Intimations Of Reality Critical Realism In Science And Religion:

Intimations of Reality Arthur Robert Peacocke, 1984 Ernan McMullin and Critical Realism in the Science-Theology Dialogue Paul L. Allen, 2016-05-13 Scientists philosophers and theologians have wrestled repeatedly with the question of whether knowledge is similar or different in their various understandings of the world and God Although agreement is still elusive the epistemology of critical realism associated with Ian Barbour John Polkinghorne and Arthur Peacocke remains widely credible Relying on the lifetime work of philosopher Ernan McMullin this book expands our understanding of critical realism beyond a permanent stand off between the subjective and objective whether in science or theology Critical realism illuminates the subject and the objectively known simultaneously Responding to criticisms made against it this book defends critical realism in science and theology with a specific role to play in our understanding of God Christianity and Critical Realism Andrew Wright, 2013-05-07 One of the key achievements of critical realism has been to expose the modernist myth of universal reason which holds that authentic knowledge claims must be objectively pure uncontaminated by the subjectivity of local place specific time and particular culture Wright aims to address the lack of any substantial and sustained engagement between critical realism and theological critical realism with particular regard to a the distinctive ontological claims of Christianity b their epistemic warrant and intellectual legitimacy and c scrutiny of the primary source of the ontological claims of Christianity namely the historical figure of Jesus of Nazareth As such it functions as a prolegomena to a much needed wider debate guided by the under labouring services of critical realism between Christianity and various other religious and secular worldviews This important new text will help stimulate a debate that has yet to get out of first gear This book will appeal to academics graduate and post graduate students especially but also Christian clergy ministers and informed laity and members of the general public concerned with the nature of religion and its place in contemporary society Theology as the Science of God Ximian Xu, 2022-06-13 The revival of Calvinism in the nineteenth century Netherlands entailed the neo Calvinist movement With Abraham Kuyper Herman Bavinck became a brand name of neo Calvinism Nonetheless not until the first decade of the twenty first century was scholarly interest in Bavinck s work increasing The conventional two Bavincks model used to read his work for much of the twentieth century argues that some contradictory and irreconcilable themes do exist in Bavinck s system which makes Bavinck a self contradictory thinker This dualistic reading characterised most of Bavinck scholars in the second half of the twentieth century Since James Eglinton s new reading of Bavinck s organic motif the conventional model became untenable and scholars are seeking for a reunited Herman Bavinck Bavinck as a holistic theologian has become the industry standard of Bavinck studies Ximian Xu aims on the one hand to maintain one Bavinck on the other hand and more importantly to fill in a notable gap in Bavinck scholarship that is no single work hitherto has focused on Bavinck s idea of theology as the wetenschap science of God This study demonstrates that the idea of scientific wetenschappelijke theology furnishes the meta paradigm and cardinal model that incorporates the fundamental characteristics and themes of Bavinck's dogmatic system. Moreover, it argues that Bavinck's scientific theology makes an attempt to engage with the other sciences. Given this, Bavinck's scientific theology is relevant today. That is, Bavinck's theological insights can be deployed to advance theology's engagement with the other sciences in contemporary secular universities.

Interdisciplinary Interpretation Kenneth A. Reynhout, 2013-06-20 The past fifty years has seen the emergence of an energetic dialogue between religion and the natural sciences that has contributed to a growing desire for interdisciplinarity among many constructive theologians. However, some have also resisted this trend in part because it seems that the price one must pay for such engagement is much too high. Interdisciplinary work appears overly abstract and methodologically restrictive with little room for systematic theologians self-consciously operating within a particular historical tradition. In Interdisciplinary Interpretation: Paul Ricoeur and the Hermeneutics of Theology and Science, Kenneth A. Reynhout seeks to address this concern by constructing an alternative understanding of interdisciplinary theology based on the hermeneutical thought of Paul Ricoeur, generally recognized as one of the most interdisciplinary philosophers of the twentieth century. Appealing to Ricoeur's view of interpretation as the dialectical process of understanding through explanation, Reynhout argues that theology's engagement with the natural sciences is fundamentally hermeneutical in character. As such, interdisciplinary theologians can faithfully borrow meaning from the sciences through a process of interdisciplinary interpretation, a process that can honestly attend to the legitimate challenges posed by the natural sciences without automatically requiring the evacuation of theological norms and convictions. Reynhout's creative appropriation of Ricoeur's hermeneutics succeeds in providing a novel interdisciplinary vision not only for theology but also for interdisciplinary work in general.

