The National Council for Higher Education and the Growth of the University Sub-sector in Uganda, 2002-2012 Kasozi, A.B.K., 2017-05-05. The National Council for Higher Education NCHE and the Growth of the University Sub sector in Uganda 2002-2012 narrates the experience of the Ugandan NCHE in the establishment, development and regulation of higher education institutions in Uganda from 2002 to 2012. In this period, student numbers in higher education institutions increased from about 65 000 to some 200 000 and university institutions from about ten to more than triple the number. The book discusses the role of a regulatory agency in the delivery of higher education, the relations of universities and colleges with such an agency, its impact on developing university capacities and leadership in creating and refining higher education ideas. The experience of Uganda's regulatory agency, the NCHE, in those ten years should help both the Ugandan and other African countries' higher education stakeholders in sharing lessons learned from this one case study. The author sees the roles of regulatory agencies as vital in the initial stages of building a higher education sub sector and in periods of system transitions such as the current journey from elite to mass systems, but is of the view that the university remains the home of knowledge creation, dissemination and its application in society.

Cutting Edge Internal Auditing Jeffrey Ridley, 2008-04-30. Cutting Edge Internal Auditing provides guidance and knowledge for every internal auditor, encouraging each to pioneer new ground in the development of their professional practices in all risk management, control and governance processes. Serving as an excellent reference guide that develops a pattern of internal auditing now and for the future, this book explores the concept of cutting edge internal auditing as an imaginative adventure, demonstrating how this has influenced and will continue to influence the development of professionalism in internal auditing. Built on the foundations of Jeffrey Ridley's extensive internal auditing experience across the public and private sectors, the author uses his articles and research to explore and develop the motivations, goals and categories of innovation in internal auditing today. It develops and brings up to date an imaginative internal auditing model created and used by the author in the early 1980s, drawing on research and guidance by The Institute of Internal Auditors Inc, its Research Foundation and the Institute of Internal Auditors UK and Ireland. Each chapter stands alone by focusing on an individual internal auditing theme, considered from both the perspective of internal auditing and its customers, to suggest an appropriate vision as a goal for every internal audit activity. Each chapter also includes self-assessment questions to challenge the readers' understanding of its messages. The companion website contains some of the author's training slides and seventy case studies, many written by leading internal audit practitioners. This book creates a vision for future cutting edge internal auditing.
