International Technology Transfer Concepts Measures And Comparisons:

International Technology Transfer Nathan Rosenberg, Claudio Frischtak, 1985-10-15 For many years it was assumed that technology transfer would prove an unqualified answer for the problems of the developing nations vastly simplifying and accelerating their rate of economic development The papers in this volume question these assumptions demonstrating how technology transfer can be very costly and that success is contingent upon a variety of factors including the direction of indigenous technology and the political setting of the recipient country

Intellectual Property and Development Keith E. Maskus, Carsten Fink, 2005-01-01 International policies toward protecting intellectual property rights have seen profound changes over the past two decades Rules on how to protect patents copyright trademarks and other forms of intellectual property have become a standard component of international trade agreements Most significantly during the Uruguay Round of multilateral trade negotiations 1986 94 members of what is today the World Trade Organization WTO concluded the Agreement on Trade Related Intellectual Property Rights TRIPS which sets out minimum standards of protection that most of the world's economies have to respect How will developing countries fare in this new international environment Intellectual Property and Development brings together empirical research that assesses the effects of changing intellectual property regimes on various measures of economic and social performance ranging from international trade foreign investment and competition to innovation and access to new technologies The studies presented point to an important development dimension to the protection of intellectual property But a one size fits all approach to intellectual property is unlikely to work There is need to adjust intellectual property norms to domestic needs taking into account developing countries capacity to innovate technological needs and institutional capabilities In addition governments need to consider a range of complementary policies to maximize the benefits and reduce the costs of reformed intellectual property regulations This book will be of interest to students and scholars of international law particularly in the area of intellectual property rights international trade and public policy

Learning and Innovation in Economic Development Linsu Kim, 1999-01-01 These essays identify the evolutionary processes and patterns of learning capability building and innovation in catch up countries They suggest that such economies have different patterns of learning from those of advanced countries Kim uses the example of Korea to examine various industries

Technology Transfer and International Production Jin W. Cyhn, 2002-03-27 This book analyses the technology development efforts of Korea's electronics industry the country's largest exporter It asks how the Korean electronics industry was able to develop both in terms of production and technology despite low inflows of licensing and foreign direct investments The book argues that the key to its spectacular growth has been through its participation and learning from an inter firm arrangement called original equipment manufacturing arrangement OEM A number of firm level case studies on the Korean electronics industry support this argument The role of the government especially related to its technology policy has also been analysed The government was effective in providing financial incentives for the firms technological upgrading efforts but its supplying of direct technological assistance had limited success Overall this book argues that contrary to many previous studies the role of multinational enterprises has been significant in the development of Korea s electronics industry and that they have acted as a technological tutor for Korea through OEM P xiv tributors world 0 Innovation systems Francis, J. (ed),Mytalka, L. (ed),van Huis, A. (ed),Röling, N. (ed),2016-12-31 The result of an expert consultation this publication examines innovations systems a concept suggested as underpinning industrial development as a strategy for agricultural development Innovation systems approaches conceptualise change as a long term socially embedded process and recognise the important role policy plays in shaping the parameters within which decisions are made Providing a collection of papers and commentaries from the world s top scholars and practitioners this book looks at the strengths but also the weaknesses and challenges Technology Transfer Via University-Industry Relations Maria Isabel Rivera Vargas,2018-10-24 This book examines the technology that is transferred in Mexico s Silicon Valley and the role that institutions of higher education and foreign electronics corporations play in the process Riveria Vargas delineates that technology transfer is occurring describes it nature the channels of transfer and its level by focusing on the informal mechanisms of technology transfer Among the significant findings are that there has been very limited real technology transferred and that most of it is concentrated in operative level capabilities This study reveals that the lack of absorptive scientific and technological capacity as a factor often cited to explain transfer failure did not apply in the case of the region examined In point of fact the scientific and technological capacities exhibited in the region are superior to those in the Silicon Valley of the East in Malaysia during the 1970 s and 1980 s where some studies reported more significant technology transfer What then are the factors hindering technology transfer in some regions or promoting it in others This book explores some the factors in play The International Trade Policy for Technology Transfers Yi Shin Tang,2009-05-05 This book provides a robust guideline to both policymakers and researchers wishing to identify and categorize the factors that influence the process of technology flows across national boundaries as well as the economic theories and legal arguments that may support a given position in international forums In particular the work discusses how certain negotiation strategies may optimally deal with such barriers and lead to more effective institutional arrangements in the current global geography of technological development Developing the Rivers of East and West Africa Heather J. Hoag,2013-09-12 How did rivers contribute to the economic and political development of modern Africa How did African and European notions of nature s value and meaning differ And how have these evaluations of Africa s rivers changed between 1850 and the present day Drawing upon examples from across the African continent Developing the Rivers of East and West Africa explores the role African waterways played in the continent s economic social and political development and provides the first historical study of the key themes in African river history Rivers acted as more than important transportation byways their waters were central to both colonial and postcolonial economic development efforts

