Interpreting The Past Essays On Human Primate And Mammal Evolution:

Interpreting the Past Daniel Lieberman, Richard W. Smith, Jay Kelley, 2005-11-01 This volume published in honor of the occasion of David Pilbeam's 65th birthday covers major topics in human primate and mammalian evolution mostly from the Miocene to the present. The papers emphasize novel interpretations of several key areas of longstanding interest and importance including Miocene biogeography and hominoid evolution, the origins of hominids, and new interpretations of the hominid fossil record. In terms of content, most of the papers tackle key issues in the evolution of hominoids and hominids in terms of systematic, paleoenvironmental, and behavioral questions. More broadly, however, the papers explore the epistemological problems of how one interprets the past from the available data.

Evolution of Gibbons and Siamang

Ulrich H. Reichard, Hirohisa Hirai, Claudia Barelli, 2016-08-19 This volume provides insight into gibbon diet and community ecology, the mating system, and reproduction and conservation biology, all topics which represent areas of substantial progress in understanding socio-ecological flexibility and conservation needs of the Hylobatidae family. This work analyzes Hylobatidae evolution by synthesizing recent and ongoing studies of molecular phylogeny, morphology, and cognition in a framework of gibbon and siamang evolution. With its clearly different perspective, this book is written to be read, referenced, and added to the bookshelves of scientists, librarians, and the interested public.

The Oxford Handbook of Language

Evolution Maggie Tallerman, Kathleen R. Gibson, 2012 Leading scholars present critical accounts of every aspect of the field, including work in animal behaviour, anatomy, genetics, and neurology, the prehistory of language, the development of our uniquely linguistic species, and language creation, transmission, and change.

Evolution of the Rodents Philip G. Cox, Lionel Hautier, 2015-08-06 A valuable resource for the latest research on rodents, highlighting links across palaeontology, developmental biology, functional morphology, phylogenetics, and biomechanics.

The Human Career Richard G.

Klein, 2024-05-31 Since its publication in 1989, The Human Career has proved to be an indispensable tool in teaching human origins. This substantially revised third edition retains Richard G. Klein's innovative approach while showing how cumulative discoveries and analyses over the past ten years have significantly refined our knowledge of human evolution. Klein chronicles the evolution of people from the earliest primates through the emergence of fully modern humans within the past 200,000 years. His comprehensive treatment stresses recent advances in knowledge, including, for example, ever more abundant evidence that fully modern humans originated in Africa and spread from there, replacing the Neanderthals in Europe and equally archaic people in Asia. With its coverage of both the fossil record and the archaeological record over the 2.5 million years for which both are available, The Human Career demonstrates that human morphology and behavior evolved together. Throughout the book, Klein presents evidence for alternative points of view but does not hesitate to make his own position clear. In addition to outlining the broad pattern of human evolution, The Human Career details the kinds of data that support it. For the third edition, Klein has added numerous tables and a fresh citation system designed to enhance readability.

especially for students He has also included more than fifty new illustrations to help lay readers grasp the fossils artifacts and other discoveries on which specialists rely With abundant references and hundreds of images charts and diagrams this new edition is unparalleled in its usefulness for teaching human evolution      From Big Bang to Big Mystery Brendan M. Purcell,2012 Everyone knows about the mystery of the Big Bang what started it This book is about the other creation mystery where did human beings in particular come from It traces the material part of our origins from the Big Bang through evolution including the almost 7 million year hominid sequence up to the first humans in Africa over 150 000 years ago That data doesn't seem to explain what paleontologists and archaeologists call the Big Bang of Human Consciousness In his fascinating accessible and thorough study renowned priest and academic Brendan Purcell shows the complementarity that scientists theologians and philosophers bring to a deeper understanding of the mystery of human existence and human consciousness      At the Foot of the Himalayas Catherine Badgley, Michèle E. Morgan, David Pilbeam, 2025-01-28 This authoritative volume brings together decades of insights from one of the longest terrestrial fossil records on the planet The fabled Himalayas have isolated and sheltered the Indian subcontinent for millions of years The Siwalik sequence of sediments at their feet has been a treasure trove of visions into the past for generations of paleontologists preserving an immense 20 million years of terrestrial ecosystems fossil record The Siwalik sequence reveals a unique forest wonderland of diverse animal species from huge elephant relatives great rhinos and sabertooth cats to mongooses swamp rats crocodiles and catfish Regional climate change eventually caused this forest ecosystem to unravel as grasslands replaced the forests and established the habitats and animals of the modern ecosystems of the Indus and Ganges rivers In At the Foot of the Himalayas celebrated paleontologists Catherine Badgley Michèle E. Morgan and David Pilbeam bring together a collection of world renowned scholars to present an interdisciplinary approach to documenting and interpreting this fossil record By investigating changes in landscape climate and vertebrate species diversity their analysis reveals insights into a central question about biodiversity which evolutionary developments were influenced by changes in climate and which were caused by interactions among the species themselves This groundbreaking book illuminates for the first time a mysterious and vibrant paleontological past bringing together more than 40 years of exciting international collaborative studies that forge invaluable knowledge pathways for the ecologists evolutionary scientists and paleontologists of the future and pose important questions about our fragile ecosystems in the present day      Creation and Humanity Veli-Matti Karkkainen, 2015-04-14

