Future Of Development Financing Challenges And Strategic Choices:

The Future of Development Financing F. Sagasti, K. Bezanson, F. Prada, 2005-06-14 Today's international development financing system seems like a collection of disjointed entities that often work at cross purposes without being able to mobilize enough finance for developing countries in their efforts to reduce poverty and improve living standards This book brings together the vast array of new initiatives in financing mechanisms and proposals to transform the development finance architecture Based on four different scenarios for the next ten year period proposals are made for how to reach an effective system

International Organizations Revisited Dennis Dijkzeul, Dirk Salomons, 2021-08-13 Despite the sustained scholarly attention that the United Nations and international NGOs have received in the twenty first century they still remain under researched from a management studies perspective This volume brings together rich analyses of these organizations functioning arguing that they are best understood as intermediaries between international decision making and funding bodies in the developed world and initiatives that take place on the ground primarily in the Global South Based on current management research this follow up to Rethinking International Organizations Berghahn 2002 provides a wealth of both empirical and theoretical insights along with practical recommendations how these organizations can function more effectively

The New Public Finance Inge Kaul, Pedro Conceicao, 2006-02-23 Globalisation has meant the closer integration of countries and a greater need for collective action This book which contains 24 essays from contributors from around the world provides one of the first systematic treatments of public finance in this new era It deals with such topics as increasing aid efficiency public private cooperation and competition and taking the outside world into consideration

The European Union and International Development Maurizio Carbone, 2007-12-12 The European Union is a leading actor in international development providing more than half of the world's foreign aid but also a unique case combining the characteristics of a bilateral and a multilateral donor Despite the general acknowledgment that policy coordination substantially improves both the effectiveness of foreign aid and the visibility of the EU in the international arena Member States have consistently resisted any intrusion into what they consider a key area of their national sovereignty The increases in volume of aid the ambitious agenda on aid effectiveness and the adoption of the European Consensus on Development indicate a change of direction Using development policy as a starting point this book provides a systematic analysis of the interaction between the European Commission and Member States It explores the conditions in which the European Commission influences outcomes in the EU decision making process It ultimately argues that the European Commission plays a leadership role but this leadership is contingent upon the presence of an institutional entrepreneur its internal cohesiveness and the astute use of a repertoire of tactics Demonstrating that development policy may provide fresh insights into EU integration theory this book will be of interest to students and scholars of European Politics and International Development

The G20 Development Agenda Parthasarathi Shome, 2015 This book focuses on major development

themes in the G20's agenda in the provision of global public goods

Financing Regional Growth and the Inter-American Development Bank Ernesto Vivares, 2013-05-02 The crisis of the current global financial order is challenging us to critically reflect on how this order has been driven and the development outcomes produced by its central political and economic actors. There is a great deal of academic knowledge about the role of the international financial institutions, powerful states and capital markets in international development, but there is little understanding of how regional dynamics and regional institutions influence global governance and developing countries. This book offers an independent and grounded investigation concerning the political economic role of Regional Development Banks through a study of the world's leading regional development bank, the Inter American Development Bank (IDB). The book examines the political economy of the IDB and its role in regional and national development during the neoliberalisation processes of the 1990s. In particular, the investigations explore the IDB's power in regional and national development via its technical, political and financial interventions to frame policy alternatives, absorb opposition forces, support specific coalition forces and justify a particular direction of development, all in order to legitimize specific political economic projects directed by market-led pro-reform coalitions aligned with global financial forces and financial development guidelines. This book will be relevant to scholars and professionals interested in the international and regional political economy of development financing.

Do-Gooders at the End of Aid Antoine de Bengy Puyvallée, Kristian Bjørkdahl, 2021-07-22 This book argues that policymakers capitalize on Scandinavia's humanitarian reputation in world affairs to legitimize their policy and diplomatic interests.

Latin American and Caribbean International Institutional Law Marco Odello, Francesco Seatzu, 2015-07-10 This book is one of the few comprehensive works focusing on the sub-regional institutions in the Latin American and Caribbean region. These organisations and institutions enrich the co-operation at sub-regional level, but in most cases are neglected in legal literature. They have mainly economic purposes, but they also contribute to new forms of institutional co-operation in other areas, including financial, political and social matters. The volume addresses some of the most representative of these institutions, such as the Mercosur, the Andean Community and sub-regional financial organisations, e.g. Central American Bank for Economic Integration and Andean Development Corporation, as well as new developments including the UNASUR and the Alliance for the Pacific. It provides updated information on the structure and changes of the institutions and constitutes a valuable resource for those wishing to keep pace with legal developments in the fast-moving world of international institutional law. The book will appeal to a wide audience, including researchers and practitioners specialising in international law and international organisations and related disciplines.

Marco Odello JD, Rome LLM Nottingham PhD Madrid is a Reader in Law at Aberystwyth University, Wales, UK. Francesco Seatzu JD, Cagliari PhD Nottingham is Professor of International and European Law at the University of Cagliari, Sardinia, Italy.

