Inside A Curriculum Project A Case Study In The Process Of Curriculum Change:

Inside a Curriculum Project M. D. Shipman, D. Bolam, D. R. Jenkins, 2018-10-03 Originally published in 1974 This book presents research into the planning and implementation of the Keele Integrated Studies Project From 1969 to 1972 the work of the project team was investigated through observation questionnaire and interview to obtain a picture of the way decisions about curriculum innovation are made and of how these decisions are executed in schools The book is mainly the outsider's view but the Project Director and the Assistant Director have contributed chapters and comments by members of the project team are also included Three aspects of the curriculum project are covered the interaction between project team trial schools university local authority and Schools Council the relations within the project team within the trial schools and between the curriculum innovators and the classroom teachers and the impact of the project after the finish of the trial in the schools The final chapters include conclusions on the process of curriculum change and on the education system in which it occurs The problems of reconciling the different perspectives and interests of all the parties involved are examined in detail showing that negotiation adaptation and compromise are at the heart of curriculum change Inside a Curriculum Project M. D. Shipman, D. Bolam, D. Jenkins, 1974 Biography, Identity, and Schooling Ivor Goodson, Rob Walker, 1991 In this book the authors relate their work on curriculum reform to the succession of changes in the sociology of education using it as a starting point for setting new directions The book is a restatement of the central role of people in educational systems

Promoting Early Career Teacher Resilience Bruce Johnson, Barry Down, Rosie Le Cornu, Judy Peters, Anna Sullivan, Jane Pearce, Janet Hunter, 2015-08-27 Offers a rich set of narratives largely from an insiders point of view to help us create an alternative conception and practice of critical teacher resilience based on the principles and values of teacher empowerment participatory democracy and social justice Provides an alternative socio cultural and critical approach to teacher resilience challenging the implicit assumption that resilience primarily resides within individuals Seeks to empower graduate teachers by helping them to comprehend the ways in which individual personal troubles are neither unique nor isolated but are public issues shaped by wider historic and structural patterns and movements in the social world Written by a team of authors who are experts in the field of teacher resilience Teacher Decision-Making in the Classroom John Eggleston, 2018-10-03

Making decisions is one of the main activities of the teacher's work Considered or apparently unconsidered these decisions significantly affect the lives of all who work in classrooms both children and the teachers themselves Originally published in 1979 the aim of this collection of papers was to achieve greater understanding of classroom decision making and its consequences to identify and map existing knowledge and to indicate where it might be augmented The contributors were researchers and teachers from schools universities and colleges at the time and they examine the process of teacher decision making from sociological psychological economic and other perspectives The book includes a detailed analysis of life in the classroom from a phenomenological perspective explorations based on micro economic techniques and structural perspectives on the role of the teacher in the school The concluding papers examine the possibilities for social change given the constraints on the work of the teacher

Pedagogy of Place

David M. Callejo-Pérez, Judith J. Slater, Stephen M. Fain, 2004 Pedagogy of Place focuses on the embodiment of purposefully created space resulting from the creation and enactment of its participants cultural and social conditions. It is also about education the purposeful creation of spaces that comprise learning environments and the aesthetic dimensions of the created space called school. The essays present the concept of space the place where learning happens and where the lives of student and teacher can thrive or wither a place rich in human potential. In an attempt to address the diversity of what we define as space Pedagogy of Place addresses issues around place and identity in three distinct strands as social as aesthetic and as political and historical. As a collection these essays are attempts to open conversations with persons interested in what counts as curriculum teaching and learning within the spaces and places that release human potential and nurture the human spirit.

Creole Cultures, Vol. 2 Morgan Dalphinis, Duane Edwards, Michael M. Kretzer, Violet Cuffy, 2024-06-29 This edited book considers the significance of creole cultures within current changing global contexts located within post colonial and developing states. It also examines safeguarding the languages and cultural practices that sustain creole identities. The concept of Creolity as approached through the different lenses of postcolonial studies history and anthropology is used here to consider the social constructions of creole identities their political and economic realities and how they are experienced as changing particularly in the modern context. Themes explored are creole societies folklore and orature cultural hegemony cultural sociology hybridity and national cultural Identity. The New Beacon, 1980 Agency in Language Policy and Planning: Jeremie Bouchard, Gregory Paul Glasgow, 2018-12-21 This collection brings together theory and ethnographic research from a range of national contexts to offer unique insights into the nature of agency in language policy and planning. Situated within a broader sociological framework the book explores agentive processes at work in case studies from around the world engaging in discussions of such key themes as language and identity language ideologies linguistic diversity in education and language revitalization. Each chapter examines the ways in which decisions made at both the local and national level impact language use and in turn the dynamic relationship between language use policy and practice in these contexts. Taken together this volume advances our understanding of agency in language policy and planning and directions for future research making this key reading for students and scholars in language and education critical sociolinguistics and applied linguistics.
