Meanings of Music Participation C. Victor Fung, Lisa J. Lehmberg, 2022-08-26 This book uncovers the multifaceted nature of music participation through a collection of studies in a wide variety of musical contexts across the United States. The contributors combine personal voices and vivid narratives with scholarship to present many potential meanings of music participation and lay out research-based implications for lifelong music education. Exploring music participation in choral and instrumental ensembles, school music classes, and community groups in person and virtual spaces among children, young adults, and older adults, and for native-born citizens and immigrants, the 10 original studies in this volume present a diverse portrait of musical engagement. The chapters draw out themes including enjoyment, identity, development, learner autonomy, social interaction, motivation, commitment, and quality of life, and draw connections between musical meanings and philosophical principles from both Western and Eastern traditions. Linked by interludes that connect the empirical studies with philosophical interpretations, this volume brings together multiple methodologies and perspectives to consider the social, cultural, and psychological meanings of lifelong music participation. It offers a valuable resource for scholars, professionals, and students working in school and community music or music education research, as well as readers interested in general education, social psychology, lifelong learning, and aging studies.

Music and Musicians in the Medieval Islamic World Lisa Nielson, 2021-04-22 During the early medieval Islamic period (800–1400 CE), discourses concerned with music and musicians were wide-ranging and contentious and expressed in works on music theory and philosophy as well as literature and poetry. But in spite of attempts by influential scholars and political leaders to limit or control musical expression, music and sound permeated all layers of the social structure. Lisa Nielson here presents a rich social history of music, musicianship, and the role of musicians in the early Islamic era. Focusing primarily on Damascus, Baghdad, and Jerusalem, Lisa Nielson draws on a wide variety of textual sources written for and about musicians and their professional/private environments, including chronicles, literary sources, memoirs, and musical treatises, as well as the disciplinary approaches of musicology, to offer insights into musical performances and the lives of musicians. In the process, the book sheds light onto the dynamics of medieval Islamic courts, as well as how slavery, gender, status, and religion intersected with music in courtly life. It will appeal to scholars of the Islamic world and historical musicologists.