International Finance and Development Jose Antonio Ocampo, Jan Kregel, Stephany Griffith-Jones, 2007-04 This publication reviews the major financing issues influencing economic development since the historic Monterrey Consensus of the International Conference on Financing for Development in 2002. It contains four main chapters under the headings of international private capital flows, official development financing, external debt and systemic issues.

Governing Cotton A. Sneyd, 2011-01-28. This book traces the historic relationships between cotton production, the international cotton trade and poverty south of the Sahara and assesses various approaches to corporate social responsibility and nongovernmental policy advocacy in this area.

From Recipients to Donors Doctor Emma Mawdsley, 2012-08-09. From Recipients to Donors examines the emergence or re emergence of a large number of nations as partners and donors in international development from global powers such as Brazil, China and India to Gulf states such as Saudi Arabia to former socialist states such as Poland and Russia. The impact of these countries in international development has grown sharply and as a result they have become a subject of intense interest and analysis. This unique book explores the range of opportunities and challenges this phenomenon presents for poorer countries and for development policy, ideology and governance. Drawing on the author's rich original research whilst expertly condensing published and unpublished material, From Recipients to Donors is an essential critical analysis and review for anyone interested in development aid and international relations.

Management of International Institutions and NGOs Eduardo Missoni, Daniele Alesani, 2013-12-17. International Institutions: IIs, International NGOs, INGOs and Transnational Hybrid Organizations. THOs play a hugely important role in the modern world economy. Despite having been studied by scholars from a range of disciplines, these organizations have never before been approached from a management perspective. This ambitious book analyzes the management challenges associated with international cooperation and sheds light on how these organizations have evolved as the political, economic and business environments have changed around them. Covering an admirably broad canvas, the authors pursue two main objectives. Firstly, they explore the main management frameworks developed in the context of the corporate and national public non profit organizations and adapt them to the specificity of IIs and INGOs. This leads to the identification of a tailored approach to IO management based on their institutional and operational settings, stakeholder groups, core business, staff profile and financial arrangements. Secondly, they bring theory into practice by linking frameworks to several case studies and best practices of organizations currently experimenting with management systems and tools, with case studies including the World Bank and the Gates Foundation. This comprehensive textbook is a must own resource for students and academics involved with studying and working with international organizations.

Regional Financial Cooperation Jose Antonio Ocampo, 2007-08-29. A Brookings Institution Press and Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) publication. Using the experience of postwar Western Europe as a benchmark, Jose Antonio Ocampo and his colleagues assess how regional financial institutions can help developing countries, often at a disadvantage within the global financial framework, finance their investment needs, counteract the volatility of private capital flows and make their voices heard. The 1997 Asian financial crisis generated extensive debate on the international financial architecture Through this discussion it became clear that services by financial institutions including adequate mechanisms for preventing and managing financial crises and instruments for safeguarding global macroeconomic and financial stability are undersupplied Furthermore private international capital markets provide finance to developing countries in a way that effectively reduces the ability of those nations to undertake countercyclical macroeconomic policies International capital markets ration out many developing countries particularly the poorest from private global capital markets While these deficiencies in the financial architecture are clear the post 1997 debate has done little to evaluate the role that regional institutions could play in improving global financial arrangements Regional Financial Cooperation aims to fill that important gap Contributors include Ernest Aryeetey Institute of Statistical Social and Economic Research University of Ghana Georges Corm Saint Joseph University Beirut Roy Culpeper North South Institute Ottawa Ana Teresa Fuzzo de Lima Institute of Development Studies University of Sussex Stephany Griffith Jones Institute of Development Studies University of Sussex Julia Leung Hong Kong Monetary Authority Jos Luis Machinea ECLAC Jae Ha Park Korean Institute of Finance Yung Chul Park Korea University Fernando Prada FORO Nactional International Lima Guillermo Rozenwurcel School of Politics and Government University of San Martin Argentina

Green Economy and Climate

Aid, Growth and Poverty Jonathan Glennie,Andy

Sumner,2016-05-30 The authors discuss the impact of foreign aid and tackle the question of why assessing the impact of aid is so difficult The authors focus on peer reviewed cross country studies published over the last decade and draw together some global level assessments considering the context and conditions under which aid might be said to work Glennie and Sumner argue that the evidence in four areas shows signs of convergence that may have direct relevance for policy decisions on aid and for aid effectiveness discussions These are as follows Aid levels meaning if aid is too low or too high Domestic political institutions including political stability and extent of decentralisation Aid composition including sectors modalities objectives and time horizons and Aid volatility and fragmentation Notably this study finds that there is no consensus that the effectiveness of aid depends on orthodox economic policies

Sustainable Development in International Law Making and Trade Elisabeth Bürgi Bonanomi, 2015-09-25 This timely book provides an accessible insight into how the concept of sustainable development can be made operational through its translation into legal terms Understood as a multidimensional legal principle sustainable development facilitates coherent international law making Using this notion as an analytical lens on the WTO Agreement on Agriculture the book considers the unresolved question of what a sustainable and coherent agricultural trade agreement could look like
