The Screen in Surrealist Art and Thought Haim Finkelstein,2017-07-05 An interrogation of the notion of space in Surrealist theory and philosophy this study analyzes the manifestations of space in the paintings and writings done in the framework of the Surrealist Movement Haim Finkelstein introduces the screen as an important spatial paradigm that clarifies and extends the understanding of Surrealism as it unfolds in the 1920s exploring the screen and layered depth as fundamental structuring principles associated with the representation of the mental space and of the internal processes that eventually came to be linked with the Surrealist concept of psychic automatism Extending the discussion of the concepts at stake for Surrealist visual art into the context of film literature and criticism this study sheds new light on the way film thinking permeates Surrealist thought and aesthetics

In early chapters Finkelstein looks at the concept of the screen as emblematic of a strand of spatial apprehension that informs the work of young writers in the 1920s such as Robert Desnos and Louis Aragon. He goes on to explore the way the spatial character of the serial films of Louis Feuillade intimated to the Surrealists a related mode of vision associated with perception of the mystery and the Marvelous lurking behind the surfaces of quotidian reality. The dialectics informing Surrealist thought with regard to the surfaces of the real with walls, doors and windows as controlling images are shown to be at the basis of André Breton's notion of the picture as a window. Contrary to the traditional sense of this metaphor, Breton's window is informed by the screen paradigm with its surface serving as a locus of a dialectics of transparency and opacity, permeability and reflectivity. The main aesthetic and conceptual issues that come up in the consideration of Breton's window metaphor lay the groundwork for an analysis of the work of Giorgio de Chirico, René Magritte, Max Ernst, André Breton and Joan Miró. He concludes chapter 10.

Dalí & I Stan Lauryssens, 2024-09-04. An extraordinary memoir of fortune, fraud and the master of modern art. Art dealer Stan Lauryssens made millions in modern art but he sold only one name: Salvador Dalí. The surrealist painter's work was a hot commodity for the newly rich investors and shady businessmen looking to launder their black market cash. Stan didn't mind looking the other way; he just hoped the buyers would look the other way as well. The artworks he sold came from some very questionable sources but he soon discovered that the shadiest source of all was Dalí himself. The more successful Stan became, the closer he came to Dalí until he found himself living next door to the aging artist in the Catalan hills. While hiding from Interpol's detectives, Stan spent his time with the artists, musicians, business associates and eccentrics who surrounded Dalí. He learned about Dalí's secret history, the studio of artists who produced his work and the moneymaking machine that kept Dalí's extravagant lifestyle afloat long after his creativity began to flounder. Dalí offers a behind-the-scenes view of the commerce and conspiracy that go hand in hand in the international art world, written by a man who has been to the top only to discover that it's not so different from the bottom.