The Evolution of the Human Head Daniel E. Lieberman, 2011-01-03 In one sense human heads function much like those of other mammals We use them to chew smell swallow think hear and so on But in other respects the human head is quite unusual Unlike other animals even our great ape cousins our heads are short and wide very big brained snoutless largely furless and perched on a short nearly vertical neck Daniel E. Lieberman sets out to explain how the human head works and why our heads evolved in this peculiarly human way Exhaustively researched and years in the making this innovative book documents how the many components of the head function how they evolved since we diverged from the apes and how they interact in diverse ways both functionally and developmentally causing them to be highly integrated This integration not only permits the head s many units to accommodate each other as they grow and work but also facilitates evolutionary change Lieberman shows how when and why the major transformations evident in the evolution of the human head occurred The special way the head is integrated Lieberman argues made it possible for a few developmental shifts to have had widespread effects on craniofacial growth yet still permit the head to function exquisitely This is the first book to explore in depth what happened in human evolution by integrating principles of development and functional morphology with the hominin fossil record The Evolution of the Human Head will permanently change the study of human evolution and has widespread ramifications for thinking about other branches of evolutionary biology

Primates in Flooded Habitats

Katarzyna Nowak, Adrian A. Barnett, Ikki Matsuda, 2019-01-03 Nearly half the world s primate species use flooded habitats at one time or another from swamp going Congo gorillas and mangrove eating proboscis monkeys to uacaris in Amazonian riverside forests This first ever volume on the subject brings together experts from around the world in a ground breaking volume spanning fossil history current biology and future research and conservation priorities Flooded habitats are a vital part of tropical biology both for the diversity of the species they house and the complexity of their ecological interactions but are often completely overlooked This book will set the stage for a new wave of research on primates in these extraordinarily productive and highly threatened areas and is ideal for researchers and graduate students in primatology zoology ecology and conservation

Chimpanzees and Human Evolution Martin N. Muller, Richard W. Wrangham, David R.

Pilbeam, 2017-11-27 Knowledge of wild chimpanzees has expanded dramatically This volume edited by Martin Muller Richard Wrangham and David Pilbeam brings together scientists who are leading a revolution to discover and explain human uniqueness by studying our closest living relatives Their conclusions may transform our understanding of human evolution

