English Field Systems:

Studies of Field Systems in the British Isles Alan R. H. Baker, 1973-07-19 An enormous amount of research into British field systems has been undertaken by historical geographers economic historians and others since H L Gray s classic work on English Field Systems was published This book both synthesizes and advances our knowledge of field systems in the British Isles

Field Systems and Farming Systems in Late Medieval England Bruce M.S. Campbell, 2023-05-31 The later Middle Ages was an overwhelmingly rural world with probably three out of four households reliant upon farming for a living Yet conventional accounts of the period rarely do justice to the variety of ways in which the land was managed and worked The thirteen essays collected in this volume draw upon the abundant documentary evidence of the period to explore that diversity In the process they engage with the issue of classification without which effective generalisation is impossible and offer a series of solutions to that particularly thorny methodological challenge Only through systematic and objective classification is it possible to differentiate between and map different field systems husbandry types and land use categories That in turn makes it possible to consider and evaluate the relative roles of soils and topography institutional structures and commercialised market demand in shaping farm enterprise both during the period of mounting population before the Black Death and the long era of demographic decline that followed it What emerges is an agrarian world more commercialised differentiated and complex than is usually appreciated whose institutional and agronomic contours shaped the course of agricultural development for centuries to come

The Origins of Open Field Agriculture Trevor Rowley, 2019-06-26 Originally published in 1981 The Origins of Open Field Agriculture looks at the problems connected with open field agriculture the origins of strip cultivation the three field system the adaptation of Celtic fields and the development of ploughing techniques The book looks at the challenges to traditional ideas on the origins of settlement and their associated economy and casts new light on understandings of village development The book suggests that conventional views of the nucleated village in the midst of open field strips as a product of the Anglo Saxon migration is no longer tenable The book brings together the work of distinguished archaeologists historians and historical geographers and opens up a new perspective on the early development of medieval agriculture

Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain s landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved approach to agricultural development in Europe leading to the Rise of the West      The Open Field System and Beyond Carl J. Dahlman, 1980-05-15 In this book Professor Dahlman applies modern economic methodology to an old historical problem. He demonstrates how the quaint institutions of the ancient English open field system of agriculture can be understood as an intelligent and rational adaptation to a particular problem of production and to certain historical circumstances. He argues that the two major characteristics of this type of agriculture – scattered strips owned by individual peasants and extensive areas of common land – both fulfilled vital economic functions. This overturns the traditional view of the open field system as inefficient and rigidly bound by tradition and throws light on the behaviour of medieval peasants. Professor Dahlman also offers some generalisations about the economic theory of institutions and institutional change, refuting the idea that an economic analysis of institutions must necessarily be deterministic. As a challenge to some of the fundamental criticisms of the application of economic theory to historical problems, the book will be of great interest to agrarian historians and to economic historians generally, as well as to specialists in the medieval period.

Regions, Institutions, and Agrarian Change in European History Rosemary Lynn Hopcroft, 1999 An institutional

Medieval East Anglia Christopher Harper-Bill, 2005 Medieval East Anglia, one of the most significant and prosperous parts of England in the middle ages, examined through essays on its landscape, history, religion, literature and culture. East Anglia was the most prosperous region of medieval England, far from being an isolated backwater, it had strong economic, religious and cultural connections with continental Europe. With Norwich for a time England's second city, the essays in this volume bring out the importance of the region during the middle ages. Spanning the late eleventh to the fifteenth century, they offer a broad coverage of East Anglia's history and culture. Particular topics examined include its landscape, urban history, buildings, government and society, religion and rich culture. Contributors: Christopher Harper-Bill, Tom Williamson, Robert E. Liddiard, P. Maddern, Brian Ayers, Elisabeth Rutledge, Penny Dunn, Kate Parker, Carole Rawcliffe, James Campbell, Lucy Marten, Colin Richmond, T. M. Colk, Carole Hill, T. A. Heslop, A. E. Oliver, Theresa Coletti, Penny Granger, Sarah Salih.

Reader's Guide to British History David Loades, 2020-12-17 The Reader's Guide to British History is the essential source to secondary material on British history. This resource contains over 1 000 A-Z entries on the history of Britain from ancient and Roman Britain to the present day. Each entry lists 6-12 of the best known books on the subject, then discusses those works in an essay of 800 to 1 000 words prepared by an expert in the field. The essays provide advice on the range and depth of coverage, as well as the emphasis and point of view espoused in each publication.

English Field Systems Howard Levi Gray, 1969      Lordship and Community Cord Oestmann, 1994 The everyday lives of ordinary villagers, their attitudes and responses to their physical and spiritual surroundings, are brought into close focus. The impact of matters ranging from ecclesiastical reform to basic matters such as birth and death are revealed at all levels of village society. In particular, the relationship of the LeStrange family to the village and its inhabitants.

