economics of higher education for non economists that is also useful to economists A book that could be used for reference and as a textbook for higher education classes in economics finance and policy They accomplish this tough balancing act with stunning success in a large volume that will serve as the go to place for anyone interested in the history and current thinking on the economics of higher education William E Becker Jr Professor Emeritus of Economics Indiana University Faculty Change Agents Connie Marie Schroeder, 2001 Resources in Education, 1997 Teaching, Research and Academic Careers Daniele Checchi, Tullio Jappelli, Antonio Uricchio, 2022-08-12 This open access book evaluates research quality of teaching and the relationship between the two through sound statistical methods and in a comparative perspective with other European countries In so doing it covers an increasingly important topic for universities that affects university funding It discusses whether university evaluation should be limited to a single factor or consider multiple dimensions of research since academic careers teaching and awarding degrees are intertwined The chapters included in the book evaluate teaching and research also taking the gender dimension into account in order to understand where and when gender discrimination occurs in assessment Divided into five sections the book analyses the administrative data on the determinants of career completion of university students increasing precariousness of academic careers especially of young researchers methods designed to assess research productivity when co authorship and team production are becoming the standard practice and interrelations between students achievements and teachers careers driven by research assessment It brings together contributions from a large group of economists statisticians and social scientists working under a project sponsored by ANVUR the Italian agency for the evaluation of teaching and research of academic institutions From an international perspective the findings in this book are particularly interesting because despite low tuition costs tertiary education in Italy has relatively low enrolment rates and even lower completion rates compared to those in other European and American countries This book is of interest to researchers of the sociology of education education policy public administration economics and statistics of education and to administrators and policy makers working in the area of higher education