The Timetree of Life S. Blair Hedges, Sudhir Kumar, 2009-04-23 The evolutionary history of life includes two primary components phylogeny and timescale Phylogeny refers to the branching order relationships of species or other taxa within a group and is crucial for understanding the inheritance of traits and for erecting classifications However a timescale is equally important because it provides a way to compare phylogeny directly with the evolution of other organisms and with planetary history such as geology climate extraterrestrial impacts and other features The Timetree of Life is the first reference book to synthesize the wealth of information relating to the temporal component of phylogenetic trees In the past biologists have relied exclusively upon the fossil record to infer an evolutionary timescale However recent revolutionary advances in molecular biology have made it possible to not only estimate the relationships of many groups of organisms but also to estimate their times of divergence with molecular clocks The routine estimation and utilization of these so called time trees could add exciting new dimensions to biology including enhanced opportunities to integrate large molecular data sets with fossil and biogeographic evidence and thereby foster greater communication between molecular and traditional systematists. They could help estimate not only ancestral character states but also evolutionary rates in numerous categories of organismal phenotype, establish more reliable associations between causal historical processes and biological outcomes, develop a universally standardized scheme for biological classifications and generally promote novel avenues of thought in many arenas of comparative evolutionary biology. This authoritative reference work brings together for the first time experts on all major groups of organisms to assemble a timetree of life. The result is a comprehensive resource on evolutionary history which will be an indispensable reference for scientists, educators and students in the life sciences, earth sciences and molecular biology. For each major group of organism a representative is illustrated and a timetree of families and higher taxonomic groups is shown. Basic aspects of the evolutionary history of the group, the fossil record and competing hypotheses of relationships are discussed. Details of the divergence times are presented for each node in the timetree and primary literature references are included. The book is complemented by an online database www.timetree.net which allows researchers to both deposit and retrieve data.

Fossil Mammals of Asia Xiaoming Wang, Lawrence J. Flynn, Mikael Fortelius, 2013-05-14. Fossil Mammals of Asia, edited by and with contributions from world renowned scholars, is the first major work devoted to the late Cenozoic Neogene mammalian biostratigraphy and geochronology of Asia. This volume employs cutting edge biostratigraphic and geochemical dating methods to map the emergence of mammals across the continent. Written by specialists working in a variety of Asian regions, it uses data from many basins with spectacular fossil records to establish a groundbreaking geochronological framework for the evolution of land mammals. Asia's violent tectonic history has resulted in some of the world's most varied topography and its high mountain ranges and intense monsoon climates have spawned widely diverse environments over time. These geologic conditions profoundly influenced the evolution of Asian mammals and their migration into Europe, Africa and North America. Focusing on amazing new fossil finds that have redefined Asia's role in mammalian evolution, this volume synthesizes information from a range of field studies on Asian mammals and biostratigraphy, helping to trace the histories and movements of extinct and extant mammals from various major groups and all northern continents and providing geologists with a richer understanding of a variety of Asian terrains.

Wild Harvest Karen Hardy, Lucy Kubiak Martens, 2016-04-20. Plants are fundamental to life; they are used by all human groups and most animals. They provide raw materials, vitamins and essential nutrients and we could not survive without them. Yet access to plant use before the Neolithic can be challenging. In some places, plants rarely survive and reconstructing plant use in pre-agrarian contexts needs to be conducted using a range of different techniques. This lack of visible evidence has led to plants being undervalued both in terms of their contribution to diet and as raw materials. This book outlines why the role of plants is required for a better understanding of hominin and pre-agrarian human life and it offers a variety of ways in which this can be achieved. Wild Harvest is divided into three sections. In section 1, each chapter focuses on a specific feature of plant use by humans this covers the role of carbohydrates the need for and effects of processing methods the role of plants in self medication among apes plants as raw materials and the extent of evidence for plant use prior to the development of agriculture in the Near East Section 2 comprises seven chapters which cover different methods available to obtain information on plants and the third section has five chapters each covering a topic related to ethnography ethnohistory or ethnoarchaeology and how these can be used to improve our understanding of the role of plants in the pre agrarian past

Wiley-Blackwell Encyclopedia of Human Evolution Bernard Wood,2011-03-31 This comprehensive A to Z encyclopedia provides extensive coverage of important scientific terms related to improving our understanding of how we evolved Specifically the 5 000 entries in this two volume set cover evidence and methods used to investigate the relationships among the living great apes evidence about what makes the behavior of modern humans distinctive and evidence about the evolutionary history of that distinctiveness as well as information about modern methods used to trace the recent evolutionary history of modern human populations This text provides a resource for everyone studying the emergence of Homo sapiens Visit the companion site www.woodhumanevolution.com to browse additional references and updates from this comprehensive encyclopedia

