International Trade And Migration In The Apec Region:

International Trade and Migration in the APEC Region Peter John Lloyd, Lynne S. Williams, 1996 This book details the direct and indirect links between the migration of people and the movement of goods and services in the world economy Focusing on the APEC region the most rapidly growing region in the world the contributors consider such issues as the nature of these links movements within regional and sub regional organisations such as NAFTA and CER the emerging policies of Japan and the Asians NICs as new countries of destination and the long term consequences of these migration and trade flows Palgrave Handbook of International Trade David Greenaway, R. Falvey, U. Kreickemeier, 2016-11-09

International trade is the core foundation of globalisation This current and up to date volume brings together the finest academics working in the field today containing contributions in key areas of policy research such as modelling frameworks trade policy trade and migration trade and the environment trade and unemployment International Migration and Economic Development Robert E. B. Lucas, 2005-01-01 This accessible and topical book offers insights to policy makers in both industrialized and developing countries as well as to scholars and researchers of economics development international relations and to specialists in migration BOOK JACKET International Migration in Southeast Asia Aris Ananta, Evi Nurvidya Arifin, 2004-12-27 Includes statistics International Migration, Remittances, and the Brain Drain Maurice Schiff, Aglar Zden, 2005-10-15 International migration the movement of people across international boundaries has enormous economic social and cultural implications in both origin and destination countries Using original research this title examines the determinants of migration the impact of remittances and migration on poverty welfare and investment decisions and the consequences of brain drain brain gain and brain waste International Migration Douglas S. Massey, J. Edward Taylor, 2004-03-25 International Migration Prospects and Policies offers a comprehensive up to date survey of global patterns of international migration and the policies employed to manage the flows It shows that international migration is not rooted in poverty or rapid population growth but in the expansion and consolidation of global markets As nations are structurally transformed by their incorporation into global markets people are displaced from traditional livelihoods and become international migrants In seeking to work abroad they do not necessarily move to the closest or richest destination but to places already connected to their countries of origin socially economically and politically When they move migrants rely heavily on social networks created by earlier waves of immigrants and in recent years professional migration brokers have become increasingly common Developing countries generally benefit from international migration because migrant savings and remittances provide foreign earnings to finance balance of payments deficits and make productive investments Some developing nations have gone so far as to establish programs or ministries dedicated to the export of workers Developed nations in contrast focus more on the social and economic costs of immigrants and seek to reduce their numbers regulate their characteristics and limit their access to social services Over time receiving nations have gravitated toward a similar set of restrictive policies yielding undocumented migration as a worldwide phenomenon Globalization also creates infrastructures of transportation communication and social networks to put developed societies within reach In the latter ageing populations and segmenting markets create a persistent demand for immigrant workers All these trends are likely to intensify in the coming years to make immigration policy a key political issue in the twenty first century International Migration Slobodan Djajic,2005-07-27 This book provides a contemporary perspective on a broad range of international migration problems It considers recent immigration trends and policies examining migrant behaviour illegal immigration and links between migration and trade Transnational Migration and Work in Asia Kevin Hewison,Ken Young,2006 Providing important sociological insight into the dynamics of migration the essays in this collection focus on issues associated with migration for work both in and from the Asian region With contributions from an international team of well known scholars the text sets labor migration firmly within the context of globalization providing a focused contemporary discussion of what is undoubtedly a major twenty first century concern The first of its kind to look at the non professionals who make up the vast majority of migrant workers in the region the book analyses workers motivations and rationalities highlighting the similarities of migration experiences throughout Asia Presenting in depth case studies of the real life experiences and problems faced by migrant workers the book discusses migrants relations with the state and their vulnerability to exploitation as well as the major policy issues now facing governments employers NGOs and international agencies

Trade, Investment, Migration and Labour Market Adjustment D. Greenaway,R. Upward,K. Wakelin,2002-09-06 Globalization and the growing integration of national markets have had profound effects on the operation of markets not least labour markets In this book a range of leading commentators on globalization and labour markets present original contribution on the interaction between these two areas This book assesses the impact of globalization on trade cross border investment and migration from both a theoretical and econometric standpoint and discusses the possible applications of this analysis for both industrialized and developing countries the challenge of reducing international trade and migration barriers Kym Anderson,L. Alan Winters,2008 Global Production and Trade in East Asia Leonard K. Cheng,Henryk Kierzkowski,2012-12-06 Global Production and Trade in East Asia focuses on the profound change that the traditional paradigm of production and international trade has undergone in the last two decades or so as a result of worldwide trade and investment liberalization This ongoing transformation has been both aided and stimulated by advances in telecommunications transportation and information management The liberalization of trade and investment on the one hand and advances in communications technology on the other have further promoted global production networks in which vertical stages of final goods are fragmented across countries International fragmentation of production which enables international division of labor not only in final products but also in vertically related components is more evident than ever before The book documents the process of international production fragmentation and trade in East Asian economies studies the mechanics of the process explores the theory behind the phenomenon and identifies important policy implications It focuses on production fragmentation and trade in East Asia because this is the part of the world where the phenomenon is most visible With contribution by well known international economics scholars from North America Europe and the Asia Pacific the book distinguishes itself with high global quality and rich regional content It achieves a fine balance between theory policy and empirical work This book will interest scholars of international trade foreign investment and international business regional specialists in East Asian economies policymakers and advisors in international economic relations and anyone else who follows important economic issues of globalization

