The Changing Face of Korean Cinema Brian Yecies, Aegyung Shim, 2015-12-22 The rapid development of Korean cinema during the decades of the 1960s and 2000s reveals a dynamic cinematic history which runs parallel to the nation's political, social, economic and cultural transformation during these formative periods. This book examines the ways in which South Korean cinema has undergone a transformation from an antiquated local industry in the 1960s into a thriving international cinema in the 21st century. It investigates the circumstances that allowed these two eras to emerge as creative watersheds and demonstrates the forces behind Korea's positioning of itself as an important contributor to regional and global culture and especially its interplay with Japan, Greater China and the United States. Beginning with an explanation of the understudied operations of the film industry during its 1960s take off, it then offers insight into the challenges that producers, directors and policy makers faced in the 1970s and 1980s during the most volatile part of Park Chung-hee's authoritarian rule and the subsequent Chun Doo-hwan military government. It moves on to explore the film industry's professionalization in the 1990s and subsequent international expansion in the 2000s. In doing so, it explores the nexus and tensions between film policy, producing, directing, genre and the internationalization of Korean cinema over half a century. By highlighting the recent transnational turn in national cinemas, this book underscores the impact of developments pioneered by Korean cinema on the transformation of Planet Hollywood. It will be of particular interest to students and scholars of Korean Studies and Film Studies.

The State, Class and Developmentalism in South Korea Hae-Yung Song, 2019-10-16. This book problematises the statist underpinnings of the concept of the developmental state in terms of both state-society and national-global relations, challenging the notion that the state is the agent of national development, qua being autonomous from the domestic and global economies. Presenting a thorough and comprehensive critical assessment of the extant approaches and theories of the Korean developmental state, in particular, this book demonstrates that the existing literature, including Marxist critiques, only inadequately and partially challenge statism. It examines how statism reinforces and is reinforced by Third World Developmentalism, the idea that development is in itself a positive goal and that a nationally autonomous mode of development should be promoted as a means of empowerment. In opposition, this book offers a critique of statism by constructing an alternative theoretical framework extending Marx's concept of commodity fetishism to state-society and national-global relations. Drawing on a new theoretical framework and significant Korean literature, The State, Class and Developmentalism in South Korea offers a novel historical interpretation and critique of the developmental state in the Korean context. As such, it will be useful to students and scholars of Asian studies, Development Studies and International Political Economy.
