Appreciating Physical Landscapes T.A. Hose ,2016-02-01 Geotourism as a form of sustainable geoheritage tourism was defined and developed from the early 1990s to contextualize modern approaches to geoconservation and physical landscape management However its roots lie in the late seventeenth century and the emergence of the Grand Tour and its domestic equivalents in the eighteenth century Its participants and numerous later travellers and tourists including geologists and artists purposefully explored wild landscapes as geotourists The written and visual records of their observations underpin the majority of papers within this volume these papers explore some significant geo historical themes organizations individuals and locations across three centuries opening with seventeenth century elite travellers and closing with modern landscape tourists Other papers examine the resources available to those geotourists and explore the geotourism paradigm The volume will be of particular interest to Earth scientists historians of science tourism specialists and general readers with an interest in landscape history

Bank & Thrift Branch Office Data Book ,1998 Quaternary of South-West England S. Campbell, C.O. Hunt, James D. Scourse, D.H. Keen, N. Stephens, 2012-12-06 STRUCTURE OF THE VOLUME AND TERMINOLOGY USED This book contains scientific descriptions of 63 localities Figure A of at least national importance for Quaternary geology geomorphology and environmental change in South West England These sites were selected by the Geological Conservation Review and are accordingly designated GCR sites Chapter 1 provides an introduction to the Quaternary Chapter 2 synthesizes the geomorphological development and Quaternary history of the region and outlines the principles involved in site selection The individual GCR site descriptions form the core of the book In the following chapters sites are arranged and described in broad geographic areas and by research topic This is necessitated by the widely disparate nature of the field evidence in South West England sites demonstrating the full range of Quaternary and geomorphological features are not evenly and conveniently dispersed throughout the region and some areas have significant gaps Neither do the individual chapters contain sites that necessarily equate with particular site selection networks Rather the chosen chapter headings provide the least repetitive means of describing the sites and background material Where possible a chronological approach from oldest to youngest has been used to describe sites within a given chapter Again this approach is not always possible and a group of sites may show variations on landform or Stratigraphic evidence broadly within one major time interval or chronostratigraphic stage inevitably there are many overlaps
