allowing students to grasp the conceptual and theoretical tools of cultural geography through the grounded research of leading scholars in the field Each of the eight sections begins with an introduction that discusses the key concepts its history and relation to cultural geography and connections to other disciplines and practices Six to seven abridged book chapters and journal articles each with their own focused introductions are also included in each section The readability broad scope and coverage of both classic and contemporary pieces from the US and UK makes The Cultural Geography Reader relevant and accessible for a broad audience of undergraduate students and graduate students alike It bridges the different national traditions in the US and UK as well as introducing the span of classic and contemporary cultural geography In doing so it provides the instructor and student with a versatile yet enduring benchmark text

A Lost Frontier Revealed Alan Fox, 2010-04 A traveller through the length and breadth of England is soon aware of cultural differences some of which are clearly visible in the landscape The eminent English historian Charles Phythian Adams has put forth that England through much of the last millennium could be divided into regional societies which broadly coincided with groups of pre 1974 counties These shire assemblages in turn lay largely within the major river drainage systems of the country In this unusual study Alan Fox tests for and establishes the presence of an informal frontier between two of the proposed societies astride the Leicestershire Lincolnshire border which lies on the watershed between the Trent and Witham drainage basins The evidence presented suggests a strong case for a cultural frontier zone which is announced by a largely empty landscape astride the border between the contrasting settlement patterns of these neighbouring counties

Perspectives in English Urban History Alan M. Everitt, 1973-06-18 Women, Food Exchange, and Governance in Early Modern England Madeline Bassnett, 2016-11-21 This book is about the relationship of food and food practices to discourses and depictions of domestic and political governance in early modern women's writing It examines the texts of four elite women spanning approximately forty years the Psalms of Mary Sidney Herbert Countess of Pembroke the maternal nursing pamphlet of Elizabeth Clinton Dowager Countess of Lincoln the diary of Margaret Lady Hoby and Mary Sidney Lady Wroth's prose romance Urania It argues that we cannot gain a full picture of what food meant to the early modern English without looking at the works of women who were the primary managers of household foodways In examining food practices such as hospitality gift exchange and charity this monograph demonstrates that women no less than men engaged with vital social cultural and political processes

Region, Religion and Patronage Richard Dutton, Alison Gail Findlay, Richard Wilson, 2003 This groundbreaking book uses the possibility that Shakespeare began his theatrical career in Lancashire to open up a range of new contexts for reading the plays and introduces readers to the non metropolitan theater spaces which formed a vital part of early modern dramatic activity Essays give a detailed picture of the contexts in which the apprentice dramatist would have worked providing new insights into regional performance touring theatre the patronage of the Earls of Derby and the purpose built theater at Prescott

Portraits, Painters, and Publics in Provincial England 1540-1640 Robert

Tittler,2013-09-05 In this the first comprehensive study of post Reformation provincial English portraiture Robert Tittler investigates the growing affinity for secular portraiture in Tudor and early Stuart England a cultural and social phenomenon which can be said to have produced a public for that genre He breaks new ground in placing portrait patronage and production in this era in the broad social and cultural context of post Reformation England and in distinguishing between native English provincial portraiture which was often highly vernacular and foreign influenced portraiture of the court and metropolis which tended towards the formal and polite Tittler describes the burgeoning public for portraiture of this era as more than the familiar court and London based presence but rather as a phenomenon which was surprisingly widespread both socially and geographically throughout the realm He suggests that provincial portraiture differed from the mainstream cosmopolitan portraiture of the day in its workmanship materials inspirations and even vocabulary showing how its native English roots continued to guide its production Innovative chapters consider the aims and vocabulary of English provincial portraiture the relationship of portraiture and heraldry the painter s occupation in provincial as opposed to metropolitan England and the contrasting availability of materials and training in both provincial and metropolitan areas The work as a whole contributes to both art history and social history it speaks to admirers and collectors of painting as well as to curators and academics

Cities and Solidarities Justin Colson,Arie van Steensel,2017-01-06 Cities and Solidarities charts the ways in which the study of individuals and places can revitalise our understanding of urban communities as dynamic interconnections of solidarities in medieval and early modern Europe This volume sheds new light on the socio economic conditions the formal and informal institutions and the strategies of individual town dwellers that explain the similarities and differences in the organisation and functioning of urban communities in pre modern Europe It considers how communities within cities and towns are constructed and reconstructed how interactions amongst members of differing groups created social and economic institutions and how urban communities reflected a sense of social cohesion In answering these questions the contributions combine theoretical frameworks with new digital methodologies in order to provoke further discussion into the fundamental nature of urban society in this key period of change The essays in this collection demonstrate the complexities of urban societies in pre modern Europe and will make fascinating reading for students and scholars of medieval and early modern urban history

The English manor c.1200-c.1500 ,2013-01-01 Provides a comprehensive introduction and essential guide to one of the most important institutions in medieval England and to its substantial archive This is the first book to offer a detailed explanation of the form structure and evolution of the manor and its records Offers translations of and commentaries upon each category of document to illustrate their main features Examples of each category of record are provided in translation followed by shorter extracts selected to illustrate interesting commonly occurring or complex features A valuable source of reference for undergraduates wishing to understand the sources which underpin the majority of research on the medieval economy and society

The Story of England Michael

Wood, 2012-05-29 In The Story of England Michael Wood tells the extraordinary story of one English community over fifteen centuries from the moment that the Roman Emperor Honorius sent his famous letter in 410 advising the English to look to their own defences to the village as it is today. The village of Kibworth in Leicestershire lies at the very centre of England. It has a church, some pubs, the Grand Union Canal, a First World War Memorial and many centuries of recorded history. In the thirteenth century the village was bought by William de Merton who later founded Merton College Oxford with the result that documents covering 750 years of village history are lodged at the college. Building on this unique archive and enlisting the help of the current inhabitants of Kibworth with a village wide archaeological dig with the first complete DNA profile of an English village and with use of local materials like family memorabilia the story of Kibworth is the story of England itself. Who Do You Think You Are for the entire nation. Better than any historian for decades in In Search of England Wood brings home not just the ways in which buildings, landscapes and written texts may be read but the sensual beauty of encounters with them. TLS Michael Wood was born and educated in Manchester. He was an open scholar in Modern History at Oriel College Oxford where he held a Bishop Fraser scholarship in Medieval History as a postgraduate. He has made a number of internationally successful TV series including In the Footsteps of Alexander the Great and four of his books have been UK non-fiction number one bestsellers. His highly acclaimed book of essays on early English history In Search of England was published by Penguin in 1999.