The Landscape Archaeology of Anglo-Saxon England N. J. Higham, Martin J. Ryan, 2010 The Anglo-Saxon period was crucial to the development of the English landscape but is rarely studied The essays here provide radical new interpretations of its development Traditional opinion has perceived the Anglo Saxons as creating an entirely new landscape from scratch in the fifth and sixth centuries AD cutting down woodland and bringing with them the practice of open field agriculture and establishing villages Whilst recent scholarship has proved this simplistic picture wanting it has also raised many questions about the nature of landscape development at the time the changing nature of systems of land management and strategies for settlement The papers here seek to shed new light on these complex issues Taking a variety of different approaches and with topics ranging from the impact of coppicing to medieval field systems from the representation of the landscape in manuscripts to cereal production and the type of bread the population preferred they offer striking new approaches to the central issues of landscape change across the seven centuries of Anglo Saxon England a period surely foundational to the rural landscape of today NICHOLAS J HIGHAM is Professor of Early Medieval and Landscape History at the University of Manchester MARTIN J RYAN lectures in Medieval History at the University of Manchester Contributors Nicholas J Higham Christopher Grocock Stephen Rippon Stuart Brookes Carenza Lewis Susan Oosthuizen Tom Williamson Catherine Karkov David Hill Debby Banham Richard Hoggett Peter Murphy Medieval England Edward Miller, John Hatcher, 2014-06-17 This is the first volume of a two volume study of medieval England covering the period between the Norman Conquest and the Black Death The book opens with a summary portrait of the English economy and society in the reign of William I It goes on to examine in detail the population increase from 1086 to 1349 and to investigate the structure of society where relationships were rooted in the dependence of man upon man The Oxford Handbook of Later Medieval Archaeology in Britain Christopher M. Gerrard, Gutiérrez López Gutiérrez, 2018 This Handbook provides an overview of the archaeology of the later Middle Ages in Britain between AD 1066 and 1550 Chapters cover topics ranging from later medieval objects human remains archaeological science standing buildings and sites such as castles and monasteries to the well preserved relict landscapes which still survive Medieval Society and the Manor Court Zvi Razi, Richard Michael Smith, 1996 The records of manorial courts have been used increasingly as the principal source for the reconstruction of rural and small town society in medieval England They offer a unique source with which to investigate peasant demography family patterns the village community and economy the characteristics and instruments of customary law and the ways in which that law was perceived and exploited by landlords and tenants The essays in this collection provide novel approaches to all of these themes and are written by many of the historians who have pioneered the use of this source category in the last two decades In two introductory chapters the editors review the historiography of manorial court rolls and account for their origins as a distinctive record of customary law within the broad context of medieval European society A valuable appendix contains an inventory of the most comprehensive unprinted manorial court roll series arranged systematically on a county to county basis detailing the repository in which they are located This book will serve as an essential reference tool for any serious study of medieval English rural society      Rural Images David Buisseret,1996-07 But these hand drawn maps often displaying elaborate cartouches and elegant coats of arms served as far more than mere records of property ownership they were treasured works of art exhibited for pleasure and as symbols of wealth and passed down from generation to generation

Coming to My Senses George Caspar Homans,2017-07-05 Those interested in the development of scientific theory and in the nature of academic life will appreciate this intellectual autobiography written by one of America s leading sociologists Following his family tradition The Education of Henry Adams was written by his great uncle George Caspar Homans describes how his ideas about the proper nature of theory in social science both in form and content have developed over time The chief interest of the book lies in the description of this process Homans career has spanned many of the key periods of development in social research and his own work has been central to the process He was the first major sociologist to outline the sociological implications of psychologists work on learning or behavior theory His contributions to modern sociology have had a major impact on the study of small groups the problem of theory and methods of theory construction and the study of basic characteristics of social behavior He is regarded as the father of social exchange theory Homans considers academic and intellectual as well as nonacademic influences on his development personalities of highly idiosyncratic individuals against whose views of culturalism functionalism and structuralism he reacted discussions with colleagues reading as well as his ancestry his childhood in Boston his literary education and later social life in Boston and his experiences as a sea captain in the Navy in World War II This is an absorbing book both an autobiography and a history of the development of the social sciences in the post World War II era      The Agrarian History of England and Wales: Volume 3, 1348-1500 Edward Miller,Joan Thirsk,1991-07-18 The third volume of The Agrarian History of England and Wales which was first published in 1991 deals with the last century and a half of the Middle Ages It concerns itself with the new demographic and economic circumstances created in large measure by endemic plague      New Historical Geography of England H.
