Carmichael, 2015-12-01 Challenging the popular conception of Southern youth on the eve of the Civil War as intellectually lazy violent and dissipated Peter S Carmichael looks closely at the lives of more than one hundred young white men from Virginia's last generation to grow up with the institution of slavery. He finds them deeply engaged in the political, economic, and cultural forces of their time. As he concludes, special concerns for young men who spent their formative years in the 1850s. Before the Civil War, these young men thought long and hard about Virginia's place as a progressive slave society. They vigorously lobbied for disunion despite opposition from their elders, then served as officers in the Army of Northern Virginia as frontline negotiators with the non-slaveholding rank and file. After the war, however, they quickly shed their Confederate radicalism to pursue the political goals of home rule and New South economic development and reconciliation. Not until the turn of the century, when these men were nearing the ends of their lives, did the mythmaking and storytelling begin, and members of the last generation recast themselves once more as unreconstructed Rebels. By examining the lives of members of this generation on personal as well as generational and cultural levels, Carmichael sheds new light on the formation and reformation of Southern identity during the turbulent last half of the nineteenth century.

Official Awards Pacific International Livestock Exposition, Inc., 1925 The Last Wizard of Earth Larry W. Miller Jr., 2010-11-24 The human race is dying. An unknown enemy came from the stars with one goal: Kill all the humans. Our technology as impressive as it is, with colonists spread across a large portion of the galaxy, is useless in the face of this new threat. One small ship, the Lost Cavalier, hatches a desperate plan to find a new weapon against this unstoppable enemy: magic. The desperate crew attempts to travel back in time to retrieve the Last Wizard of Earth. They need to alter or even avoid the war that mankind cannot afford to lose. Their journey is fraught with peril for the enemy is hunting down the battered ship, and they must find new allies in order to complete the mission at all costs. For if they fail, humanity itself will disappear forever. Last in Their Class James Robbins, 2017-03-21 Today's Goat, the celebrated West Point cadet finishing at the bottom of his class, carries on a long and storied tradition. George Custer's contemporaries at the Academy believed that the same spirit of adventure that led him to blow post at night to carouse at local taverns also motivated his dramatic cavalry attacks in the Civil War and afterwards. And the same willingness to stoically accept punishment for his hijinks at the Academy also sent George Pickett marching into the teeth of the Union guns at Gettysburg. The story James S. Robbins tells goes from the beginnings of West Point through the carnage of the Civil War to the grassy bluffs over the Little Big Horn. The Goats he profiles tell us much about the soul of the American soldier, his daring imagination, and desire to prove himself against high odds. The Last Days of the Barons Edward Bulwer-Lytton, Baron Lytton, 1853 The Lawyer's Last Words Alan Watson, 2023-12-08 Upon his release from a prison in the South of France, Marlon Crappy, a daunting and fierce behemoth of a man, unexpectedly discovers he's now a wealthy heir courtesy of his late brother's estate. This sudden fortune, including a luxury yacht, only fuels his thirst for revenge. He's convinced that the affluent owners of a grand chateau are responsible for his brother's tragic end. However, the chateau's proprietors are not to be trifled with. Comprising an ex-US Navy Seal, a formidable Dutch Judo Champion, and the enigmatic Eva, a former French Secret Service agent, they are a force
