 Sheldon Annis, 2010-06-04 Since the late 1970s Protestantism has emerged as a major force in the political and economic life of rural Guatemala Indeed as Sheldon Annis argues in this book Protestantism may have helped tip Guatemala's guerrilla war in behalf of the army during the early 1980s But what is it about Protestantism and about Indians that has led to massive religious conversion throughout the highlands And in villages today what are the dynamics that underlie the competition between Protestants and Catholics Sheldon Annis addresses these questions from the perspective of San Antonio Aguas Calientes an Indian village in the highlands of midwestern Guatemala Annis skillfully blends economic and cultural analysis to show why Protestantism has taken root The key character in his drama is the village Indian's tiny plot of corn and beans the milpa which Annis analyzes as an idea as well as an agronomic productive system By exploring milpa logic Annis shows how the economic environmental and social shifts of the twentieth century have acted to undercut the colonial creation of Indianness and in doing so have laid the basis for new cultural identities Traditional Weavers of Guatemala Deborah Chandler, Teresa Córdón, Joe Coca, 2015-09-01 Against the backdrop of Guatemala this book presents portraits of artisans working in the ancient traditions of the Maya paired with insights into the creation of the textiles and the events that have affected their work Weaving spinning and basket making have sustained the Maya economically and culturally against the pressures of change and a 36 year civil war that decimated their population Their persistence in continuing traditional art has created some of the loveliest most colorful textiles the world has ever known Artisans share their personal histories hopes and dreams along with the products of their hands and looms Their stories show determination in the face of unimaginable loss and hardship which instill an appreciation for the textiles themselves and for the strong people who create them
