Immigration and Identity Salman Akhtar, 1999      Immigration and Identity Salman Akhtar, 1999 Why do people migrate from one country to another What is the difference between an immigrant and an exile What determines the psychological outcome of immigration Can one ever mourn the loss of one's country What are the defensive functions of nostalgia Are there specific guidelines for psychotherapy and psychoanalysis for immigrant patients How can the therapist disentangle the patient's cultural rationalizations from underlying intrapsychic conflicts In this unique book psychoanalyst and poet Salman Akhtar provides answers to such questions He notes that migration from one country to another has lasting effects on an individual's identity Such identity change involves the dimensions of drives and affects psychic space temporality and social affiliation Dr Akhtar addresses the immigrant's idealization and devaluation closeness and distance hope and nostalgia transitional area of the mind superego change and linguistic transformation With poignant clinical vignettes he illustrates the implications of these ideas for the therapeutic process where the therapist the patient or both are immigrants Immigration and Identity replete with poetry and personal letters from immigrant colleagues from many nations conveys its message with irony wit laughter pain sadness empathy and above all clinical and human wisdom      Immigration, Cultural Identity, and Mental Health Eugenio M. Rothe, Andres J. Pumariega, 2020-02-17 What will the ethnic racial and cultural face of the United States look like in the upcoming decades and how will the American population adapt to these changes Immigration Cultural Identity and Mental Health Psycho social Implications of the Reshaping of America outlines the various psychosocial impacts of immigration on cultural identity and its impact on mainstream culture Thoroughly researched this book examines how cultural identity relates to individual mental health and should be taken into account in mental health treatment In a time when globalization is decreasing the importance of national boundaries and impacting cultural identity for both minority and mainstream populations the authors explore the multiple facets of what immigration means for culture and mental health The authors review the concept of acculturation and examine not only how the immigrant's identity transforms through this process but also how the immigrant transforms the host culture through interculturation The authors detail the risk factors and protective factors that affect the first generation and subsequent generations of immigrants in their adaptation to American society and also seek to dispel myths and clarify statistics of criminality among immigrant populations Further the book aims to elucidate the importance of ethnicity and race in the psychotherapeutic encounter and offers treatment recommendations on how to approach and discuss issues of ethnicity and race in psychotherapy It also presents evidence based psychological treatment interventions for immigrants and members of minority populations and shows how psychotherapy involves the creation of new more adaptive narratives that can provide healing personal growth and relevance to the immigrant experience Throughout the authors provide clinical case examples to illustrate the concepts presented      Handbook of Managerial Behavior and Occupational Health Alexander-Stamatios G.

Cone Debora Cordeiro Rosa,2012-04-19 The Jewish presence in Latin America is a recent chapter in Jewish history that has produced a remarkable body of literature that gives voice to the fascinating experience of Jews in Latin American lands This book explores the complexity of Jewish identity in Latin America through the fictional Jewish characters of five novels written by Jewish authors from the Southern Cone Argentina Brazil Chile Paraguay and Uruguay It examines how trauma and memory have profound effects on shaping the identity of these Jewish characters who have to forge a new identity as they begin to interact with the Latin American societies of their newly adopted homes The first three novels present stories narrated by the first generation of immigrants who arrived in Latin American lands escaping pogroms in Russia and the increasing persecution and anti Semitism in Europe in the decades prior to World War II The fourth novel analyses the identity conflicts experienced by a second generation Latin American born Jew who questions his Jewish questions of assimilation and integration in to his society The last novel closes this study with the existential crisis experienced by a perfectly assimilated non religious Jew who enquires about his Jewishness and compares himself to other Jews around him

Immigration in Psychoanalysis Julia Beltsiou,2016-01-08 Immigration in Psychoanalysis Locating Ourselves presents a unique approach to understanding the varied and multi layered experience of immigration exploring how social cultural political and historical contexts shape the psychological experience of immigration and with it the encounter between foreign born patients and their psychotherapists Beltsiou brings together a diverse group of contributors including Ghislaine

Boulanger Eva Hoffman and Dori Laub to discuss their own identity as immigrants and how it informs their work They explore the complexity and the contradictions of the immigration process the tension between loss and hope future and past the idealization and denigration of the other stranger and what it takes to tolerate the existential dialectic between separateness and belonging Through personal accounts full of wisdom and nuance the stories of immigration come to life and become accessible to the reader Intended for clinicians students and academics interested in contemporary psychoanalytic perspectives on the topic of immigration this book serves as a resource for clinical practice and can be read in courses on psychoanalysis cultural psychology immigrant studies race and ethnic relations self and identity culture and human development and immigrants and mental health

