Inclusion Strategies for Secondary Classrooms M. C. Gore,2010-04-07 The author provides educators with sixty six keys to help middle and secondary school students with disabilities succeed What Counts as Literacy? Margaret A. Gallego,Sandra Hollingsworth,2000 This critical exploration of the theories and purposes of literacy challenges current assumptions about the discourse of schooling Authors Margaret Anne Gallego and Sandra Hollingsworth along with eminent scholars delve into the lives and literacies that have traditionally been excluded from public classrooms and focus on the disenfranchisement that results from such politics They propose an alternative set of literacies helping non mainstream students to learn the dominant language of power while preserving their community and personal identities Through socio political analyses the contributors argue persuasively for expanding what counts as literacy to include visual media and technological literacy multiple sign systems for special education students community based literacy and personal literacies This practical and fresh collection is an essential resource for educators theorists and researchers who wish to expand the existing definitions of literacy to include multiple perspectives Information Design Rune Pettersson,2002-12-19 The goal of communication oriented design of messages should always be clarity of communication In information design the task of the sender is actually not completed until the receivers have received and understood the intended messages Information Design An introduction includes chapters explaining verbal visual communication information and message design principles design processes and design tools These chapters can be seen as a general framework for production of information and learning materials Based on theories for verbal visual communication this book presents several practical guidelines for the use of text symbols visuals typography and layout in information and learning materials Rune Pettersson is Professor of Information Design at the Department of Innovation Design and Product Development IDP at Mälardalen University in Eskilstuna Sweden

Constructivism Reconsidered in the Age of Social Media Chris Stabile, Jeff Ershler, 2016-01-05 No longer relegated to just the classroom learning has become universal through the use of social media Social media embodies constructivism itself as the users engage in the development of their own meaning And constructivism is relevant to education and learning theory and technological advance can be better understood in the light of one another This volume explores particular areas influenced by constructivist thinking and social media such as student learning faculty development and pedagogical practices practical and useful ways to engage in social media and dialogue and discussions regarding the nature of learning in relation to the technology that has changed how both faculty and students experience their educational landscape This is the 144th volume of this Jossey Bass higher education series It offers a comprehensive range of ideas and techniques for improving college teaching based on the experience of seasoned instructors and the latest findings of educational and psychological researchers

CALL Research Perspectives Joy L. Egbert, Gina Mikel Petrie, 2006-04-21 This work creates a foundation for the study and practice of computer assisted language learning and provides an overview of ways to conceptualize and to conduct research in CALL It posits that all approaches to research have a place and that researchers teachers and students have a role in the study of computer enhanced language learning

Digital Imagery and Informational Graphics in E-Learning: Maximizing Visual Technologies Hai-Jew, Shalin, 2009-11-30 The information contained within this book will show that although the development and selection of instructional materials is generally done towards the end of the instructional design process it must be viewed in a more inclusive way in that the visuals themselves may affect many other components of the educational design Provided by publisher

Librarians, Literacy and the Promotion of Gender Equity Lesley S.J. Farmer, 2014-12-03 Today's youth have available an unprecedented array of information and media and today's literacy must extend well beyond decoding the printed page As the keepers of information how do librarians help boys and girls separate relevant from irrelevant important from unimportant helpful from harmful How can librarians help students become self-sufficient learners This book addresses today's need for literacies in technology reading information and numbers as well as visual aural and media literacy With thorough consideration of the latest research it focuses on how gender affects the way these literacies are learned experienced and used Exercises are recommended to help students of both genders become effective learners and managers of their environment After delving into issues of gender such as differences and similarities in the way boys and girls learn discussion concentrates on how librarians and other educators can design learning activities with gender and technology issues in mind Individual chapters deal with each type of literacy and the concluding chapter discusses the interdependence of all This book demonstrates that the era of one size fits all literacy is behind us and argues for the library as an optimal learning environment for exploring literacies holistically