This book synthesizes the available research on African rivers with new evidence to offer students of African and environmental history a narrative of how people have used and engaged the continent's water resources. It analyzes key themes in Africa's modern history: European exploration, establishment of colonial rule, economic development, green politics, and each case study provides a lens through which to view social, economic, and ecological change in Africa. Bulletin of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 1990. North-South and South-South F. Stewart, 1991-11-25: an important and timely contribution to the study of South-South economic relations. It provides a cogent and detailed analysis. Henock Kifle: South Letter provides some interesting insights into the determinants and consequences of South-South trade. Frances Stewart: The World Economy. This comprehensive incisive work represents both historical depth and topical breadth. This well-written analysis makes an important contribution to development studies, including development economics and development geography. Georges G. Cravins: The Journal of Asian Studies. These essays explore interactions between North and South and South and South in trade, technology, and finance, focusing on the interests of the South and particularly the poor. The conventional neo-classical approach is shown to have many theoretical deficiencies; the consequences are often harmful to Southern interests while the poor are neglected. The author concludes that the South should adopt a bargaining approach to N-S negotiations and urges for closer South-South relations in trade, technology, and finance. Technological Transformation in the Third World: Volume 5 Surendra J. Patel, 2018-03-29. Originally published in 1995, this book follows the preceding 4 volumes: Asia, Africa, Latin America, and Developed Countries, and discusses technological transformation in development history. It looks back on two centuries of history of the emergence of developed countries and examines the various aspects determining the speed, size, and shape of the historical process of transformation in developed countries after World War 2. Britain, the Empire, and the World at the Great Exhibition of 1851 Dr. Jeffrey A. Auerbach, Professor Peter H. Hoffenberg, 2013-06-28. Britain, the Empire, and the World at the Great Exhibition is the first book to situate the Crystal Palace Exhibition of 1851 in a truly global context. Addressing national, imperial, and international themes, this collection of essays considers the significance of the Exhibition both for its British hosts and their relationships to the wider world and for participants from around the globe. How did the Exhibition connect London, England, important British colonies, and significant participating nation-states including Russia, Greece, Germany, and the Ottoman Empire? How might we think about the exhibits, visitors, and organizers in light of what the Exhibition suggested about Britain's place in the global community? Contributors from various academic disciplines answer these and other questions by focusing on the many exhibits, publications, visitors, and organizers in Britain and elsewhere. The essays expand our understanding of the meanings, roles, and legacies of the Great Exhibition for British society and the wider world, as well as the ways that this pivotal event shaped Britain's and other participating nations' conceptions of and locations within the wider nineteenth-century world.

Power and Ideas Susan K. Sell, 1998-01-01. The first comprehensive political science treatment of the global politics and diplomacy of intellectual property and antitrust with focus on relations between developing and industrialized countries

The Comparative Economics of Research Development and Innovation in East and West Professor Philip Hanson, P. Hanson, K. Cassiolato, Hubert Schmitz, 2002-01-31 Based on original research this book focuses on the importance of the producer user connection the changing balance between national and foreign firms and the need for learning in industry and government Routledge Handbook of Industry and Development John Weiss, Michael Tribe, 2015-09-16 The Routledge Handbook of Industry and Development is a global overview of industrialisation Each chapter will provide readers with contemporary insights into this essential aspect of economic development Industrialisation has been at the forefront of discussion on economic development since the earliest days of development economics But over the last fifty years the manufacturing sectors of different countries and regions have grown at strikingly different rates In 1960 developing countries took a very small share of global manufacturing production Today the position had changed radically with fast growth of manufacturing in many parts of what was originally the developing world particularly in China and the rest of East Asia On the other hand countries in Africa and parts of Latin America have been largely left behind by this process of industrialisation This volume aims to illuminate this uneven development and takes stock of the current issues that hinder and support industrialisation in low and middle income economies This Handbook is a collection of chapters on different aspects of industrialisation experience in a range of countries Key themes include the role of manufacturing in growth the nature of structural change at different stages of development the role of manufacturing in employment creation alternative options for trade and industrial policy the key role of technology and technical change and the impact of globalisation and the spread of global value chains and foreign direct investment on prospects for industrialisation Several chapters discuss individual country experiences with examples from India Mexico South Africa and Tanzania as well as an overview of African industrialisation This authoritative Handbook will be a key reference source for those studying or wishing to understand contemporary economic development Offering inspiration and direction for future research this landmark volume will be of crucial importance to all development economics scholars and researchers

Multinational Corporations and Local Firms in Emerging Economies Eric Rugraff, Michael W. Hansen, 2011 In order for foreign direct investment to have deep and lasting positive effects on host countries it is essential that multinational corporations have close direct and indirect interaction with local firms A valuable addition to the emerging literature on multinational local firm interfaces this book provides a number of case studies from emerging economies that examine such mutually beneficial business relationships and the policy measures necessary to support them
