The Semantics of Clause Linking R. M. W. Dixon, Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald, 2009-08-06 This book is a cross linguistic examination of the grammatical means languages employ to represent a set of semantic relations between clauses Professor Dixon's opening discussion is followed by fourteen case studies of languages ranging from Korean and Kham to Iquito and Ojibwe The book's concluding synthesis is provided by Professor Aikhenvald

The Manambu Language of East Sepik, Papua New Guinea Alexandra Aikhenvald, 2010-06-17 This book is the first comprehensive description of the Manambu language of Papua New Guinea and is based entirely on the author's immersion fieldwork Manambu belongs to the Ndu language family and is spoken by about 2 500 people in five villages Avatip Yawabak Malu Apap and Yambon Yuanab in East Sepik Province Ambunti district Manambu can be considered an endangered language The Manambu language has many unusual properties Every noun is considered masculine or feminine Feminine gender which is unmarked is associated with small size and round shape and masculine gender with elongated shape large size and importance The Manambu culture is centered on ownership of personal names and is similar to that of the Iatmul described by Gregory Bateson After an introductory account of the language and its speakers Professor Aikhenvald devotes chapters to phonology grammatical relations word classes gender semantics number case possession derivation and compounding pronouns morphohology verbs mood and modality negation clause structure pragmatics discourse semantics the lexicon current directions of change and genetic relationship to other languages The description is presented in a clear style in a framework that will be comprehensible to all linguists and linguistically oriented anthropologists

Language Contact in Amazonia Aleksandra IľUľr'evna Aikhenval'd, 2002 This book considers how forms and meanings of different languages at different times may resemble one another and what the explanation is for this The author aims a to explain and identify the relationship between areal diffusion and the genetic development of languages and b to discover the means of distinguishing what may cause one language to share the characteristics of another This is done using the example of Arawak and Tucanoan languages spoken in the large area of the Vaup's river basin in northwest Amazonia which spans Colombia and Brazil In this region language is seen as a badge of identity language mixing interaction and influence are resisted for ideological reasons Professor Aikhenvald considers which grammatical categories are most and which are least likely to be borrowed in a situation of prolonged language contact where lexical borrowing is reduced to a minimum She provides a genetic analysis of the languages of the region and considers their historical relationships with languages of the same family outside it. She also examines changes brought about by recent contact with European languages and culture and the linguistic and cultural effects of being part of a group that is aware its language and identity are threatened. The book is presented in relatively nontechnical language and will interest linguists and anthropologists.

A grammar of Gyeli Nadine Grimm, 2021. This grammar offers a grammatical description of the Ngo lo variety of Gyeli, an endangered Bantu A80 language spoken by 4 000 5 000 Pygmy hunter gatherers in southern Cameroon. It represents one of the most comprehensive descriptions of a northwestern Bantu language. The grammatical description, which is couched in a form-to-function approach, covers all levels of language ranging from Gyeli phonology to its information structure and complex clauses. It draws on nineteen months of fieldwork carried out as part of the Bagyeli Bakola DoBeS Documentation of Endangered Languages project between 2010 and 2014. The resulting multimodal corpus from that project, which includes texts of diverse genres such as traditional stories, narratives, multi-party conversations and dialogues, procedural texts and songs, provides the empirical basis for the grammatical description. The documentary text collection, supplemented by data from elicitation work, questionnaires and experiments, are accessible in the Bagyeli Bakola collection of The Language Archive. With additional ethnographic, sociolinguistic, diachronic and comparative remarks, the grammar may appeal to a wider audience in general linguistics, typology, Bantu studies and anthropology.

In 2019, the grammar received the Pini Award by the Association for Linguistic Typology.

The Negative Existential Cycle Ljuba Veselinova, Arja Hamari, 2022-12-20. In 1991, William Croft suggested that negative existentials, typically lexical expressions that mean 'not exist' or 'not have', are one possible source for negation markers and gave his hypothesis the name Negative Existential Cycle (NEC). It is a variationist model based on cross-linguistic data. For a good twenty years following its formulation, it was cited at face value without ever having been tested by historical comparative data. Over the last decade, Ljuba Veselinova has worked on testing the model in a comparative perspective, and this edited volume further expands on her work. The collection presented here features detailed studies of several language families such as Bantu, Chadic and Indo-European. A number of articles focus on the micro-variation and attested historical developments within smaller groups and clusters such as Arabic, Mandarin and Cantonese and Nanaic. Finally, variation and historical developments in specific languages are discussed for Ancient Hebrew, Ancient Egyptian, Moksha, Mordvin, Uralic, Bashkir, Turkic, Kalmyk, Mongolic, three Pama-Nyungan languages, Odam, Southern Uto-Aztecan and Tacana, Takanan, Amazonian Bolivia. The book is concluded by two chapters devoted to modeling cyclical processes in language change from different theoretical perspectives. Key notions discussed throughout the book include affirmative and negative existential constructions, the expansion of the latter into verbal negation and subsequently from more specific to more general markers of negation. Nominalizations as well as the uses of negative existentials as standalone negative answers figure among the most frequent pathways whereby negative existentials evolve as general negation markers. The operation of the Negative

Existential Cycle appears partly genealogically conditioned as the cycle is found to iterate regularly within some families but never starts in others as is the case in Bantu In addition other special negation markers such as nominal negators are found to undergo similar processes i e they expand into the verbal domain and thereby develop into more general negation markers The book provides rich information on a specific path of the evolution of negation on cyclical processes in language change and it show cases the historical comparative method in a modern setting
