

The background of the entire image is a sunset over a dark, choppy ocean. The sun is a bright, glowing orb on the horizon, casting a warm, orange and yellow light across the sky and reflecting on the water's surface. Two wooden Adirondack chairs are floating in the water. One chair is in the foreground on the right, angled towards the viewer. The other chair is further back on the left, also angled. The chairs are made of light-colored wood with slatted backs and seats. The overall mood is nostalgic and serene.

takes us on a sister's unflinching exploration into grief for a brother lost on a solo hike in the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness in northern Minnesota. His clothes are found but not his body. How does one mourn without a body? This absence calls up memories of his life and mixed emotions it evokes other disappearances: children missing in Iraq, climbers lost on Everest, a college student drowned. Even though I've said for two years now I don't need his body to do my mourning, I'm suddenly desperate to touch your arms, muscled and tan. Full of verbal energy and rich patterns of sound, Lloyd's lines are allowed to breathe and move about in always interesting forms: prose poems, found poems, section poems, swirling mosaics of time and place. Beautifully crafted, the poems are emotionally complex yet accessible. Roseann Lloyd has published eight books, including three poetry collections: Because of the Light (Holy Cow Press), War Baby (Express Holy Cow Press), awarded the Minnesota Book Award for Poetry, and Tap Dancing for Big Mom (New Rivers Press). The anthology she co-edited with Deborah Keenan, Looking for Home: Women Writing About Exile (Milkweed Editions), was awarded an American Book Award. She lives in Minneapolis, Minnesota.
