Interviewing Young Children About Body Touch and Handling Margaret Steward,David Steward,2000-07-20 This Monograph discusses the ability of a young child to report the facts when witness to crimes or violence in their homes

Children aged 3-6 years were interviewed following a scheduled pediatric clinic visit to assess the efficacy of two independent variables: interview strategy and number of interviews on the accuracy, completeness, and consistency of children's reports. Four experimental interviews were created: a verbal interview and three interviews enhanced with anatomically detailed cues: dolls, line drawings, and computer graphics, photographs, and props.

Evidence-based Child Forensic Interviewing Karen J. Saywitz, Lorinda B. Camparo, 2013-08-09 Interviewers face a dilemma when questioning children in a forensic context: an inherent mismatch between the needs of the legal system and the capabilities of young children. This is especially problematic when legal decisions with potentially serious consequences depend on the results of the interview, such as in cases involving eyewitness memory, divorce, and allegations of abuse and neglect. Without accommodations to a child's developmental level, interviews can result in false reports, miscommunication, and misinterpretation despite an interviewer's best intentions. Evidence-based Child Forensic Interviewing addresses this discrepancy and presents an innovative approach to close the gap by providing the scaffolding structure and guidance children need to perform optimally. Created by Drs. Karen J. Saywitz and Lorinda B. Camparo and outlined in this guide, the Developmental Narrative Elaboration (DNE) Interview is an evidence-based, step-by-step process and set of techniques for forensic contexts designed to help children ages 3-12 accurately tell as much as they can about their experiences and perceptions. The DNE is comprised of a developmentally sensitive core template and optional techniques that can be embedded at the interviewer's discretion as cases unfold. This book reviews the relevant research and then, with sample language transcripts and suggested activities, details a three-phased interview with examples. This empirically supported guide is designed to meet the needs of both novice and seasoned professionals in mental health, social service, law enforcement, and the legal system when children's input is needed for legal and social service decision making.

Motivational Interviewing for Working with Children and Families Donald Forrester, David Wilkins, Charlotte Whittaker, 2021-07-13 Drawing on 20 years of practical experience, research, and teaching in the field, this book is a comprehensive guide on the use of Motivational Interviewing (MI) in child protection and family social work. MI increases the likelihood of behavioural change, working with client resistance, to encourage a constructive environment when initiating difficult conversations. This makes it particularly effective for child and family social care. Drawing on over 500 studies spanning 11 local authorities, this book uses recordings of real meetings between social workers and families to explain what MI is, how it can be used in child and family social work, and how to improve MI skills. An invaluable resource for frontline child protection and family social workers, this book will enable you to better understand the needs of the people you support and be more effective in providing the right kind of support.
