ABSTRACT

This article examines the use of interpretation and overinterpretation in understanding Ja'far Ibn Hasan al-Barzanji's text, Mawlid al-Barzanji, one of the religious literatures in Indonesia. The results of the study indicate that Mawlid Al-Barzanji which contain majesty, miracles, prayer, and profound love for the Prophet is widely responded by Indonesian Muslims through the process of reading, interpretation, and appreciation. Such widespread acceptance is due to the fulfillment of interpretation requirements which requires the existence of a common world view between author and reader or interpreter. On the other hand, overinterpretation occurs when the text of Mawlid Al-Barzanji is interpreted by those who have different world views as a result of different religious ideas and religious ideologies. Such overinterpretation invites negative response, ideological prejudice, and rejection of some parts of Al-Barzanji text by those who identify themselves as a salafi group.

Keywords: interpretation, overinterpretation, Mawlid al-Barzanji, religious literature.

INTRODUCTION

Religious literary works have existed in Indonesia since the advent of Islam in the Archipelago approximately in the 7th century AD (Qadir, 2004: 75). Islamic propagators in the Archipelago, especially whose background were Sufism, brought the works of Islamic religious literature from the Middle East, partly characterized by Sufism. Therefore, religious literature is also often referred to sufi work or prophetic work (Anwar, 2007: 12).

Religious literary works with sufi pattern usually describe one's inner experience in religious matters which aims to express his life experience so as to be beneficial for others. Sufi literary work is a sufi literature in a way that such literary work is influenced, inspired, imbued with sufi insight. Sufi literature is literature that appears to remind people to God and to live out His directions. Sufi works always connect art and creation with a broader life, trying to reunite the earth and the sky, outer world and inner world, social dimension and transcendental dimension, microscopic and macroscopic, man and his Creator (Anwar, 2007: 11). According to Mangunwijaya, Sufi literature is a work expressed profoundly with the language of the heart, not a piece of literature that simply contains religious issues, but already at the level of religiosity (Mangunwijaya, 1994: 11). Meanwhile, prophetic literature is literature that reveals the teachings and life of the prophets. However, in Kuntowijoyo's view (2006: 13), prophetic literature is a literature that fights against social system that degrades the dignity of man to narrow-mindedness, resulting in dehumanization.

Before initiating the concept of prophetic literature, Kuntowijoyo also introduced the concept of transcendental literature, the literature questioning the man in the middle of modern life which tend to be bureaucratic, industry-oriented, market-oriented, and instrumental (Anwar, 2007: 11). The transcendental Literature wishes that

Authorship Christine Angela Knoop,2011 The scholarly debate about authorship has not only transcended all aspects of literary studies but has also prompted contemporary authors to counter subvert and challenge it One author to whom this applies in particular is Milan Kundera In this study Christine Knoop re examines Kundera s essayistic and novelistic work against the background of the theoretical paradigms of literary authority intention and ownership In so doing she demonstrates how he overcomes traditional theoretical distinctions by postulating the existence of both a strong powerful author figure and of potentially boundless literary meaning Kundera s radically ambiguous conception of the author in the novel developed primarily to influence the reader is discussed and developed to cast new light on the critical debate about authorship at large while maintaining his primary conjecture that authorship as such is perpetually hybrid dynamic and unfinished Christine Angela Knoop is a Postdoctoral Research Associate for Comparative Literature at Freie Universitat Berlin Outsider Theory Jonathan Eburne,2018-09-18 A vital and timely reminder that modern life owes as much to outlandish thinking as to dominant ideologies What do the Nag Hammadi library Dan Brown s The Da Vinci Code speculative feminist historiography Marcus Garvey s finances and maps drawn by asylum patients have in common Jonathan P Eburne explores this question as never before in Outsider Theory a timely book about outlandish ideas Eburne brings readers on an adventure in intellectual history that stresses the urgency of taking seriously especially in an era of fake news ideas that might otherwise be discarded or regarded as errant unfashionable or even unreasonable Examining the role of such thinking in contemporary intellectual history Eburne challenges the categorical demarcation of good ideas from flawed wild or bad ones addressing the surprising extent to which speculative inquiry extends beyond the work of professional intellectuals to include that of nonprofessionals as well whether amateurs unfashionable observers or the clinically insane Considering the work of a variety of such figures from popular occult writers and gnostics to so called outsider artists and pseudoscientists Eburne argues that an understanding of its circulation and recirculation is indispensable to the history of ideas He devotes close attention to ideas and texts usually omitted from or marginalized within orthodox histories of literary modernism critical theory and continental philosophy yet which have long garnered the critical attention of specialists in religion science studies critical race theory and the history of the occult In doing so he not only sheds new light on a fascinating body of creative thought but also proposes new approaches for situating contemporary humanities scholarship within the history of

Truth, Beauty, and Goodness in Biblical Narratives Kris Sonek,2009-05-05 A modern reader studying biblical narratives encounters various literary approaches and ways of understanding interpretive concepts Hence an attempt to put forward a comprehensive hermeneutical model of reading biblical narratives Such a model should aim at a synthesis of various approaches and show how they are interrelated The book proposes a hermeneutical theory which uses modern approaches to literary texts for the exegesis of biblical narratives The book discusses three spheres of the reader s knowledge about reality immanent narrative and transcendental The move from immanent to transcendental knowledge through the mediation of narrative knowledge results from the mediatory role played by the biblical text which refers the reader to a transcendent reality This theory is then applied to the exegesis of Genesis 21 1 21 and involves the evaluation of the New Criticism rhetorical criticism structuralism and narrative analysis reader response criticism the historical critical method as well as deconstruction In order to satisfy the postulate of pluralism in interpretation the hermeneutical theory draws upon a variety of ancient and modern sources such as Aristotle T S Eliot Hans Urs von Balthasar and Paul Ric ur

Deconstructive Field Theory Pasquale De Marco,2025-03-15 Semiotics the study of signs and symbols is a vast and complex field that has become increasingly influential in a wide range of disciplines in recent decades One of the most important and controversial topics in semiotics is the question of interpretation How do we interpret signs and symbols What are the limits of interpretation And what are the dangers of overinterpretation This book offers a new approach to interpretation called deconstructive field theory Deconstructive field theory is based on the idea that all interpretations are partial and incomplete and that there is no such thing as a single definitive interpretation of a text Instead every interpretation is a product of the particular context in which it is produced The context of an interpretation includes the reader s own experiences beliefs and values as well as the historical and cultural context in which the text was produced Deconstructive field theory argues that these factors all play a role in shaping the way that we interpret texts and that there is no way to eliminate their influence However deconstructive field theory does not argue that all interpretations are equally valid Some interpretations are more plausible and convincing than others and some are more useful for understanding a text The goal of deconstructive field theory is to help readers develop more sophisticated and nuanced interpretations of texts and to avoid the dangers of overinterpretation This book is intended for students and scholars of semiotics as well as for anyone who is interested in the study of interpretation It is written in a clear and accessible style and it is full of examples from literature film and popular culture We hope that this book will help you to understand the complex and fascinating world of semiotics and to see the world around you in a new light If you like this book write a review Knowledge Goes Pop Clare Birchall,2020-05-26 A voice on late night radio tells you that a fast food joint injects its food with drugs that make
