Sustainable Development and Planning VII Ö. Özçevik,C.A. Brebbia,S.M. Şener,2015-05-19 This book contains the proceedings of the seventh in a series of biennial conferences on the topic of sustainable regional development that began in 2003 Organised by the Wessex Institute the conference series provides a common forum for all scientists specialising in the range of subjects included within sustainable development and planning In order to ensure that planning and development can meet our present needs without compromising future generations planners environmentalists architects engineers policy makers and economists must work together The use of modern technologies in planning gives us new potential to monitor and prevent environmental degradation In recent years in many countries an increase in spatial problems has led to planning crises Planning problems are often associated with uneven development deterioration of the quality of urban life and destruction of the environment The increasing urbanisation of the world coupled with the global issues of environmental pollution resource shortage and economic restructuring demand that we ensure a decent quality of life for our cities Other environments such as rural areas forests coastal regions and mountains face their own problems that urgently require solutions in order to avoid irreversible damage Effective strategies for management should consider planning and regional development two closely related disciplines and emphasise the demand to handle these matters in an integrated way The papers in the book cover such topics as Regional Planning City Planning Sustainability and the Built Environment Cultural Heritage Environmental Management Environmental Policies and Planning Sustainable Tourism Resources Management Social and Political Issues Rural Developments Sustainable Solutions in Emerging Countries Transportation Energy Resources Environmental Economics Sustainable Assessment Sustainable Development Indicators Sustainability Modelling Governance Resilience Community Planning Planning for Equality Quality of Life      Enterprising Worlds Jay D. Gatrell, Neil Reid, 2007-05-16 Enterprising World represents the culmination of several years of work by geographers planners and economists The chapters represent the collective efforts of the International Geographical Union's Commission on the Dynamics of Economic Spaces This collection is the result of the 2005 annual meeting in Toledo Ohio USA The chapters have been selected based on their contribution to the broader community of economic geographers and policymakers and to demonstrate the inherent interconnectedness of these themes and at times the conceptual tension that exists between ethics economics and the environment insofar as these important issues shape the contours and cleavages of contemporary regional development In particular the chapters represent the diversity of perspectives on these issues The authors provide insight into the workings of a variety of communities regions and nations as they seek to balance economic growth with the growing necessity to simultaneously promote ethical and sustainable regional development As such this book is truly international in both scale and scope and provides the reader with a survey of emerging and established concepts theories and conflicts in economic geography      Nationalising and Denationalising European Border Regions, 1800-2000 Hans Knippenberg, J. Markusse, 2012-12-06 During the last two centuries the political map of Europe has changed considerably More recently there are remarkably contrasting tendencies concerning the functions and densities of borders

The borders inside the European Union lost their importance whereas Central and Eastern Europe saw the birth of a multitude of new state borders. The long term study of border regions therefore is a fascinating subject for geographers, historians, social scientists and political scientists. The main thesis of this book is that the rise of the modern nation state reinforced the separating function of state borders by nationalising the people on both sides of it. This process gained strength in the late 19th and early 20th centuries and was challenged in the second half of this century by processes of supra national integration, globalisation and the revolution in communication and transport. As the case studies from different parts of Europe of this book will show, Audience: This book will be of interest to academics, researchers and practitioners in geography, history, political sciences, European studies and East European studies.

Democratic and Capitalist Transitions in Eastern Europe M. Dobry, 2000-06-30

here of exchange and borrowing in debates between these disciplines all the more so as we shall see a little further on as the analysis of the Central and East European transformations has also contributed to introduce into political science and sociology theoretical systematizations first formulated in economics. In addition to this opening up to the objects and theories of economics, the pseudo dilemma of simultaneity produced by a kind of feedback, another series of effects on transitology and the related research domains. Contrary to most expectations and predictions in the wake of the 1989 upheavals, affirmations that the dilemmas, problems or challenges of the transitions in Central and Eastern Europe ought to have been dealt with and resolved one after the other in sequence in the manner of the more or less idealized trajectories of Great Britain or Spain, trajectories significantly enough promoted far beyond the circles of scholars as a model of transition and above all contrary to the assumption that superposing a radical economic transformation upon a transition to democracy would make the whole edifice thoroughly unworkable, unstable or dangerous, it must be stated clearly out that the two processes in their simultaneity are not necessarily incompatible. This is one of the main findings stressed upon in several chapters of this book.
