William Franklin Phelps

Into Teachers Hands:

In Teachers' Hands Richard J. Stiggins, Nancy Faires Conklin, 1992-07-01 This book marks the starting point of a profound shift in assessment priorities detailing the results of a decade long program of research on classroom assessment environments It demonstrates how important sound classroom assessments are to student well being and provides insights into the complex demands of day to day classroom assessment on teachers who have been taught little about assessment in their training programs As a nation we spend billions of dollars on educational assessment including hundreds of millions for international and national assessments and additional hundreds of millions for statewide testing programs On top of these the standardized tests that form the basis of district wide testing programs represent a billion dollar industry If we total all of these expensive highly visible politically important assessments we still account for less than one percent of all the assessments conducted in America s schools The other 99 percent are conducted by teachers in their classrooms on a moment to moment day to day and week to week basis Paradoxically virtually all of our national state and local assessment resources are being devoted to research and development for large scale assessments This book provides specific action programs for improving the quality of the other 99 percent the assessments that really drive what students learn and how they feel about it *The Educator's Instruments.