Ardipithecus kadabba Yohannes Haile-Selassie,Giday WoldeGabriel,2023-12-22 The second volume in a series dedicated to fossil discoveries made in the Afar region of Ethiopia this work contains the definitive description of the geological context and paleoenvironment of the early hominid Ardipithecus kadabba This research by an international team describes Middle Awash late Miocene faunal assemblages recovered from sediments firmly dated to between 5.2 and 5.8 million years ago Compared to other assemblages of similar age the Middle Awash record is unparalleled in taxonomic diversity composed of 2 760 specimens representing at least sixty five mammalian genera This comprehensive evaluation of the vertebrates from the end of the Miocene in Africa provides detailed morphological and taxonomic descriptions of dozens of taxa including species new to science It also incorporates results from analyses of paleoenvironment paleobiogeography biochronology and faunal turnover around the Pliocene Miocene boundary opening a new window on the evolution of mammals African fauna and its environments The second volume in a series dedicated to fossil discoveries made in the Afar region of Ethiopia this work contains the definitive description of the geological context and paleoenvironment of the early hominid Ardipithecus kadabba This research

Elwyn Simons: A Search for Origins John G Fleagle,Christopher C. Gilbert,2007-12-03 For nearly a half century Dr Simons has dominated the study of primate evolution This volume summarizes the current state of knowledge in many aspects of primate and human evolution that have been studied by Simons and his colleagues and place it in a broader paleontological and historical perspective The book contains the results of new research as well as reviews of many of the critical issues in primate and human evolution during the last half of the twentieth century

The Evolution of the Primate Hand Tracy L. Kivell,Pierre Lemelin,Brian G. Richmond,Daniel Schmitt,2016-08-10 This book demonstrates how the primate hand combines both primitive and novel

morphology both general function with specialization and both a remarkable degree of diversity within some clades and yet general similarity across many others Across the chapters different authors have addressed a variety of specific questions and provided their perspectives but all explore the main themes described above to provide an overarching primitive primate hand thread to the book Each chapter provides an in depth review and critical account of the available literature a balanced interpretation of the evidence from a variety of perspectives and prospects for future research questions In order to make this a useful resource for researchers at all levels the basic structure of each chapter is the same so that information can be easily consulted from chapter to chapter An extensive reference list is provided at the end of each chapter so the reader has additional resources to address more specific questions or to find specific data

Early Hominin Paleoecology Matt Sponheimer, Julia A. Lee-Thorp, Kaye E. Reed, Peter Ungar, 2013-05-15 An introduction to the multidisciplinary field of hominin paleoecology for advanced undergraduate students and beginning graduate students Early Hominin Paleoecology offers an up to date review of the relevant literature exploring new research and synthesizing old and new ideas Recent advances in the field and the laboratory are not only improving our understanding of human evolution but are also transforming it Given the increasing specialization of the individual fields of study in hominin paleontology communicating research results and data is difficult especially to a broad audience of graduate students advanced undergraduates and the interested public Early Hominin Paleoecology provides a good working knowledge of the subject while also presenting a solid grounding in the sundry ways this knowledge has been constructed The book is divided into three sections climate and environment with a particular focus on the latter adaptation and behavior and modern analogs and models and features contributors from various fields of study including archaeology primatology paleoclimatology sedimentology and geochemistry Early Hominin Paleoecology is an accessible introduction into this fascinating and ever evolving field and will be essential to any student interested in pursuing research in human paleoecology Additional Contributors David Braun Beth Christensen David J Daegling Crag Feibel Fred E Grine Clifford Jolly Naomi E Levin Mark A Maslin John Mitani Jay Quade Amy L Rector Jeanne Sept Lillian M Spencer Mark Teaford Carol V Ward Katy E Wilson

An Ape's View of Human Evolution Peter Andrews, 2016-01-07 Our closest living relatives are the chimpanzee and bonobo We share many characteristics with them but our lineages diverged millions of years ago Who in fact was our last common ancestor Bringing together ecology evolution genetics anatomy and geology this book provides a new perspective on human evolution What can fossil apes tell us about the origins of human evolution Did the last common ancestor of apes and humans live in trees or on the ground What did it eat and how did it survive in a world full of large predators Did it look anything like living apes Andrews addresses these questions and more to reconstruct the common ancestor and its habitat Synthesising thirty five years of work on both ancient environments and fossil and modern ape anatomy this book provides unique new insights into the evolutionary processes that led to the origins of the human lineage