The Blackwell Companion to Modern Theology Gareth Jones, 2008-04-15 In this major reference work, a team of the world's leading theologians provides a powerful overview of modern theology. Covers theology's relation to other disciplines, the history of theology, major themes, key figures, and contemporary issues. Can be used as the basis for an introductory course or as an essential reference source.

Science And Theology Ted Peters, 2019-05-20 How can we think about God's action in a quantum world of indeterminacy in a world that began with a Big Bang in a world in which life evolved and is continually evolving in a world governed by entropy and heading toward its eventual heat death? These are some of the most perplexing questions that have arisen from the rapid scientific and techno-

Dimensions of Faith Steve Donaldson, 2015-07-28 In Dimensions of Faith, cognitive scientist Steve Donaldson takes readers on a journey from the world of assumptions, set minds, widely varying beliefs, and popular misconceptions to an understanding of the true essence and role of faith as the natural and inevitable product of brains. Using numerous illustrations and examples, Donaldson shows how faith is necessitated by a variety of unavoidable limitations, exposes the myth of a divide between faith and critical thinking, provides practical advice for crafting coherent beliefs, and explains why there can never be such a place as Factland. Along the way, he takes a special look at religious faith, evaluating its attributes, exploring its relation to other manifestations of faith investigating whether God has done his job well enough to warrant the faith placed in him and pondering how truth seekers can sometimes end up in very different places State of Affairs Richard J

Coleman,2015-03-26 The last sixty years have witnessed a virtual explosion of interest in how modern science and traditional Christianity intersect This new rapprochement with science has irrevocably altered how Christians think of God providing a foundation from which we cannot retreat but from which we also cannot move forward until we examine the presumptions on which it is based For the first time Richard J Coleman interprets in a clear and meaningful way the themes and practitioners that make this rapprochement different and what it has achieved But this book is more than description it is an inquiry into whether Christian theology has lost its authentic voice by its singular focus on accommodating modern science Beyond

Evangelicalism Steven Knowles,2016-12-05 A prolific author and thinker Stanley J Grenz was a respected and influential figure not only within evangelicalism but in the wider theological world Amongst the many issues tackled by him it is perhaps his revisioning of evangelical theology in the light of the postmodern challenge that has caused the biggest stir in the theological world Advocating a nonfoundationalist methodology Grenz attempts to re position evangelical theology in line with postmodern concerns This work examines the main traits of postmodern thought that would seem to directly challenge how evangelical theology is traditionally done An examination of the seminal influences on Grenz will be traced in order to understand more fully the position he takes A rigorous critique and assessment of his theological methodology will follow with the conclusion that his work goes beyond evangelicalism This will be the first book length treatment on Grenz s work on theological methodology and therefore will break new ground in this important area of study Realism and Christian

Faith Andrew Moore,2003-03-27 The question of realism that is whether God exists independently of human beings is central to much contemporary theology and church life It is also an important topic in the philosophy of religion This book discusses the relationship between realism and Christian faith in a thorough and systematic way and uses the resources of both philosophy and theology to argue for a Christocentric narrative realism Many previous defences of realism have attempted to model Christian belief on scientific theory but Moore argues that this comparison is misleading and inadequate on both theological and philosophical grounds In dialogue with speech act theory and critiques of realism by both non realists and Wittgensteinians a new account of the meaningfulness of Christian language is proposed Moore uses this to develop a regulative conception of realism according to which God s independent reality is shown principally in Christ and then through Christian practices and the lives of Christians Science, Literature and Rhetoric in Early Modern England David

Burchell,2017-03-02 These essays throw new light on the complex relations between science literature and rhetoric as avenues to discovery in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Scholars from a variety of disciplinary backgrounds examine the agency of early modern poets playwrights essayists philosophers natural philosophers and artists in remaking their culture and reforming ideas about human understanding Analyzing the ways in which the works of such diverse writers as Shakespeare Bacon Hobbes Milton Cavendish Boyle Pope and Behn related to contemporary epistemological debates these essays move us toward a better understanding of interactions between the sciences and the humanities during a seminal phase in the emergence of modern Western thought

