INTERSTELLAR TRAVEL

PAST, PRESENT,
AND
FUTURE

A distinguished astronomer
tells how we
and alien beings
may travel
between stars,
between galaxies,
and even into time...

J. Schwartz,Linda Billings,Erika Nesvold,2023 Reclaiming Space is an innovative study of space travel s history legitimacy and future The NewSpace movement that presently dominates spaceflight culture is characterized by distinctly Western free market capitalist values and associated with the space ambitions of the super wealthy This book exists to incubate illuminate and illustrate a more diverse and inclusive conversation about space exploration Reclaiming Space asks What would space exploration be like if we prioritized or even simply acknowledged the perspectives and value systems of individuals who are disabled aren't white aren't male or aren't characteristically Western in their values What can these perspectives teach us all about space exploration and its value or even its potential for harm that cannot be easily recognized or appreciated under the NewSpace status quo And what should we be doing differently when it comes to space exploration The twenty seven original essays in this volume provide much needed perspective on space exploration by offering counterpoints to mainstream thinking about space Essays address subjects such as the history and development of spaceflight culture both within and outside the United States the impact of science fiction and space art on how we conceptualize space diverse cultural narratives and responses to space and the ways space exploration might be leveraged in support of repairing injustices Reclaiming Space also considers what our responsibilities might be as a spacefaring species in the distant future Contributors include academics who research space exploration spaceflight culture space ethics and space policy as well as space artists and authors of award winning science and speculative fiction Written for space enthusiasts of all backgrounds Reclaiming Space is an engaging provocative volume of essays showcasing the perspectives of women persons of color and others who are typically left out of discussions of space exploration

Large Space Structures and Systems in the Space Station Era, 1991-12 Space Calendars Serena Vaughn, AI, 2025-03-05

Space Calendars explores the fascinating and complex world of timekeeping in space revealing how astronauts space agencies and interstellar missions manage time far differently than we do on Earth The book highlights the critical role of precise time measurement for everything from navigation and communication to ensuring astronaut health and safety One intriguing aspect is the impact of time dilation a consequence of relativity which becomes significant at the high velocities encountered in space travel Another key area is understanding how altered time perception affects astronauts psychologically and physiologically during long duration missions The book examines the development of specialized time systems for orbital operations and analyzes how various space agencies such as NASA and ESA implement mission specific calendars and clocks It delves into the history of time measurement from ancient astronomical observations to today's atomic clocks providing a comprehensive foundation for understanding the challenges of space timekeeping By blending scientific theory technical applications and the human experience Space Calendars demonstrates that our concept of time is shaped by our environment and technology The book progresses logically starting with the need for specialized timekeeping in space then moving to mission specific calendars the human impact of altered time perception and finally theoretical challenges related to interstellar timekeeping It draws from technical documents astronaut memoirs and scientific publications to present a comprehensive and accessible overview of this vital aspect of space exploration

The Politics of Space Security James Moltz, 2011-06-29 The past five decades have witnessed often fierce international rivalry in space but also surprising military restraint Now with an increasing number of countries capable of harming U S space assets experts and officials have renewed a long standing debate over the best route to space security Some argue that space defenses will be needed to protect critical military and civilian satellites Others argue that space should be a sanctuary from deployed weapons and military conflict particularly given the worsening threat posed by orbital space debris Moltz puts this debate into historical context by explaining the main trends in military space developments since Sputnik their underlying causes and the factors that are likely to influence their future course This new edition provides analysis of the Obama administration s space policy and the rise of new actors including China India and Iran His conclusion offers a unique perspective on the mutual risks militaries face in space and the need for all countries to commit to interdependent environmentally focused space security Militarizing Outer Space Alexander C.T. Geppert, Daniel Brandau, Tilmann Siebeneichner, 2020-12-02 Militarizing Outer Space explores the dystopian and destructive dimensions of the Space Age and challenges conventional narratives of a bipolar Cold War rivalry Concentrating on weapons warfare and violence this provocative volume examines real and imagined endeavors of arming the skies and conquering the heavens The third and final volume in the groundbreaking European Astroculture trilogy Militarizing Outer Space zooms in on the interplay between security technopolitics and knowledge from the 1920s through the 1980s Often hailed as the site of heavenly utopias and otherworldly salvation outer space transformed from a promised sanctuary to a present threat where the battles of the future were to be waged Astroculture proved instrumental in fathoming forms and functions of warfare's futures past both on earth and in space The allure of dominating outer space the book shows was neither limited to the early twenty first century nor to current American space force rhetorics Desire Change Heather Davis, 2017-06-26 In the resistance to the violence of gender based oppression vibrant but often ignored worlds have emerged full of nuance humour and beauty Correcting an absence of writing about contemporary feminist work by Canadian artists Desire Change considers the resurgence of feminist art thought and practice in the past decade by examining artworks that respond to themes of diversity and desire Essays by historians artists and curators present an overview of a range of artistic practices including performance installation video textiles and photography Contributors address the desire for change through three central frames how feminist art has significantly contributed to the complex understanding of gender as it intersects with sexuality and race the necessary critique of patriarchy and institutions as they relate to colonization within the Canadian nation state and the ways in which contemporary critiques are formed and expressed Heavily illustrated with representative works Desire Change raises both the stakes and the concerns of contemporary feminist art with an understanding that feminism is always and necessarily plural Space Tourism Erik Cohen, Sam Spector, 2019-09-06 This is the first comprehensive multi disciplinary work on the emergent phenomenon of space tourism It is written by leading specialists and covers a wide spectrum of topics including space history and technology the environmental social and legal aspects of the development of a future space tourism industry and space tourism marketing
