events and the Web gaining an increasing audience for poetry Close Listening opens a number of new avenues for the critical discussion of the sound and performance of poetry

Expressive Networks Matthew Kilbane, 2025-06-10 Expressive Networks convenes an urgent conversation on digital media and the social life of contemporary poetry Tracing how poems circulate through online spaces and how capitalized platforms have come to pattern the reading and writing of poetry contributors emphasize both the expressivist cast of digital literary culture and the deep running ambivalence that characterizes aesthetic and critical responses to platformed cultural production The volume features chapters on Pan African spoken word programs Singaporean Facebook groups decolonial hemispheric networks and Japanese media critical poetics as well as platforms such as Twitter X Instagram and Amazon Though contributors write from a variety of methodological positions and address themselves to a range of archives they share the primary conviction that the impact of Web 2.0 on literary practice is far reaching far from self evident and far more variegated and unpredictable than easy summations of social media's influence suggest Expressive Networks asks after poetry's present and future by examining what poems themselves express about the social make up of networked platforms Edited by Matthew Kilbane with contributions from Cameron Awkward Rich Micah Bateman Andrew Campana Sumita Chakraborty Scott Challener C. The Passion of Meter Brennan O'Donnell, 1995 This is a study of Wordsworth's metrical theory and his practice in the art of versification It provides a detailed treatment of what Wordsworth calls the innumerable minutiae that the art of the poet depends upon and of the broader vision to which these minutiae contribute

Rethinking Meter Alan Holder, 1995 This study finds that in scanning poetry the commitment to the foot as a unit of measure satisfies a desire for a poem to display a system But that system is achieved only at the cost of distorting or obscuring the true stress configuration of verse lines The foot also comes into play in setting up the notion of an ideal line supposedly heard by the mind's ear and said to be in tension or counterpoint with the actual line Rethinking Meter discards this approach as removing us from our authentic experience of a poem's movement Before presenting its own view of meter the book takes up the issues of how the words of a poem are to be enunciated the place of pauses and the notion of the line as the essential formal feature marking off poetry from prose Focusing on iambic pentameter Rethinking Meter proceeds to offer a view of metrical patterns that discards the foot entirely

Gaylord, 2013-05-13 These fifteen essays four of them commissioned for this volume along with a discursive introduction which sets each essay into place and comments on its distinctive features represent a gathering never before attempted a symposium on Chaucer's craft that concentrates on his poetic forms his rhythms his riming his versification his prosody In his seminal essay Scanning the Prosodists Alan Gaylord the editor of this volume had asked To show how Chaucer moves and in moving moves us is that not what the study of his prosody should do Should it not identify a pattern of sounds in motion a regular and expressive succession which is part of the order of verse and a major component of its effectiveness In the two decades that followed that essay a number of distinguished scholars provided a variety of answers for such questions arising from the author's work as metrical theorists or editors of medieval verse or literary historians or critics but in every case such work connected to the initiatives and discoveries of the classroom The best written and most useful of those essays by recognized authorities in their fields have been included in this volume The volume will be of use to the advanced student of Chaucer and medieval poetry and to the teacher interested in identifying explaining and bringing to life the patterns of sound and sense in Chaucer's verse The extensive master Bibliography for the whole volume comprises a library of references which will have been reviewed and discussed in the essays      Poetry's Data Meredith Martin, 2025-04-22 Why literary studies must confront digital mediation We live and research in a technologically mediated landscape in which old models of reading and researching methods that presume an autonomous single scholar gathering resources and making claims no longer hold Scholars have yet to theorize either the embeddedness of their sources inside multiple layers of mediation or their own place in an information ecosystem that demands our active participation In Poetry's Data Meredith Martin explores what current access to data might mean for mapping the discourse of poems Martin's account of her work learning about digital humanities so that she could build a database of historic prosodic materials becomes a through line in a narrative that chronicles how literature has understood poetry's data its sounds from the sixteenth century to the present day Digital knowledge infrastructures have historical antecedents that scholars have been trained to theorize And yet as Martin points out we have not been trained to identify and navigate let alone critique the current landscape of knowledge production Through five chapters and five examples from the Princeton Prosody Archive Martin shows that the histories of mediation and format are essential to the teaching of poetry and poetic form