A Minyan of Women Beverly Greene, Dorith Brodbar, 2013-09-13 This book explores the diverse manner in which family dynamics shaped Jewish identities in ways that were unique and directly connected to their experiences within their families of origin Highlighted is the diversity of experience of ethnic identity within members of a group of women who are similar in many respects and who belong to an ethnic group that is often invisible Jewish people like members of other ethnic groups are often treated as if their identities were homogeneous However gender social class sexual orientation factors surrounding immigration status proximity of family members to the holocaust or pogroms the number of generations one's family has been in the US and other salient aspects of experience and identities transform and inform the meaning and experience by group members The book explores these diversities of experience and goes on to highlight the way in which the intermingling of family dynamics and subsequent Jewish identity in these women is manifested in the practice of psychotherapy In 2012 the book had been awarded the Jewish Women Caucus of the Association for Women in Psychology Award for Scholarship for that year This book was published as a special issue of Women and Therapy

Further Developments in Interpersonal Psychoanalysis, 1980s-2010s Donnel B. Stern, Irwin Hirsch, 2017-12-14 Further Developments in Interpersonal Psychoanalysis 1980s 2010s is the second collection of selected classic articles of the modern era by psychoanalysts identified with the interpersonal perspective The first The Interpersonal Perspective in Psychoanalysis 1960s 1990s presented articles by second and third generation interpersonalists This book contains those written by the third and fourth generation of interpersonal psychoanalysts The articles selected by the Editors for this second book extend the theme of transference and countertransference that was the throughline of the first book lending even greater significance in clinical practice to the analyst's subjectivity and its relation to the patient's mind One chapter after another in this book reveal ways that the analyst's experience can lead to a greater appreciation of the patient's unconscious experience It is because of papers such as these that interpersonal psychoanalysis has been described as the origin at least in North America of the contemporary clinical interest in psychoanalytic subjectivity As in the first the articles in this second book include classic contributions from Bromberg Greenberg Hirsch Mitchell Levenson Stern and Wolstein these writers are joined here by Blechner Bonovitz Buechler Fiscalini Held Weiss Kuriloff and White North American psychoanalysis has long been deeply influenced and substantially changed by clinical and theoretical perspectives first introduced by interpersonal psychoanalysis Yet even today despite its origin in the 1930s many otherwise well read psychoanalysts and psychotherapists are not well informed about the field Along with its companion work this book provides a superb starting point for those who are not as familiar with interpersonal psychoanalysis as they might be For those who already know the literature the book will be useful in placing a selection of classic interpersonal articles and their writers in key historical context

Forced Migration and Social Trauma Andreas Hamburger, Camellia Hancheva, Saime Özcürümez, Carmen Scher, Biljana Stankovic, Slavica Tutnjjevic, 2018-10-31 Forced Migration and Social Trauma addresses the topic of social trauma and migration by bringing together a broad range of interdisciplinary and international contributors comprising refugee care

practitioners trauma researchers sociologists and specialists in public policy from all along the Balkan refugee route into Europe It gives the essence of a moderated dialogue between psychologists and psychoanalysts sociologists public policy and refugee care experts Migration is connected to social trauma and cannot be handled without being aware of this context The way refugees are treated in the transit or target countries is often determined by the socio traumatic history of these countries Social trauma can be collectively committed and perpetuated leaving transgenerational traces in posttraumatic and attachment disorders uprootedness and loss of social and political confidence Media and cultural artefacts like press TV and the internet influence collective coping as well as traumatic perpetuation This book shows how xenophobia in the refugee receiving or transit countries can be caused by projection rather than by experience and that the way refugees are received and regarded in a country may be connected to the country s cultural traumatic history Refugees who are often individually and collectively traumatised experience multiple re enactments however such retraumatisations between refugees and receiving populations or institutions often remain unaddressed The split between welcoming and hostile attitudes sometimes leads to unconscious institutional defences such as lack of cooperation between medical psychotherapeutic humanitarian and legal institutions An interdisciplinary and international exchange on migration and social trauma is necessary on all levels this book gives convincing examples of this dialogue Forced Migration and Social Trauma will be of great interest to all who are involved in the modern issues of refuge and migration
