Understanding the Intersections of Race, Gender, and Gifted Education Nicole M. Joseph, 2020-06-01 This book seeks to understand the complexities of talented and high performing Black girls and women in STEM across the P 20 trajectory Analogously this volume aims to understand the intersections between giftedness its identification and racial gender and academic discipline identities The dearth of literature on this subject suggests that Black girls and women have unique experiences in gifted programming in large part because of factors associated with gifted programs in general Key factors affecting Black students and Black girls in particular are identification and underrepresentation These factors can be shaped by interlocking systems of racism classism gender bias and other forms of oppression Teachers in the P 12 educational system are the first identifiers for gifted programming and look for student characteristics such as natural leadership inquisitiveness and students desire to be in gifted programs Because many Black girls are stereotyped and teachers rarely have deep understanding of cultural differences Black girls are less likely to be identified for gifted programming More specifically Black girls lack of representation in gifted mathematics or STEM programs contradicts research that finds that girls reach several developmental advantages ahead of boys For example research has shown that girls talk and read earlier receive higher grades in elementary school and drop out less often than boys Other studies have also shown that Black girls have higher mathematics career aspirations than their White and Latina female peers yet they are rarely represented in gifted math and Advanced Placement AP math programs Furthermore the underrepresentation of urban low income African American students in gifted education is related to low test scores student and family choice a lack of teacher referral and a mismatch between home and school cultures Some high performing Black girls and women are participating in programs that nurture and support their racial and gender identities and contribute to them developing into strong and efficacious girls and women who have agency in their lives This anthology includes studies that illustrate the complexities of intersectionality in various STEM programs while also demonstrating that increasing access to STEM for Black girls and women is doable

Boundaries, 2005      Violence at the Intersection Toya Z. Like, 2024-08-01 Violence at the Intersection The Interlocking Impact of Race Ethnicity Gender and Class on Risk and Resilience builds upon and expands recent scholarship on the intersectionality of race ethnicity gender gender identity and class and their multiplicative effects on violent offending and victimization Specifically the work examines how these intersections of identity not only affect risks for experiences with violence but also account for the development and expansion of social capital in the form of resilience and human agency among those at risk The results of the research provide a critical assessment of how embodied identities are commonly used to assess those at risk while largely ignoring that these individuals are simultaneously at resilience This work moves beyond the extant literature by considering the role of resilience in violence among disadvantaged groups The work also contributes to growing research on identity and its centrality to experiences with violence and provides an in depth understanding of varied pathways to human agency and the development of social capital even among those who are deemed disadvantaged in society This book will appeal to undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as postdoctoral researchers interested in fields including Criminology Criminal Justice Women Gender Studies Sexuality Studies Race and Ethnicity Studies and Violence Studies      The SAGE Encyclopedia of the Sociology of Religion Adam Possamai, Anthony J.