Our Common Cosmos Zoë Lehmann Imfeld, Andreas Losch, 2018-12-27 This volume collects an international body of voices as a timely response to a rapidly advancing field of the natural sciences The contributors explore how the disciplines of theology earth and space sciences contribute to the debate on constantly expanding ethical challenges and the prospect of humanity's future The discussions offered in this volume see the community as central to a sustainable and ethical approach to earth and space sciences examining the role of theology in this communal approach but also recognizing theology itself as part of a community of humanity disciplines Examining the necessity for interaction between disciplines this collection draws on voices from biodiversity studies geology aesthetics literature astrophysics and others to illustrate precisely why a constructive and sustainable dialogue is needed within the current scientific climate

The Routledge Companion to the Study of Religion, The Creative Suffering of the Triune God Gloria L. Schaab, 2007-10-18 The global reality of suffering and death has always demanded an authentic theological response and impelled debate concerning God's relationship to suffering as well as the conceivability of the suffering of God The scope and impact of this suffering in the last century have driven this debate to an acute pitch demanding to know how one can speak rightly of God in view of the suffering that is inherent and inflicted in the cosmos While in former ages some looked to an omnipotent and impassible deus ex machina in answer to this question many contemporary theologians have revised their understanding of God in relation to the world With these theologians Gloria Schaab proposes that a viable response to cosmic suffering is the recognition that the triune Christian God participates in the very sufferings of the cosmos itself She sets her argument within theology and science dialogue and specifically within the work of scientist theologian Arthur Peacocke Informed by the understandings of evolutionary science grounded within a panentheistic paradigm of the God-world relationship and rooted within the Christian theological tradition this work contends that the understanding of the Triune God as intimately involved with the suffering of the cosmos is viable and efficacious in view of the suffering of the cosmos and its creatures It develops a female procreative model of the creative suffering of the Triune God an ecological ethics based on the midwife model of care and a pastoral model of threefold differentiation of suffering in God as steps toward Christian praxis in response to the mystery of God within the pain suffering and death of cosmic existence and human experience

Conceptions of Social Inquiry J. J. Snyman, 1993 Religion and American Education Warren A. Nord, 2014-07-01 Warren Nord's thoughtful book tackles an issue of great importance in contemporary America the role of religion in our public schools and universities According to Nord public opinion has been excessively polarized by those religious conservatives who would restore religious purposes and practices to public education and by those secular liberals for whom religion is irrelevant to everything in the curriculum While he maintains that public schools and universities must not promote religion he also argues that there are powerful philosophical political moral and constitutional reasons for requiring students to study religion Indeed only if religion is included in the curriculum will students receive a truly liberal education one that takes seriously a variety of ways of understanding the human experience Intended for a broad audience Nord s comprehensive study encompasses American history constitutional law educational theory and practice theology philosophy and ethics It also discusses a number of current controversial issues including multiculturalism moral education creationism academic freedom and the voucher and school choice movements

Divine Action and Modern Science Nicholas Saunders,2002-10-31 Divine Action and Modern Science considers the relationship between the natural sciences and the concept of God acting in the world Nicholas Saunders examines the Biblical motivations for asserting a continuing notion of divine action and identifies several different theological approaches to the problem He considers their theoretical relationships with the laws of nature indeterminism and probabilistic causation His book then embarks on a radical critique of current attempts to reconcile special divine action with quantum theory chaos theory and quantum chaos As well as considering the implications of these problems for common interpretations of divine action Saunders also surveys and codifies the many different theological philosophical and scientific responses to divine action The conclusion reached is that we are still far from a satisfactory account of how God might act in a manner that is consonant with modern science despite the copious recent scholarship in this area

Personal Identity, the Self, and Ethics F. Santos,Santiago Sia,2007-08-16 Going beyond the controversy surrounding personhood in non philosophical contexts this book defends the need for a credible philosophical conception of the person Engaging with John Locke Derek Parfit and P F Strawson the authors develop an original philosophical anthropology based on the work of Charles Hartshorne and A N Whitehead

The Humble Approach Rev Ed John Marks Templeton,1998-05-10 For generations the discoveries of science tended to challenge the very existence of God Templeton makes a striking argument for just the opposite point of view He goes to the writings of many of the world s leading scientific thinkers as diverse in background as Albert Einstein and Teilhard de Chardin and discovers them in awe of the universe perceiving the hand of Divine mystery at work The Humble Approach teaches that man can discover and comprehend only a few of the infinite aspects of God s nature never enough to form a comprehensive theology The humble approach may be a science still in its infancy but it seeks to develop a way of knowing God appropriate to His greatness and our littleness