Asian Migrations Tony Fielding, 2015-07-16 This textbook describes and explains the complex reality of contemporary internal and international migrations in East Asia Taking an interdisciplinary approach Tony Fielding combines theoretical debate and detailed empirical analysis to provide students with an understanding of the causes and consequences of the many types of contemporary migration flows in the region Key features of Asian Migrations Comprehensive coverage of all forms of migration including labour migration student migration marriage migration displacement and human trafficking Text boxes containing key concepts and theories More than 30 maps and diagrams Equal attention devoted to broad structures e.g. political economy and individual agency e.g. migration behaviours Emphasis on the conceptual and empirical connections between internal and international migrations Exploration of the policy implications of the trends and processes discussed Written by an experienced scholar and teacher of migration studies this is an essential text for courses on East Asian migrations and mobility and important reading for courses on international migration and Asian societies more generally

Routledge Handbook of Asian Demography Zhongwei Zhao, Adrian C. Hayes, 2017-12-14 Home to close to 60 per cent of the world's population Asia is the largest and by far the most populous continent It is also extremely diverse physically and culturally Asian countries and regions have their own distinctive histories cultural traditions religious beliefs and political systems and they have often pursued different routes to development Asian populations also present a striking array of demographic characteristics and stages of demographic transition This handbook is the first to provide a comprehensive study of population change across the whole of Asia Comprising 28 chapters by more than 40 international experts this handbook examines demographic transitions on the continent their considerable variations their causes and consequences and their relationships with a wide range of social economic political and cultural processes Major topics covered include population studies and sources of demographic data historical demography family planning and fertility decline sex preferences mortality changes causes of death HIV/AIDS population distribution and migration urbanization marriage and family human capital and labour force population ageing demographic dividends political demography population and environment and Asia's demographic future This handbook provides an authoritative and comprehensive reference for researchers policymakers academics students and anyone who is interested in population change in Asia and the world

Labour Mobility in the Asia-Pacific Region Graeme

Hugo,2003-08-01 Driven by demographic changes and reinforced by intensifying globalization international labour mobility has been on the rise in recent decades in the Asia Pacific region It seems that after trade and investment labour mobility constitutes the final frontier for regional integration among the Asia Pacific economies There is no doubt that labour movements are integral to regional economic integration and critical to the long term health of the regional economies and business operations In reality however such movements are much burdened with political and social problems in the labour origin economies as well as the labour destination economies and yet many of these problems remain not just unaddressed by the relevant governments but not even well studied The present volume seeks to fill this gap by offering synthesis papers stemming from the studies on international labour migration in twenty Asia Pacific economies which were discussed at a joint PECC ABAC conference held in Seoul Korea on 25 26 March 2008 organized by KOPEC These papers examine the demographic transition the associated pattern of international labour migration the national policies associated with it as well as their implications for business and the issues they raise and finally the implications of these analyses for cooperation among the APEC governments for each of the four subregions in the Asia Pacific as well as for the whole region Light

The Lamp: Papers On World Trade And Investment In Memory Of Bijit Bora Christopher Findlay,David Parsons,Mari

Pangestu,2010-06-17 Immigration and Regional Integration in a Globalizing World Christopher C. White,2015-10-08 In Immigration and Regional Integration in a Globalizing World Christopher White makes an important contribution to the immigration debate by investigating the relationship between two of the most important forces shaping the current international system international migration and regional integration The ability to manage the movement of people across national borders is considered one of the primary responsibilities of the nation state but international migration always involves more than one country The world has become increasingly globalized and international migration has followed suit The vast majority of states have come to realize that successful and effective migration policies involve cooperation and coordination with other states sometimes by choice and sometimes by necessity However these efforts both regionally and globally are often highly contentious and result in conflict internally and externally Managing migration and integration are key concerns for governments in nearly every region of the world and will take on even greater importance as globalization and technological advances shrink distances and bring us closer together White uses an evidence based approach to understanding immigration and economic integration to debunk the migration myth that sees a strong connection between these two factors Contrary to prevailing assumptions the main argument is that there is no substantial relationship between the international migration and regional integration despite the political rhetoric that generates enormous fear and anxiety surrounding these issues Instead of conflating them countries can consider the benefits of integration policies without worrying about migration and can consider migration policies without concern for integration This book is for anyone concerned about the issue of immigration and its relationship to trade liberalization and regional integration Southeast

Asia Transformed Chia Lin Sien, 2003 Southeast Asia with a total population of 520 million remains a region characterized by fragmentation diversity and considerable internal conflict despite the unifying influence of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN formed some thirty five years ago In the new millennium it has lost the distinction of being one of the worlds faster growing group of economies since the 1997 financial crisis While it has benefited from the winds of globalization it has now to cope with the painful adjustments to problems that stem from the inadequacies of good governance and structural changes
