Narrative structure in the novels of Sir Walter Scott Marian H. Cusac, 2011-10-10 No detailed description available for Narrative structure in the novels of Sir Walter Scott Solved Papers YCT Expert Team , 2023 24 NTA UGC NET JRF English Solved Papers The Victorian Novel Louis James, 2008-04-15 This inspiring survey challenges conventional ways of viewing the Victorian novel Provides time maps and overviews of historical and social contexts Considers the relationship between the Victorian novel and historical religious and bibliographic writing Features short biographies of over forty Victorian authors including Wilkie Collins Charles Dickens George Eliot and Robert Louis Stevenson Offers close readings of over 30 key texts among them Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre 1847 and Bram Stoker's Dracula 1897 as well as key presences such as John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress Pt 1 1676 Pt 2 1684 Also covers topics such as colonialism scientific speculation the psychic and the supernatural and working class reading The Rise of the Novel Nicholas Seager, 2017-09-16 Why have scholars located the emergence of the novel in eighteenth century England What historical forces and stylistic developments helped to turn a disreputable type of writing into an eminent literary form This Reader's Guide explores the key critical debates and theories about the rising novel from eighteenth century assessments through to present day concerns Nicholas Seager Surveys major criticism on authors such as Aphra Behn Daniel Defoe Samuel Richardson Henry Fielding and Jane Austen Covers a range of critical approaches and topics including feminism historicism postcolonialism and print culture Demonstrates how critical work is interrelated allowing readers to discern trends in the critical conversation Approachable and stimulating this is an invaluable introduction for anyone studying the origins of the novel and the surrounding body of scholarship Fictions of the Self, 1550-1800 Arnold Weinstein, 2014-07-14 The author charts the interaction between self and world through four major phases whereby the self initially has marginal status the picaresque begins to flourish and court recognition Defoe Marivaux and Fielding grows defiant and tries to impose its will on society and the other Prevost Richardson Goethe and Laclos and finally makes a prophetic inward turn Diderot Sterne and Rousseau He shows how these phases also reflect the development of literature as it moves from mimetic to generative fiction from the power of gesture to that of word Originally published in 1981 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Worlds Enough Elaine Freedgood, 2022-01-11 A short provocative book that challenges basic assumptions about Victorian fiction Now praised for its realism and formal coherence the Victorian novel was not always great or even good in the eyes of its critics As Elaine Freedgood reveals in

Worlds Enough it was only in the late 1970s that literary critics constructed a prestigious version of British realism erasing more than a century of controversy about the value of Victorian fiction Examining criticism of Victorian novels since the 1850s Freedgood demonstrates that while they were praised for their ability to bring certain social truths to fictional life these novels were also criticized for their formal failures and compared unfavorably to their French and German counterparts She analyzes the characteristics of realism denotation omniscience paratext reference and ontology and the politics inherent in them arguing that if critics displaced the nineteenth century realist novel as the standard by which others are judged literary history might be richer It would allow peripheral literatures and the neglected wisdom of their critics to come fully into view She concludes by questioning the aesthetic racism built into prevailing ideas about the centrality of realism in the novel and how those ideas have affected debates about world literature By re examining the critical reception of the Victorian novel Worlds Enough suggests how we can rethink our practices and perceptions about books we think we know

Metaphors of Mind in Fiction and Psychology Michael S. Kearns,2021-10-21 Curiosity about the human mind what it is and how it functions began long before modern psychology But because the mind and its processes are so elusive they could be described only by means of metaphor Michael Kearns in this prize winning study examines the development of metaphors of the mind in psychological writings from Hobbes through William James and in fiction from Defoe through Henry James Throughout the eighteenth century and even into the early nineteenth metaphors of the mind as a relatively simple entity either mechanical or biological dominated both those engaged in psychological theorizing and novelists ranging from Richardson and Smollett through Dickens and the Brontes In the nineteenth century such psychologists as Herbert Spencer and Alexander Bain conceived of the mind as a complex organism quite different from that embodied in earlier thinking but their figurative language did not keep pace The result was a tension between theoretical expression and actual discussion of mental phenomena

Time patterns in Later Dickens Soultana K. Maglavera,2022-06-08 This study offers a series of readings of Dickens's later novels Bleak House Hard Times Little Dorrit A Tale of Two Cities Great Expectations and Our Mutual Friend The discussions of the novels assume the basic distinction between the arrangement of events in their chronological order story and their arrangement in the narrative plot and are based on Genette's classifications of the various types of anachronies as well as on the more functionally oriented categories of anachronies I myself suggest The temporal organization of the narratives in upsetting the sequential order of events in specific ways invites reflection on the very nature of the notion of causality which in turn is related to two interconnected ideas that truth is not always to be found by logical reasoning and that appearances do not necessarily convey the truth Closely related to these ideas is a Christian attitude towards time both linear and circular forms of time are subsumed and at the same time re formulated within a Christian vision of time informed by the basic human feelings of love and compassion
