Postal and Delivery Services Michael A. Crew,Paul R.

Kleindorfer,2013-12-01 When Postmaster General Creswell penned his concern about the impact of electronic diversion on his postal organization the year was 1872 General Creswell it turned out fretted unnecessarily Facsimile did not achieve commercial viability until roughly a century after his tenure as Postmaster General and today that technology is fading rapidly from the communication scene Moreover it never appears to have significantly affected physical letter volumes However if General Creswell were leading a major postal organization today he likely would feel threatened by the potential of Internet communication to cause electronic diversion of physical mail Should recent technology developments cause the oft predicted but so far incorrect inflection point that would mark the beginning of declining mail volumes the implications from a management standpoint will be profound The relatively fixed nature of postal costs suggest that volume declines must be offset though improved productivity reduced cost of inputs revenue from new products that share common costs or reduced level of universal service

Forecasting the Internet David G. Loomis, L.D. Taylor, 2012-12-06 David O Loomis Illinois State University The explosive growth of the Internet has caught most industry experts off guard While data communications was expected to be the wave of the future few industry observers foresaw how rapid the change in focus from voice communications towards data would be Understanding the data communications revolution has become an urgent priority for many in the telecommunications industry Demand analysis and forecasting are critical tools to understanding these trends for both Internet access and

Internet backbone service Businesses have led residential customers in the demand for data services but residential demand is currently increasing exponentially Even as business demand for data communications is becoming better understood residential broadband access demand is still largely unexplored Cable modems and ADSL appear to be the current residential broadband choices yet demand elasticities and econometric model based forecasts for these services are not currently available The responsiveness of customers to price and income changes and customer s perceptions of the tradeoff in product characteristics between cable modems and ADSL is largely unknown Demand for Internet access is derived from the demand for applications which utilize this access access is not demanded independent of its usage Thus it is important to understand Internet applications in order to understand the demand for access The Encyclopedia of Public Choice Charles

Rowley,Friedrich Schneider,2008-01-25 The Encyclopedia provides a detailed and comprehensive account of the subject known as public choice However the title would not convey sufficiently the breadth of the Encyclopedia s contents which can be summarized better as the fruitful interchange of economics political science and moral philosophy on the basis of an image of man as a purposive and responsible actor who pursues his own objectives as efficiently as possible This fruitful interchange between the fields outlined above existed during the late eighteenth century during the brief period of the Scottish Enlightenment when such great scholars as David Hume Adam Ferguson and Adam Smith contributed to all these fields and more However as intellectual specialization gradually replaced broad based scholarship from the nineteenth century onwards it became increasingly rare to find a scholar making major contributions to more than one Once Alfred Marshall defined economics in neoclassical terms as a narrow positive discipline the link between economics political science and moral philosophy was all but severed and economists redefined their role into that of the humble dentist providing technical economic information as inputs to improve the performance of impartial benevolent and omniscient governments in their attempts to promote the public interest This indeed was the dominant view within an economics profession that had become besotted by the economics of John Maynard Keynes and Paul Samuelson immediately following the end of the Second World War Heightening Competition in the Postal and Delivery Sector Michael A.
